What to expect on your headshot photo session

I will supply a combination of natural light and studio based images during your photo session, thereby giving you a good selection of images for you to choose your final favourites. The images will have a filmic grade and style that I know casting directors want to see, mimicking that beautiful screen look and feel.

Your photo shoot starts off in the studio where we get to shoot for around 30 to 40 mins producing a series of headshots which you will be able to see during the shoot, this always puts people at ease whilst also giving them an idea of what they need to change ie clothing.

Please bring with you at least 5-6 different looks so we can get a good variety of images, both inside and outside of the studio.

After the shoot your images I will upload a maximum of 300 of the best images for you to choose your favourite 6 images from the collection. Once you have choose your favourite images for retouching (airbrushing), I will edit out any blemishes and generally adjust the overall image, giving it the filmic grade feel that I mentioned earlier.

It always best to ask for someone else's for their professional opinion on which images they think will best represent you and your persona, they usually have a different idea to yours.

When it comes to make-up, its best to keep it natural and not to go to crazy with the hair too. Agents and casting directors want to see a true, clean and fresh reflection of yourself when you arrive for your casting, so keep things simple, your everyday make-up will do. You can also carried with your your lipstick for later in the session.

What should you bring to the shoot?

I suggest to everyone to bring at least 3 or 4 different style tops from the list:

Black and a white shirt

Black and a white t-shirt/top ('V' and ' a wide round' neck)

Black dress (for girls)

Black 'V' and 'wide round' jumper.

Turtle neck jumper

A few coloured tops that match the colour of your eyes.

(Please avoid bringing grey garments and garments with print or pattern as it will distract the viewer from the main focus of your headshot: your eyes.)

Also make sure all your garments have wide scoop neckline. it's important. Wide scoop makes your neck look longer and shows your collar bones,
