FACILITATOR

MR G.P. TEO

- ❖ Mr. Teo is the head of the Claims function in Singapore, Zurich Insurance Company Ltd.
- ❖ His responsibilities include the management of global corporate claims from overseas as well as training and guiding of staff on technical and legal matters. He is particularly strong in liability, marine and motor claims
- ❖ Mr. Teo has had experience in various M&A projects in the area of claims operations, particularly in re-organizing claims department structure to meet new challenges from the expansion in international and local businesses, training staff to meet new challenges, setting benchmarks to ensure that service and quality standards are in line with the company's claims management philosophy, managing the cost of claims operation etc.
- ❖ He has more than 13 years of experience in training for the insurance industry and has written various textbooks on general insurance topics.

FOR WHOM

- ❖ Insurance practitioners, who are involved in providing liability insurance covers, particularly claims handlers and underwriters
- ❖ Employers, principals and independent contractors, including labour suppliers

TRAINING AGENDA

- ❖ Legal principles versus policy considerations, particularly the role of the latter in the development of vicarious liability
- ❖ Basic points to note in vicarious liability
- ❖ Common traditional relationships that may permit vicarious liability to be attached
- ❖ Liability exposure in different scenarios, especially in Employer/Employee relationship, Principal/Independent Contractor and the more recent non traditional relationship situations
- ❖ Application of various general principles in determining vicarious liability in various scenarios such as the Control Test, Independent Business Test and Close Connection Test
- ❖ When principals may still be held personally liable in respect of torts committed by contractors e.g. in respect of situations involving non delegable duties on the part of the principals
- ❖ Liability exposure in situations other than the traditionally recognized relationships, with particular reference to the most recent developments in the UK and Singapore
- ❖ Whether and how the recently developed two-stage approach (emphasizing the relationship between the defendant and the tortfeasor and how the tortfeasor's tort may be connected to that relationship) by judges towards establishing vicarious liability has expanded its scope in Singapore
- ❖ Analysis of reported cases and judgments
