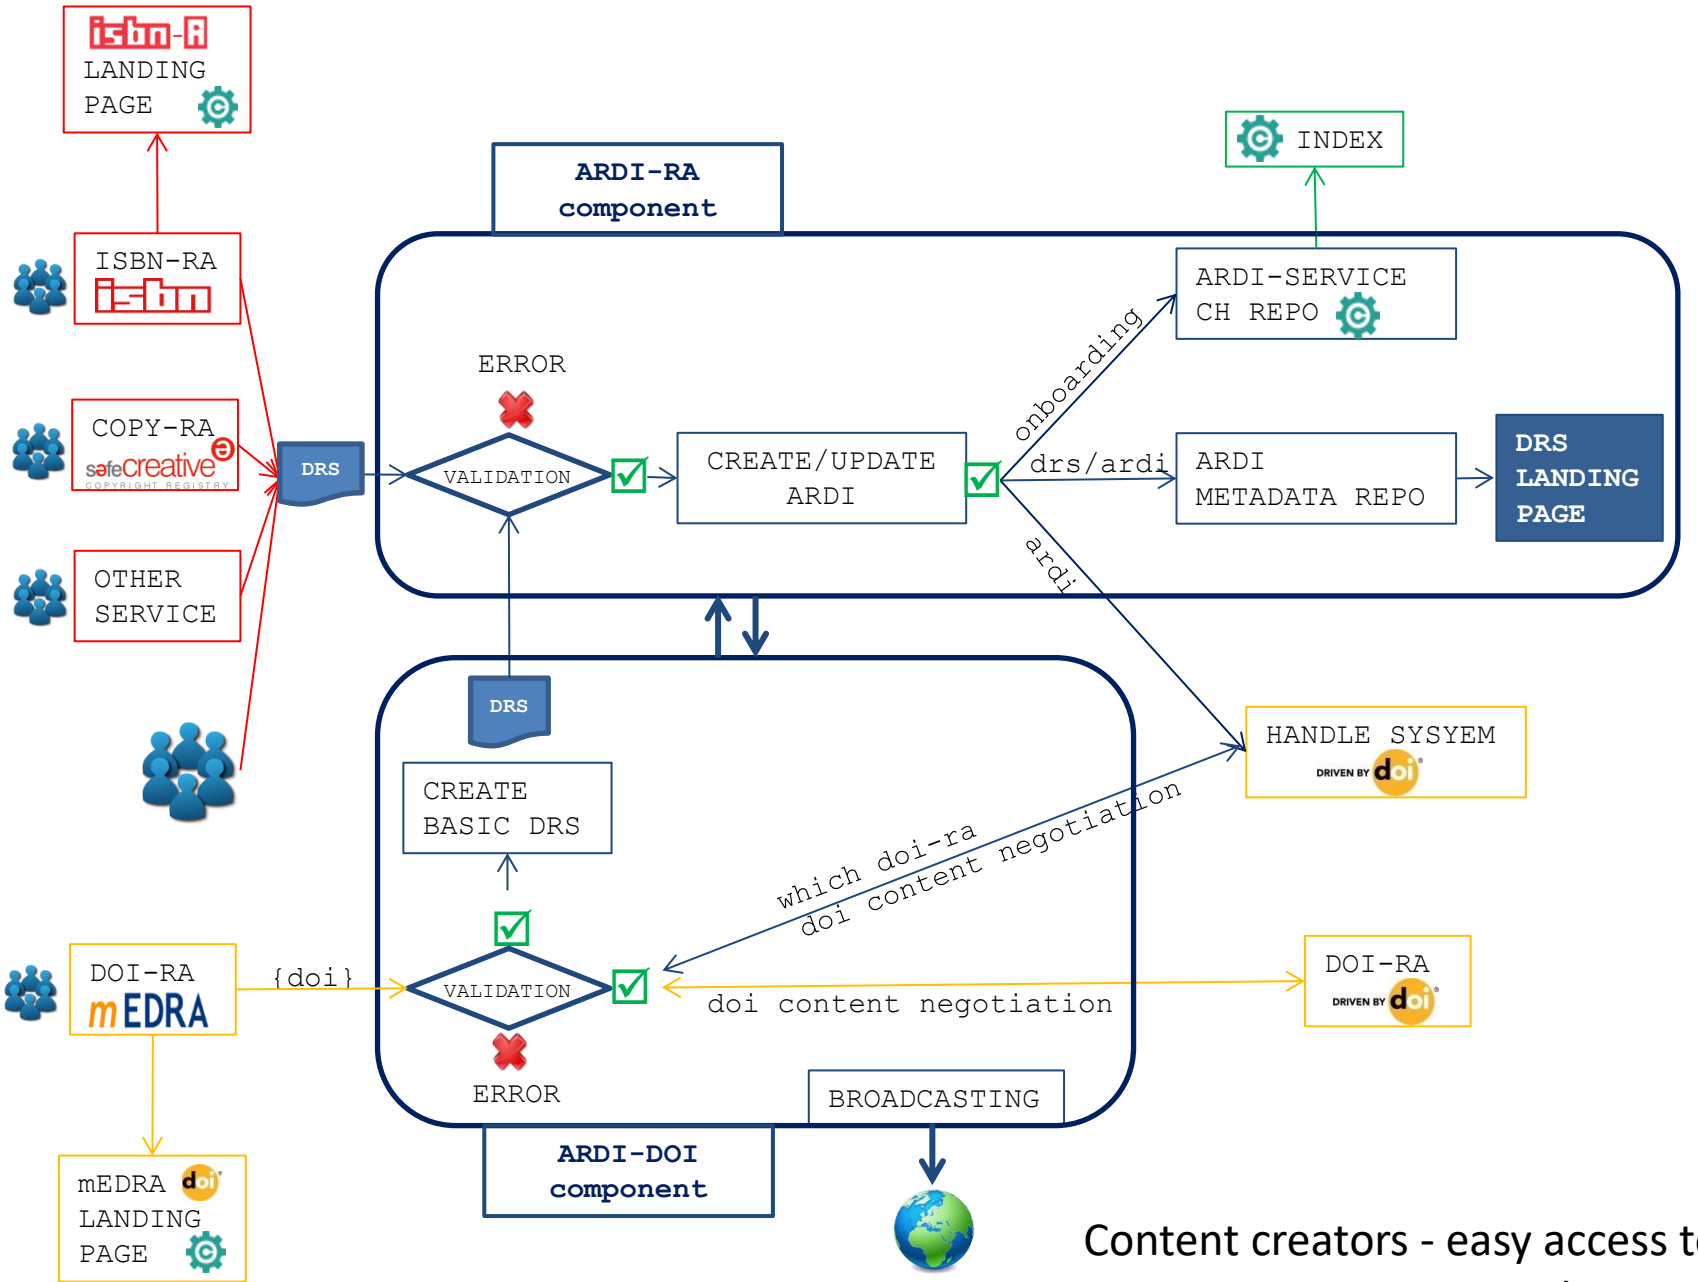
APPLICATIONS OF THE ARDI SERVICE

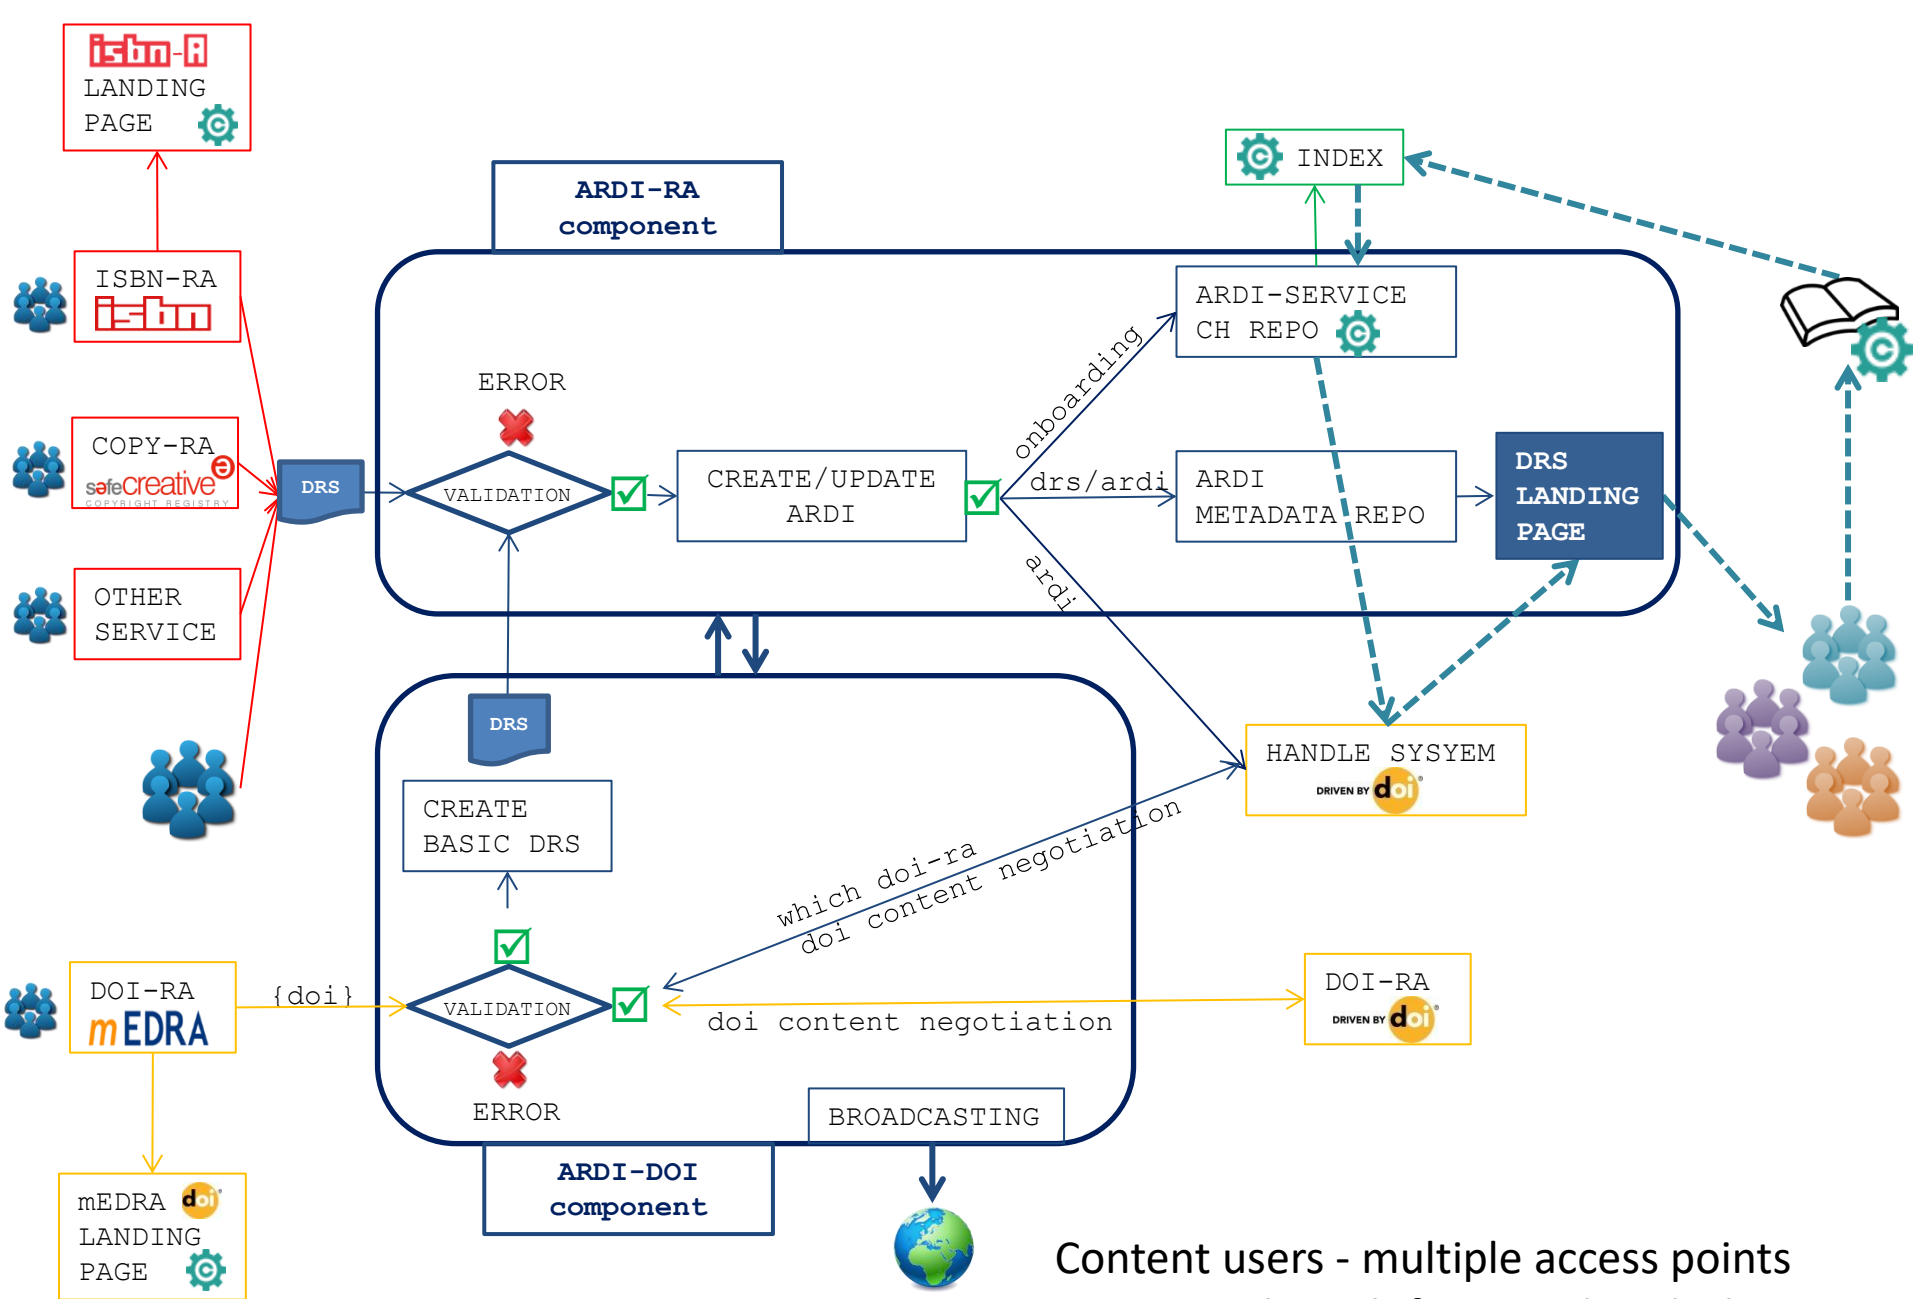
Practical implementations into other existing services

- The new service by the Italian ISBN Agency
- The new service by mEDRA DOI RA
- The new pilot with Safe Creative Copyright Registry



