The Greater Yellowstone Coordinating Committee (GYCC) is hosting a wildlife migration symposium in Jackson Wyoming June 6th. GYCC invites submission of abstracts for posters related to the topic of migrations from all state and federal personnel, non-governmental organizations, academic and any other interested parties.

Specific focus of the symposium is avian or terrestrial migrations with an emphasis on the northern Rockies. Posters that are sought for this symposium include:

1. Academic research on migrations
2. Applied science/management issues
3. NGO's work partnering with agencies
4. Citizen science
5. Any other topic relevant to GYE migrations

POSTER PRESENTATIONS can be up to 5 feet wide by 4 feet tall and will be presented June 6th from 6:00 to 9:00pm. Presenters will be notified on May 18th if their presentations have been selected. A small stipend may be available to student presenters. Authors are encouraged to present applicable recently published results or unpublished, preliminary information that may be of interest. For more information on the Migrations Symposium, please visit the GYCC's website:

The Greater Yellowstone Area (GYA) is a unique and special place. The 15 million acres of federal lands of the GYA are geographically contiguous, ecologically interdependent, and unalterably linked. They are managed by four federal agencies, the National Park Service, the US Forest Service, the US Fish and Wildlife Service and the Bureau of Land Management, each with differing missions and organizational structures. The GYCC allows the federal land managers of the GYA to pursue opportunities for voluntary cooperation and coordination at the landscape scale. The GYCC is formed through a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) that documents the desire of all parties to cooperate fully in matters relating to responsible land management throughout the GYA.
