

CHRISTMAS COUNTDOWN

~ 10 weeks to go ~

Book hairdresser appointments.

Don't leave it until the last minute only to find that you can't get in before Christmas. Get in early and book your December 'do now! Book the rest of the family in too.

Sign up for your favourite store emails.

Do you have 'go to' stores that you often buy Christmas gifts from? If so, subscribe to their websites so you can take advantage of sales and special offers this Christmas.

Organise your Christmas family photo.

If you need one for your Christmas cards, start planning your family photo now to avoid a frenzied, tearful photo shoot at the last minute! Add the tasks and appointments to your planner.

Set up your Christmas planning folder.

It's time to get a little more serious about planning for Christmas. Over the next weeks, there will be some free printables coming your way so it might help to find a folder to keep them all in. If you buy an insert binder, you can use the front cover, spine label and back cover to make it really awesome. Head to the Printable Library to download and print yours.

List what you need for your wrapping station.

Avoid the stress of last-minute gift wrapping late at night, set up a wrapping station so you can wrap as you go. Gather what you already have and list the things you'll need to buy. Think gift wrap, ribbon, scissors, tape, pens and gift tags.

Set up your gift wrapping station.

Find a space that you might be able to keep clear for the next month or so and set up your gift wrapping station so you're ready to wrap as soon as you begin your Christmas shopping.
