Strategy #2 - Walk to School day/week (October)

STRATEGY TYPE: Local Action Strategy - Event
DESCRIPTION
Join students, families, school leaders, community partners and mayors around the country on October 4 to celebrate the benefits of walking to school during International Walk to School Day.
RESOURCES
Web Resources: Walk to School Day
Contents:
PLAN AN EVENT
How to Plan - Walk and Bike to School Day events can be simple or elaborate. A school might start by hosting a big event, and then hold low key events over time. Another place might start simple and then build efforts in subsequent years. Read on to learn more about planning the event.
Event Ideas - Walk and bike events come in all sizes. Make the event something that will resonate with what families, the school and broader community care about. Browse these ideas to help you plan your event.
Get Media Attention - Promoting your event in the community can help build awareness of your event theme or cause, such as healthy habits, neighborhood safety or a sense of community. We've provided some tools to help you get started.
Downloadable Materials - Use these downloadable materials to help with promoting your event, decorating the school, or getting the students involved in and excited about the celebration.
BEYOND THE DAY
Year-Round Biking and Walking
For most schools, a one-day event is not enough. Communities see the promise of healthier students and safer streets. Learn more about transitioning your event into ongoing activities.
Student Education - Programs that encourage walking and bicycling should also incorporate safety education. In order for children to adopt new skills, they need practice time and repeated reinforcement of the key messages. The following walking and biking resources can help.
Safe Routes to School - Safe Routes to School (SRTS) programs are sustained efforts by parents, schools, law enforcement, advocacy groups, community leaders and government to improve the well-being of children by walking and biking to school.
Why Walk or Bike - Events are a wonderful way to celebrate the joy and independence of walking and biking to school and they bring schools and communities together for a common purpose. Most of all, they are fun!

Strategy #9 – Conduct a community walk audit

STRATEGY TYPE: Local Action Strategy - Event
DESCRIPTION An audit is an unbiased examination/evaluation of the walking and biking environment. The general purpose of an audit is to identify concerns for pedestrians and bicyclists related to the safety, access, comfort, and convenience of the environment. In addition to identifying problem areas, an audit can be used to identify potential alternatives or solutions (such as engineering treatments, policy changes, or education and enforcement measures).

Strategy #10 - Conduct a Safety Education Campaign

STRATEGY TYPE: Local Action Strategy - Event
DESCRIPTION In Wisconsin, the bicycle and pedestrian travel network provides excellent biking and walking options for residents and visitors. An important goal of this network is to make biking and walking safer and more convenient by working with communities and counties throughout the state. Bicycle and pedestrian travel is increasingly recognized as a practical transportation alternative in addition to its recreational and health benefits. It is important for children and adults to understand the importance of safe bicycling and walking and how to practice these safety measures.

Strategy #37 – Community walk audit

STRATEGY TYPE: Community Engagement – Demonstration Project
DESCRIPTION An audit is an unbiased examination/evaluation of the walking and biking environment. The general purpose of an audit is to identify concerns for pedestrians and bicyclists related to the safety, access, comfort, and convenience of the environment. In addition to identifying problem areas, an audit can be used to identify potential alternatives or solutions (such as engineering treatments, policy changes, or education and enforcement measures).

Strategy #41 – Adopt a Bike/Ped Plan

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Systems Change
DESCRIPTION Planning so that pedestrians, bicyclists, and motorists can travel safely and conveniently can be a balancing act, but the benefits reaped by well-balanced transportation and land use planning are significant. Communities that are bicycle- and pedestrian-friendly have one thing in common: they place a high priority on planning methods and policies that favor alternative modes of travel.

Strategy #43 – Serve as a mentor to other communities

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Systems Change
DESCRIPTION One of the best ways to help communities develop active transportation initiatives is to learn from each other. The list of communities below have agreed to serve as mentors, upon request, on an as time allows basis.
RESOURCES Web Resources: Contents: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Please list contact information and the numbers of the strategy(ies) you are willing to mentor other communities on.</li><li>• Community List:</li></ul>

Strategy #44 – Attend a statewide conference / summit on active transportation

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Systems Change
DESCRIPTION Conferences with active communities as one of the focus areas provide a great opportunity for individuals or local teams to learn about ways to create change in their community. Along with the material presented, there are often opportunities to learn and network with peers that have similar interests.

Strategy #45 – Establish consistent wayfinding signage

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Systems Change
DESCRIPTION A bicycle/pedestrian wayfinding system consists of comprehensive signing and/or pavement markings to guide bicyclists and walkers to their destinations along preferred routes. Signs are typically placed at decision points along the routes – typically at the intersection of two or more bikeways or walkways and at other key locations leading to and along bicycle/pedestrian routes.

Strategy #49 – Local Complete Streets policy

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Destination Policy
DESCRIPTION Complete Streets are streets for everyone. They are designed and operated to enable safe access for all users, including pedestrians, bicyclists, motorists and transit riders of all ages and abilities. Complete Streets make it easy to cross the street, walk to shops, and bicycle to work. They allow buses to run on time and make it safe for people to walk to and from train stations. By adopting a Complete Streets policy, communities direct their transportation planners and engineers to routinely design and operate the entire right of way to enable safe access for all users, regardless of age, ability, or mode of transportation.

Strategy #50 – Local Safe Routes to School funding

STRATEGY TYPE: Outcome Goals – Destination Policy
DESCRIPTION Safe Routes to School (SRTS) is a national and international movement to create safe, convenient and fun opportunities for children to bicycle and walk to and from schools. The goal of the program is to enable and encourage children K-8th grade, including those with disabilities, to walk and bike to school. The SRTS program is based on the principles of the 5-E's: Engineering, Encouragement, Education, Enforcement, and Evaluation. The program facilitates the planning, development, and implementation of projects and activities that will improve safety and reduce traffic, fuel consumption, and air pollution. The program also will play a role in reversing the alarming nationwide trend toward childhood obesity and inactivity. SRTS funds are limited to children K-8 and to projects located within two miles of a school.
