Dear Student,

These are the results which your teachers are predicting that you will get in August. We have decided to share these predictions with you to give you the opportunity to reflect on the progress that you have made so far in your GCSE studies.

We hope that seeing these predictions will motivate and inspire you to make the most of the short time that you have left before your examinations begin in May. This time, and the effort that you put into your studies in the coming weeks, can have a massive impact on your final attainment at Key Stage 4.

Therefore, we hope that you will attend school every day, exhibit positive behaviour in all of your lessons, take advantage of the revision classes run by your teachers, and commit yourself to independent study at home, because when you receive your results in August, regardless of the grades you receive, we want you to feel a sense of pride about the commitment you gave and how hard you worked.

We wish you well in the next few weeks. Work hard, but take care of yourself – remember that the demands of the examination period are only temporary, and that when they are over you will have a lifetime of possibilities ahead of you.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs A McGarry