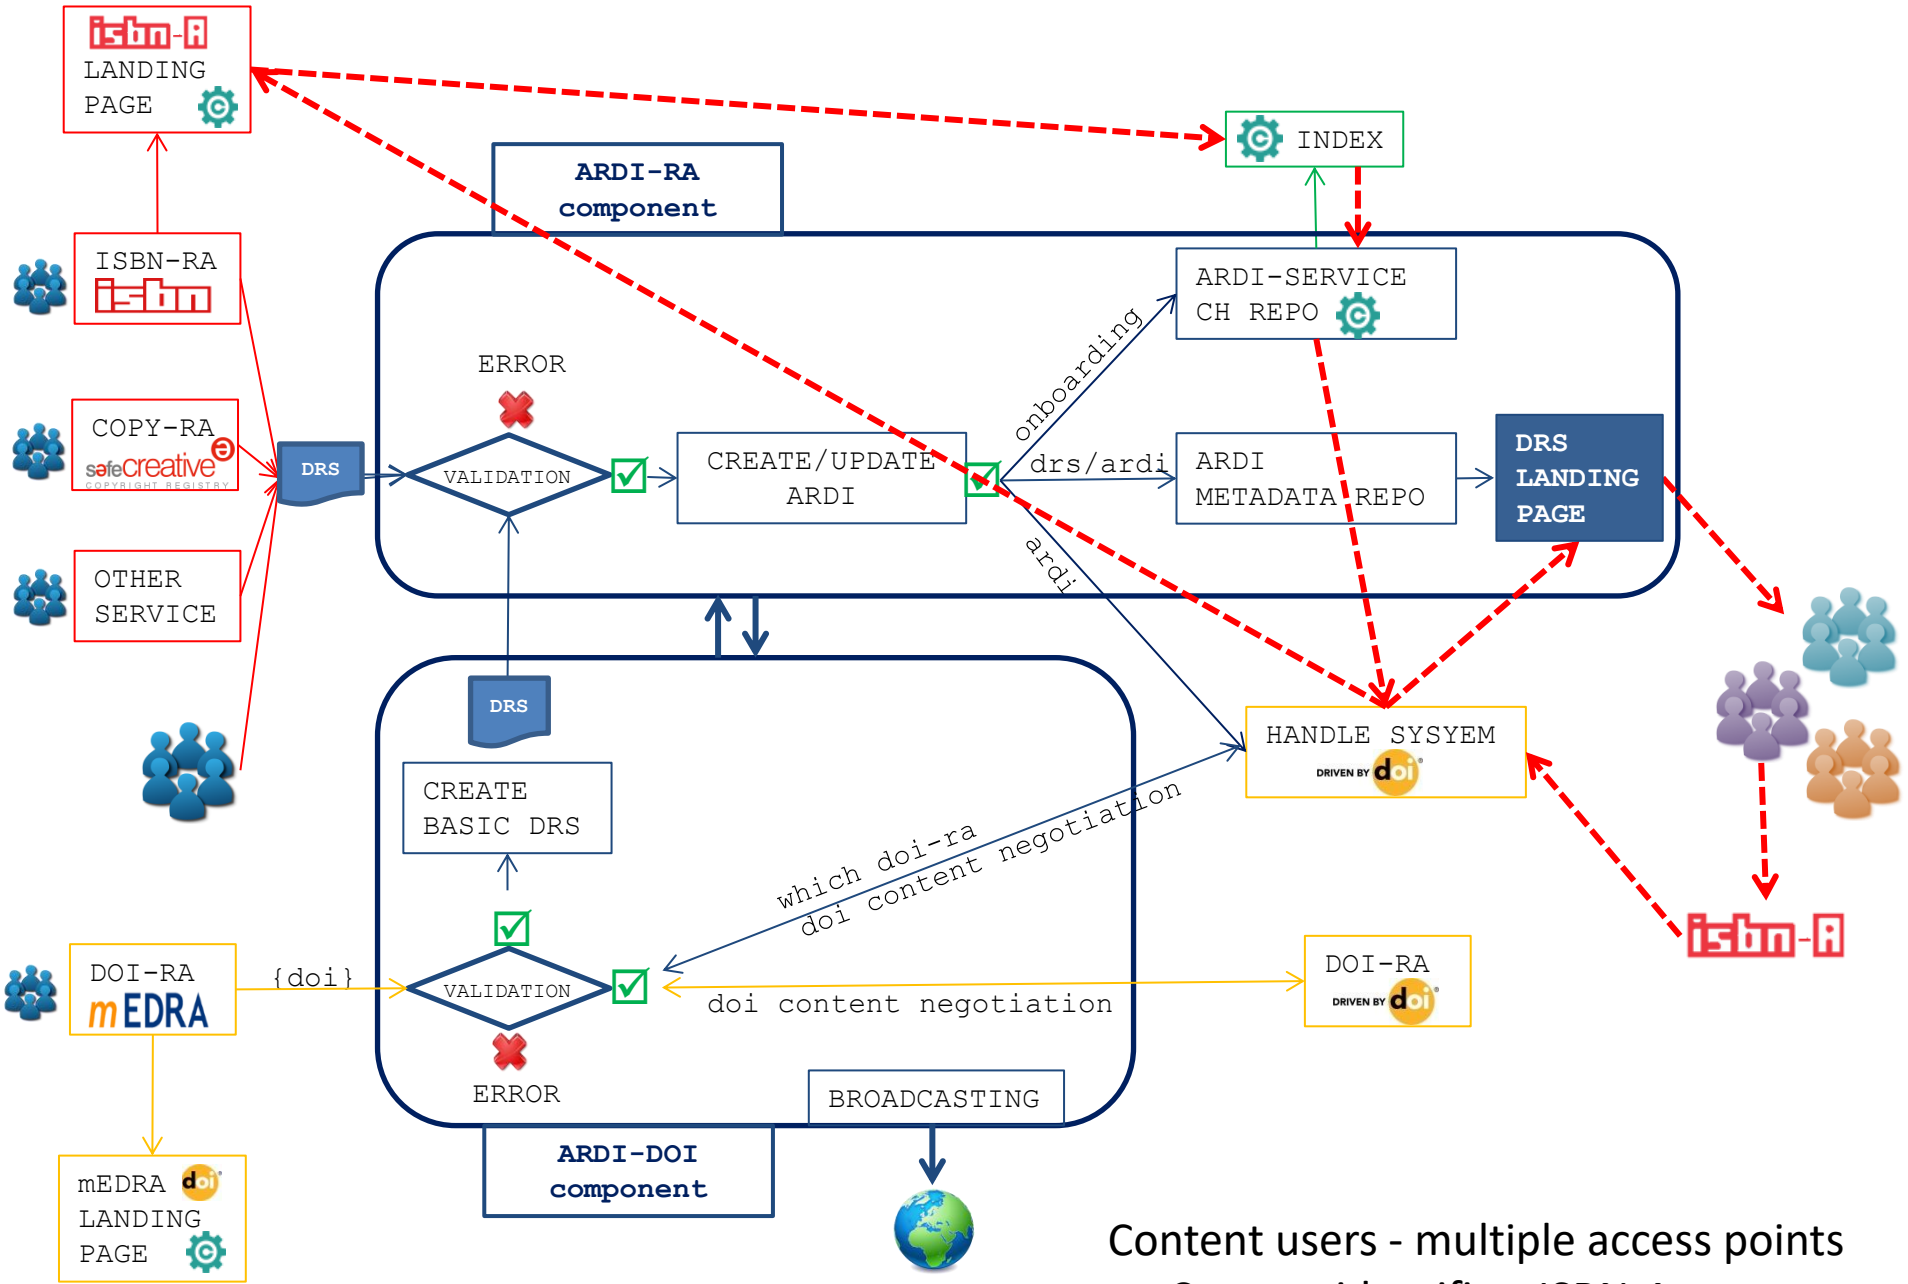
Content creators - easy access to services

