

www.TheApplicationAuthority.com

Are Any Essay Topics Off Limits?

Short answer: NO

While you want to make a positive impression, a college application is not like a first date. You don't need to avoid a slew of topics (see: religion, politics, prior dating life, marriage, kids) to ensure you make a good impression.

You can address just about anything in your college application, as long as you ensure the following:

- Overall impression of you is positive
- The focus is on you and not the topic itself
- Showcase you are solution-oriented

Want to Learn More?

It can be tricky to strike this fine balance. For more details about how to do this effectively, check out our Book on College Applications.

Or, work with us 1:1 and we'll guide you through it!