

How Can #MarchingWithMe Work With My Event?

#MarchingWithMe provides visual advocacy to those in the chronic illness and disability communities who cannot physically attend protest events. We do not technically partner with individual events, but our campaign is available as a resource for event organizers.

To work more directly with us, organizers must:

- Reach out to us at least two weeks out from their event
- Have a plan as to how they'll reach out to those in their disability and chronic illness communities so as to promote their event and our program
- Use all web and social media platforms at their disposal to help spread the word about the #MarchingWithMe platform
- Repost #MarchingWithMe participants at their events on social media to help increase the online presence of our chronic illness and disability communities

In turn, #MarchingWithMe will:

- Provide a graphic with our logo that fits the overall event theme (March for Science, Climate March, Pride etc.)
- Add the event and city as an option on our registration forms.
- Promote the event on our social media feeds
- Repost #MarchingWithMe participants at their events on social media to help increase the online presence of our chronic illness and disability communities

For more information and resources, email March@SufferingTheSilence.com