- Partner service providers
- Directly



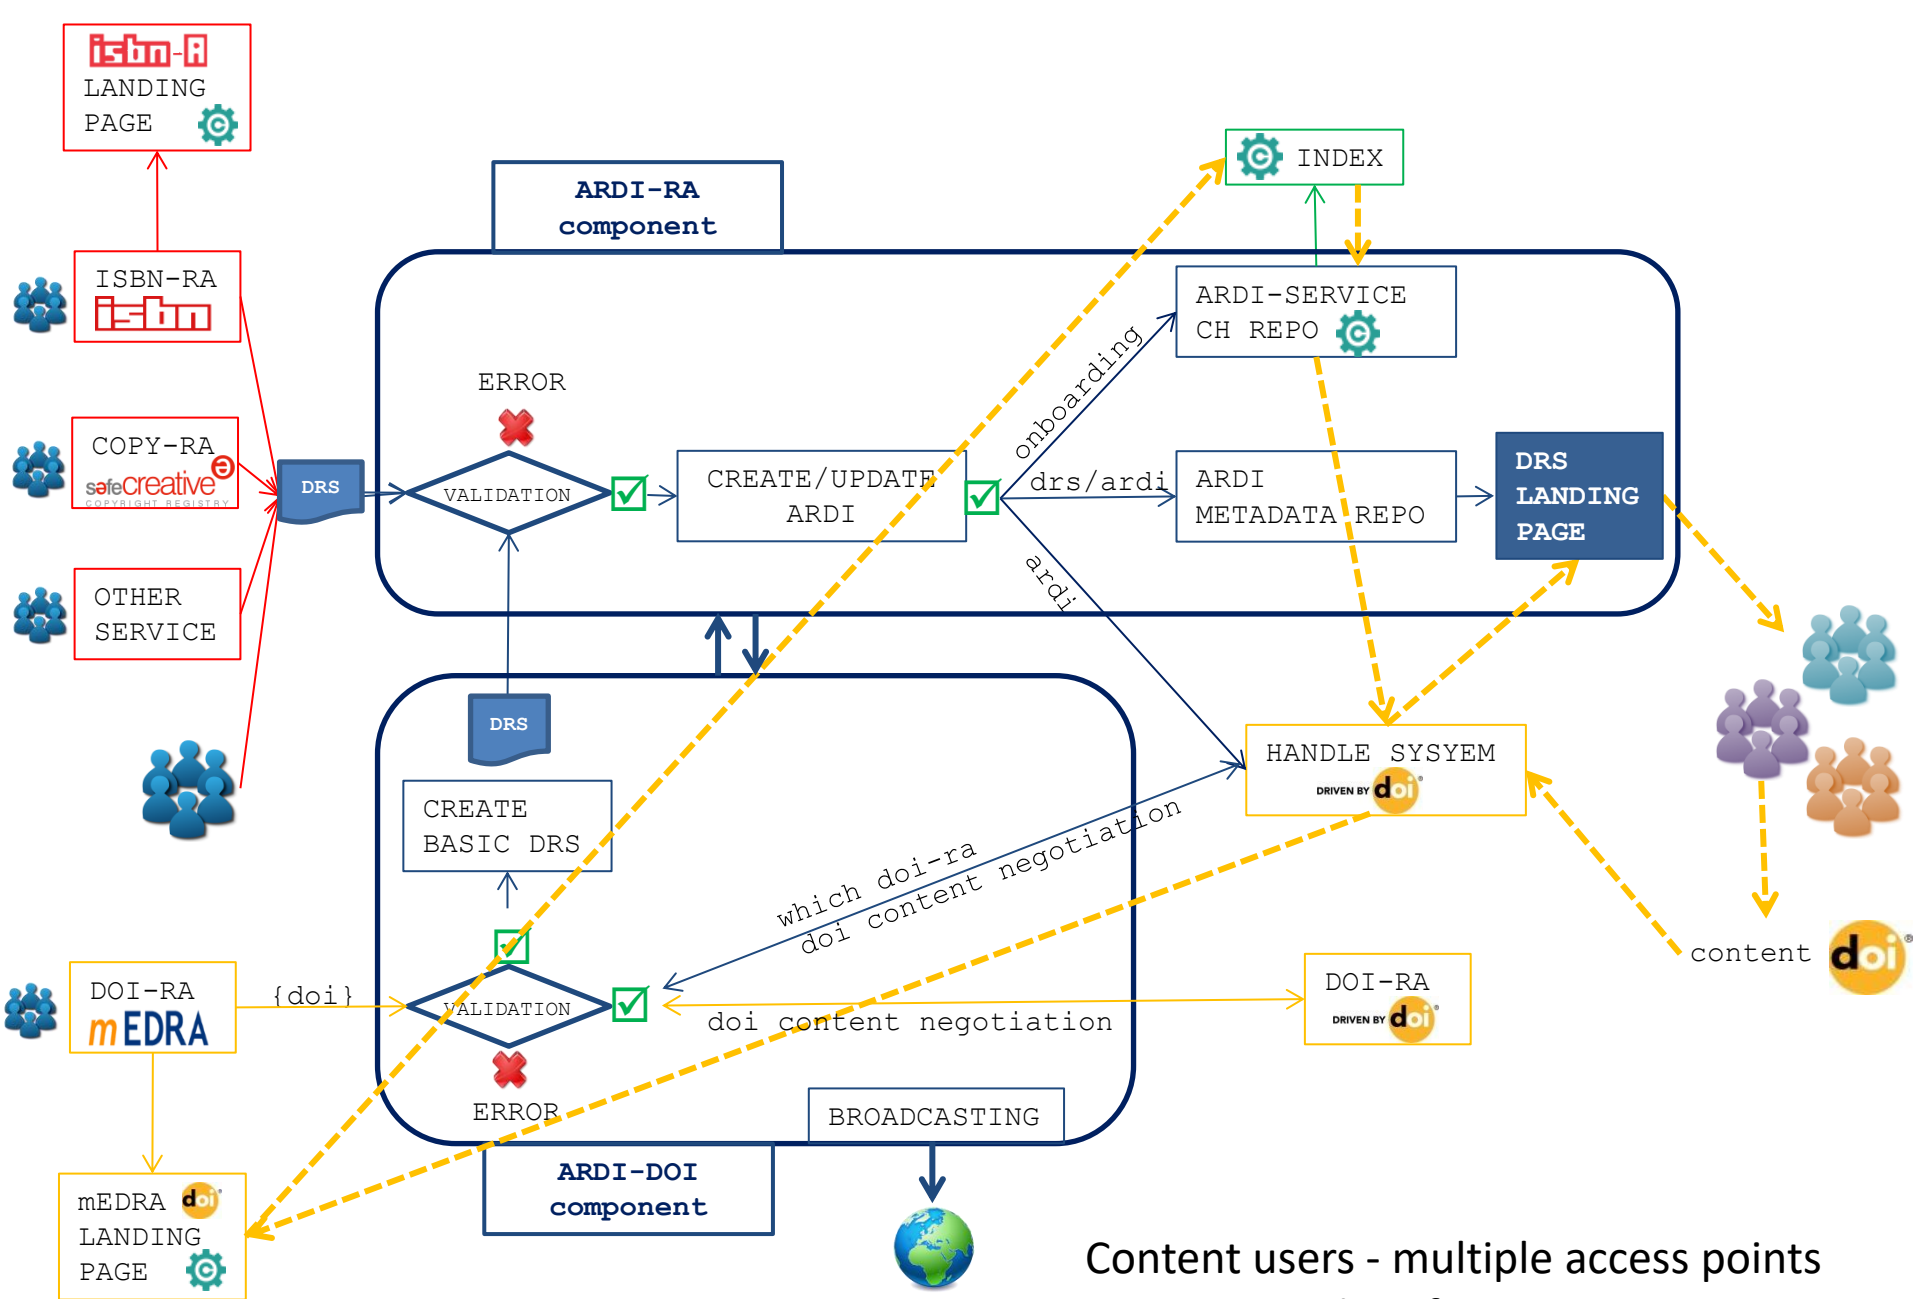
Content users - multiple access points

- Copyright Hub front-end tools: browser plug-in and eCopyright symbol



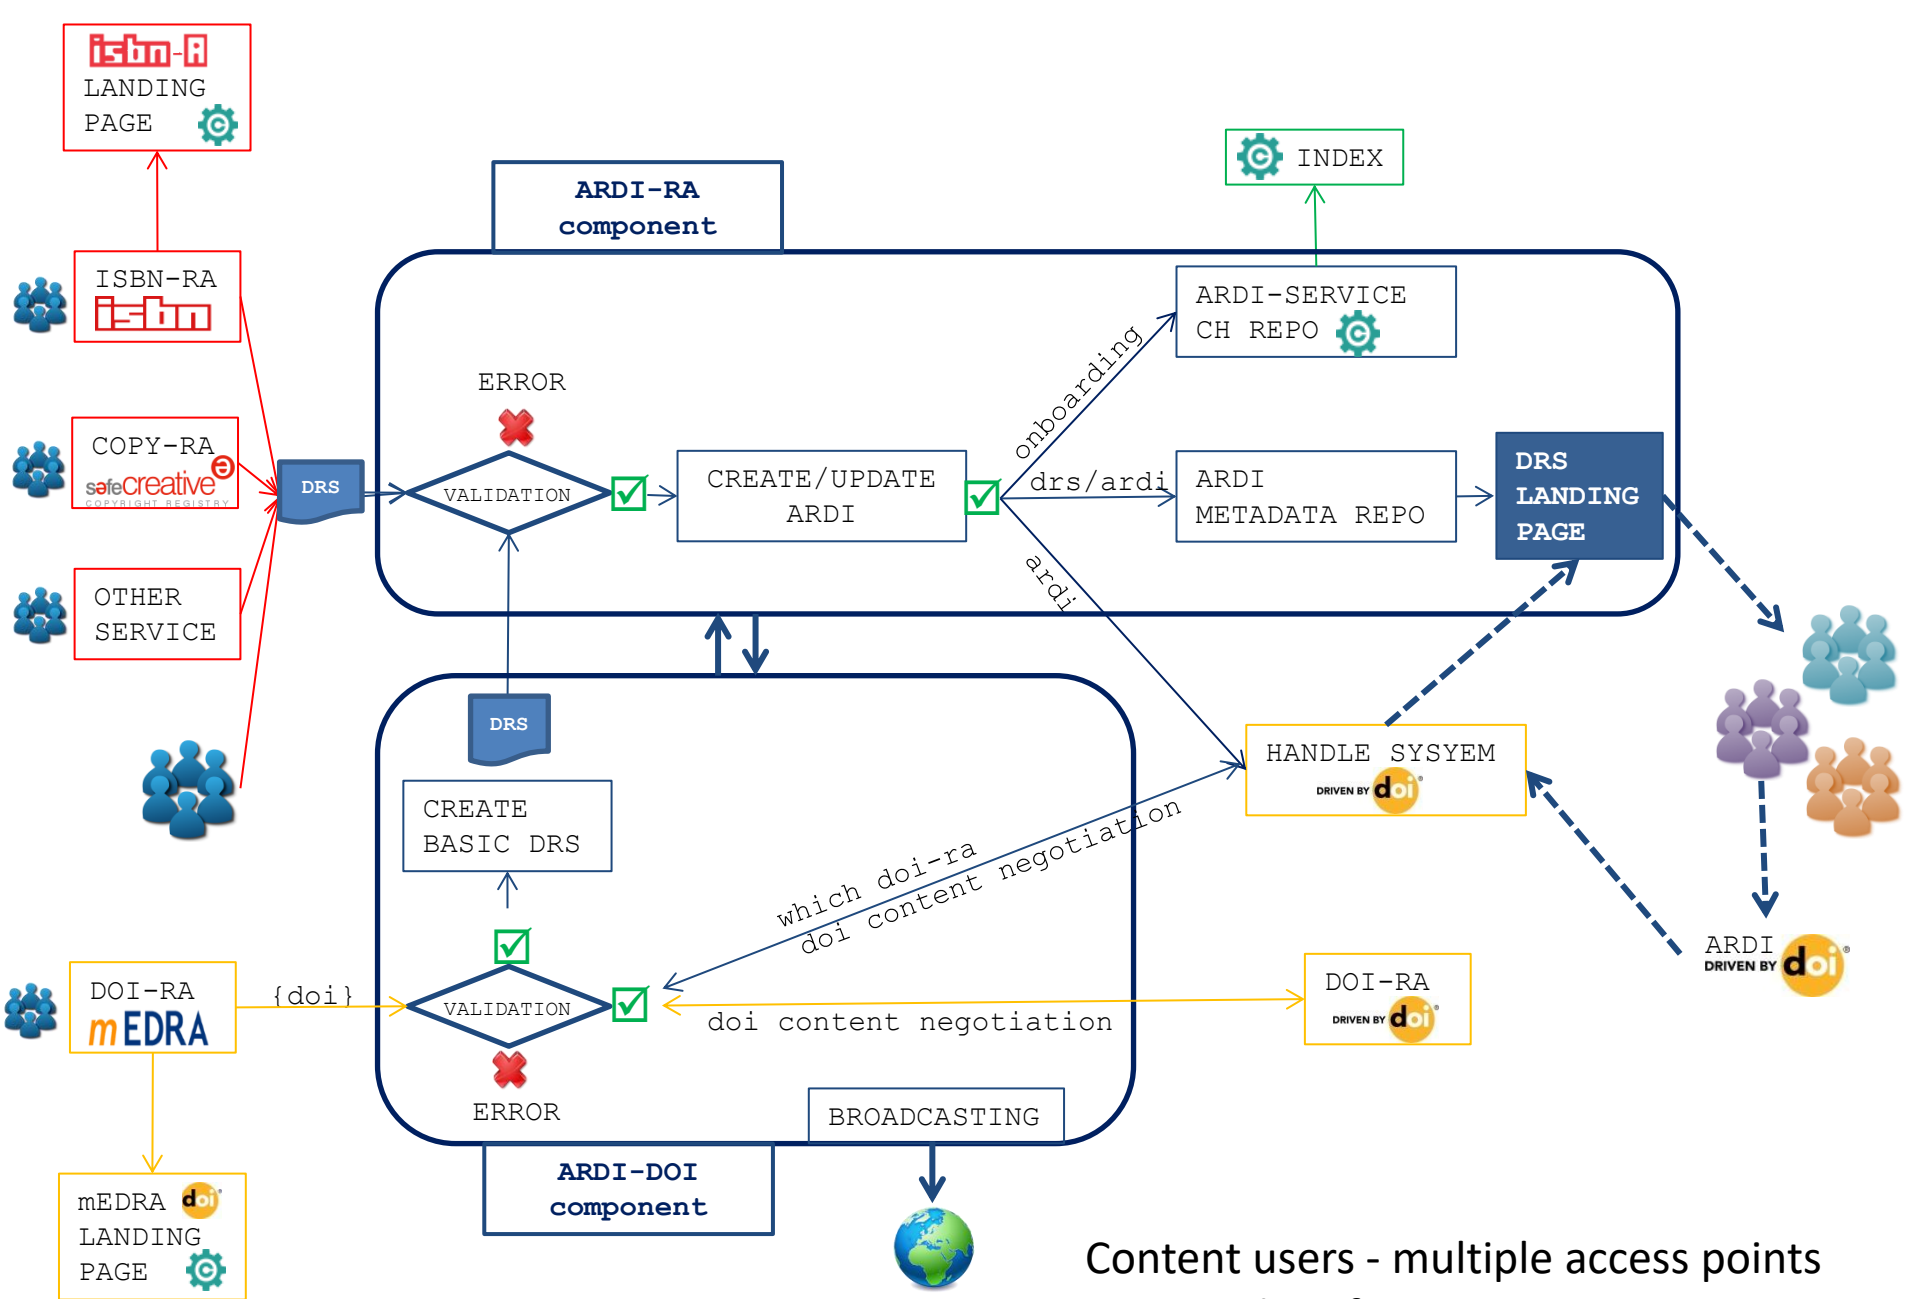
Content users - multiple access points

- Content identifier: ISBN-A



Content users - multiple access points

- Content identifier: DOI



Content users - multiple access points

- DRS identifier: ARDI

Applications of the ARDI Service

- The new DRS-basic Registration service by mEDRA DOI RA that allows registrants to file a basic initial copyright declaration for the works identified with mEDRA DOIs. The basic initial copyright declaration is system-generated using data from DOI record retrieved in content negotiation

- The new service by the Italian ISBN Agency that allows self-published authors and publishers to create a copyright declaration via GUI pre-filled with relevant data from the ISBN metadata record and enrich it with additional data, such as licenses and statements

Features of the DOI Service

- Creation of a basic initial copyright declaration using data from the DOI record retrieved in content negotiation
- Automatic linking with the DOI of the content
- Connection to the ARDI Service and the Copyright Hub
- Multiple access to DRS-basic for DOI end-users:
  - Multiple resolution: online presentation page for the title displaying the eCopyright symbol and a direct link to the copyright declaration.
  - Rights-aware resolution: parametric DOI resolution string
  - DOI metadata record enriched with DOI-ARDI relation
  - DOI content negotiation enriched with ARDI link

DOI Service

- Create DRS-basic

- Check and resolve
