

Topic/Objectives

Topic: Perspective & Space: 2-Point Perspective Critique

- Know how to analyze a work of art through description, analysis, interpretation, judgments
- Know and use visual art techniques in creation of an artwork
- Know how to express deeper thinking in an organized written format

Activities

- Photograph artwork with digital camera
- Digital Critique of digital images taken of artworks via Collaboration Space in OneNote
  - Students give a minimum of 4 written/typed responses to different peer artworks on Collaboration Space
  - Students give a minimum of 1 written/typed response to personal artwork on Collaboration Space
- In-class, Oral Critique viewing Digital Critique/Collaboration Space in OneNote
  - Students give a minimum of 1 oral explanation of critiques given on Collaboration Space
- Self-Assessment and Peer Assessment scoring on Critique Rubric
  - Students use a black marker when assessing themselves
  - Students use a colored marker when assessing their partner peer

Stage 1 – Desired Results

Established Goal(s):

Students will synthesize understanding of art criticism in written and oral formats, while documenting their artwork.

Understanding(s):

Students will understand that...

- Art production, aesthetics, and criticism, and history are fundamentally linked
- Art has its own accepted vocabulary that provides a means to discuss, analyze, and evaluate art
- The critical process of observing, describing, analyzing, interpreting, and evaluating leads to informed judgments regarding the merits of artwork
- The critique process establishes a relationship between viewer and artist
- People interpret art in unique ways

Essential Question(s):

- Why critique art?
- Can art be evaluated?
- Which is more important, the artist's intention or the viewer's response?
- Why is specific vocabulary necessary in order to successfully evaluate art?
- How do artists apply constructive criticism in their artwork and/or the artwork of others?

Students will know...

- artworks are composed of the elements and arranged by the principles
- those mark-making techniques, and their resulting effects are specific to, and characteristic of, individual media
- that there are many criteria for judging works of art
- that personal preference impacts opinions about art

Students can/will be able to...

- discuss their understanding of and reactions to artworks, using vocabulary specific to the Design Elements and Principles
- evaluate their artwork
- express ideas in oral and in written forms
- employ the steps of the Art Criticism in viewing works of art (description, analysis, interpretation and judgments)

Stage 2 – Assessment Evidence

Performance Task(s):

- To be assessed via rubric*
- Photograph artwork using a digital camera
  - Give a minimum of 4 written/typed responses to different peer artworks on Collaboration Space
  - Give a minimum of 1 written/typed response to personal artwork on Collaboration Space
  - Give a minimum of 1 oral explanation of critiques given on Collaboration Space

Other Evidence:

- Teacher observation (using tracking clipboard to follow in-class critique, and monitoring/facilitating digital critique)
- Peer assessment on rubric (in different colored marker)

Stage 3 – Learning Plan

| Learning Activities:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Hook(s) & Closure(s):                                                                                                                                                                                            | Reflection:                                                 |

The title bar indicates the user is 'BONGIORNO, ALISON R' in a notebook titled '8th Grade Modern Art and Design'. The main content area is titled 'Getting Started with the Collaboration Space'. It contains text explaining that the Collaboration Space is open to everyone in a class and that members should behave responsibly. A diagram shows four people icons connected to a central notebook icon with double-headed arrows, representing collaboration. Below the diagram, it states 'Better than a document on a file share or shared drive' and lists benefits: multiple people can edit at the same time, changes are merged automatically, and the notebook is available offline.  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                             |
