

Experience Something Different

Visit Glenogle in Mahabaleshwar, an elegant and comfortable 19th century holiday home that once belonged to Sir Jacob Sassoon

BEING one of the first bungalows to have been built around the 1840s in the hill station of Mahabaleshwar, Glenogle is situated on a quiet hill nestled in its own forest. The British government primarily built the bungalow to be used by its war veterans as a sanatorium. After having seen the remarkable health benefits accrued by those who spent time there and calling on his close ties with the government, Sir Jacob Sassoon acquired the bungalow towards the end of the century.

Sir Jacob Sassoon enjoyed the outdoors and would spend time relaxing on the verandah in the evenings, listening to the peaceful sounds of nature. If you are a person who enjoys nature and the outdoors, visiting Glenogle will give you just the experience you are looking for, with of course a touch of a few modern day amenities.

Guests enjoy approximately 6000 sq. ft. of living area. This includes a hall, dining room and four master bedrooms along with a children's room. The bungalow has a total capacity of 10 to 14 people. It features a number of Sassoon family furniture pieces giving the interiors a look of old-world grandeur. Room amenities include an electric fireplace, LED TV, free wireless internet access, work desk, minibar, in-room safe and much more...

Opt for Glenogle's scrumptious Indian meals created by its in-house cook. Also available is the facility of placing an order from restaurants on the hotel's approved list. Enjoy Italian, Parsi or Gujarati food in the comfort of the bungalow.

While many activities can be enjoyed within the property, some activities are better enjoyed beyond it, like trekking and horse riding. Barbeques, board games and the pleasures of a massage can all be enjoyed in the tranquility of the serene surroundings. Spend time in this over 150-year-old property and enjoy the comfort and luxury of a bygone era.

Neville Patel, a graduate of the Les Roches International School of Hotel Management with a range of international experience, brought Glenogle back to life in 2014. "I would like to see the brand grow as well as create a good working culture for our staff so that we grow in a smooth and sustainable fashion. I invite you to be a part of the Glenogle family," says Neville.
