Does the brand name of the college you attend actually matter?

NO. One study of 30,000 graduates, found no correlation between college selectivity and future job satisfaction or well-being. Graduates were just as likely to score high (or low) on a scale measuring their “thriving” whether they attended community colleges, regional colleges or highly selective private and public universities.

https://www.wsj.com/articles/the-right-way-to-choose-a-college-11553266896
Does the brand name of the college you attend actually matter?

NO. Another study found that a school’s selectivity (as typically measured by students’ SAT or ACT scores, high school GPA and class rank, and the school’s acceptance rate) is not a reliable predictor of outcomes, particularly when it comes to learning.

https://www.wsj.com/articles/the-right-way-to-choose-a-college-11553266896
What are the dynamics involved with identifying one’s purpose or vocation?
What are the factors that make up an undergraduate’s experience?

UNDERGRADUATE EXPERIENCE

Your undergraduate experience consists of five elements:

- Majors & Minors
- Core Classes & Curriculum
- Elective Classes
- Co-Curricular Involvement
- Experiential Education Opportunities

FOUNDATION

- Past Experiences
- Family Members
- Friends
- Personal Traits
- Beliefs

What do you believe is the foundation of your life at this point in time?
What or who do you refer to when you reflect back upon your life or need assistance?
What experiences do you draw lessons from in order to move forward?