MARCH 2016

Consistent with our values of Character.Commitment.Courage.Respect, C3R, Concord Crossroads, LLC, seeks to partner with visionaries who search for a clear path forward to the future. Darold Hamlin, founder of The Emerging Technology Consortium [ETC] is that partner. As a nonprofit organization, the mission of ETC is a combination of an advocacy for research funding for Historically Black Colleges and Universities [HBCUs] serving institutions and creating projects and programs that establish business partnerships to increase economic revenue opportunities for both. ETC accomplishes this mission by building membership with corporate businesses, minority business enterprises, HBCUs, and governmental entities. Concord Crossroads became an active member in March in furtherance of its commitment to HBCUs and minority institutions, and to VSU in particular. Immediately, the investment has been beneficial. As a result of Wood's alumni relationship with VSU, Concord Crossroads, and two other ETC business members were able to form a partnership with VSU to establish an Academic Industrial Partnerships. This arrangement should lead to the diversification of funding resources through receiving federal government contracts for VSU which in turn should result in a direct increase of revenue for the University. This partnership will allow VSU to provide Transformative Education to its students, faculty, administrators, and the community.
