About the World Fellowship Center

Founded in 1941, World Fellowship is a multigenerational educational camp and retreat center devoted to peace and social justice. The centerpiece of our programming is a series of lecture/discussions from the end of June until early September about a wide variety of political issues, but we offer varied arts programming as well, and programs for children and youth. We are in the southeastern corner of the White Mountains, in the "backyard" of Mount Chocorua, set on 455 mostly wooded acres which border an Audubon sanctuary and the White Mountain National Forest. We have frontage on Whitton Pond, a pristine mile-long "great pond" that's beautiful for swimming and boating.

Head Farmer

We are looking to hire a head farmer for the 2018 growing season.

We are located on 455 woodland acres, of which between three and four acres are cleared for farming, of which half an acre has been farmed organically continuously since the early 1970s. The primary purpose of the farm operation is to provide top quality organic vegetables for the sustenance of our guests and staff, but we look forward to exploring other future possibilities, including a CSA. We have a 17' by 48' greenhouse and a small, venerable International Harvester tractor.

Ideal Candidate

We seek someone with the willingness, motivation and ability to take leadership in helping us develop our vision. We look forward to building a farm enterprise that is financially self-sustaining, supporting the direct costs of its operation. Farming shall be done using organic methods, however we are not initially committed to organic certification. Additional knowledge of permaculture, biodynamics and holistic management is a plus. There is wealth of opportunity for developing educational programs. Previous farm experience and references are required.

Current Offer

This position is available from May 1 through September 31, 2015. Pay is $300/week with room and board (the same excellent meals we provide for our guests). We will also be hiring an apprentice.

If interested in exploring this opportunity, please send a letter of interest and a resume or the equivalent to Andy Davis at andy@worldfellowship.org.

We hope to fill this position May1.

Apprentice/Assistant

We are also looking to hire an apprentice/ assistant to the head farmer. We seek someone with similar traits listed above, but this position does not require the same level of experience and knowledge.

If interested in exploring this opportunity, please send a letter of interest and a resume or the equivalent to Andy Davis at andy@worldfellowship.org.
