Statement of Accomplishment

Carles Lara

Has successfully completed the Massive Open Online Course “Municipal Solid Waste Management in Developing Countries” offered by Sandec/Eawag.

Municipal Solid Waste Management in Developing Countries

The course provides an overview of the municipal solid waste management situation in developing countries covering key elements of the waste management system, with its technical, environmental, social, financial and institutional aspects. It also covers strategic planning and policy issues discussing future visions for waste management and the aspect of a circular and green economy. Considering the importance of the organic waste fraction, the course covers several organic waste treatment technology options such as composting and anaerobic digestion.
