THE RIGHT SUNGLASSES can be fashion statements while also serving the important role of protecting a person's eyes. Since sunglasses play such a vital role in protecting eyes, it's best to consult with the experts when it comes to selecting the right pair—or pairs—of sunglasses. Dr. Jeff Brewer and Dr. Jaimie Kruger of Legacy Eyecare provide the Omaha area's most trusted destination for stylish, effective sunglasses. The knowledgeable staff helps clients find the very best sunglasses to match their lifestyles.

Exposure to the sun's UV rays can damage eyes over time, particularly in children. "A child's eyes absorb triple the amount of ultra violet radiation and harmful blue wavelengths of light as an adult's eyes," says Kruger, a pediatric specialist. That's why it's important for parents to encourage their children to make a habit of wearing sunglasses when outdoors—a much easier task when the children choose sunglasses they love.

Sunglasses purchased from Legacy Eyecare are guaranteed to provide the eye protection that other sources only claim to provide.
