A GOOD LIFE:

By Yosef Benjamin

In this weeks parsha we read that at the age of one hundred and twenty seven, Sarah Imeinu died. It seems strange that right after we read of her death, it is added that Sarah had a good life. One might think that though she had a long life, a life full of good deeds, it was anything but a good life. Anyone can see from reading the basic text, all the troubles Sarah had. First she had to travel far away, and then there was a famine. She was kidnapped twice, and experienced years of childlessness. Finally Sarah gave birth to a boy. Not long after that however, Yishmael, the son of the concubine Hagar, began to have a bad influence on her son. Both Yishmael and Hagar had to be sent away. Now I would call that a hard and troublesome life, full of sadness and hardships.

The reason why it says she had a good life, is because of the way she, Sarah, looked at life.

YESHIVAS DORESH FIFTY ISSUES

By Editorial Staff

The Newsletter originated in 2008, but for many years, the format was simple, and there were no plans for outside distribution; it was emailed to parents, printed copies were handed out to the students, and that was that. However, in 2014, Sam Miller was inspired to give the Doresh Newsletter both an upgrade and a wider audience. Beginning on February 7, 2014 with the first "new" issue, the Newsletter was not only distributed to shuls in the area, but began to feature more variety of articles, from divrei Torah by the rabbeim to Sam's "My Birthright" series chronicling his then-recent Birthright Israel trip, to reports on the yeshiva's doings that week. Yosef Benjamin was brought in as co-editor beginning with issue #16, and there was a newfound focus on making the newsletter more colorful and visually pleasing. Moshe Perel came in issue #45, as Co-editor after Sam left yeshiva and has kept the newsletter running beside his co-editor Yosef Benjamin.

Reporters like Aryeh Marder, Avi Weiss, Daniel Amar, Rafi Bausk, Moshe Perel, and Menachem Ayache contributed articles, while students like Elchonon Skolnick, Heshy Glick, Boruch Berger, Sholom Green, and Abie Gornish put their cameras to work gathering amazing pictures.

Many, many thanks to everyone who helped us reach this milestone, and here's hoping for many more issues.

Event At Netive Ezra

By Yosef Benjamin(Crown Heights, NY)

This past Wednesday night the Yeshiva went to Netive Ezra to hear Rav Yitzchak Grossman speak. They first showed a video presentation about Rav Grossman and what Chacham Ovadiah Yosef said about him. After that he walked in and everyone started singing yomim. Then he spoke about the importance of chinnuch and engraving emuna and bitachon into your children. Then they had another video about Migdal HaEmek, then he talked a little bit about his Yeshiva. They then opened up the Aron Kodesh and everyone said Shema Yisroel. Then we started to sing and dance. As he was leaving everyone was getting brachos.

Thank you to Rabbi Levy for arranging this event and for inviting Yeshivas Doresh for another amazing event.

Inspiration From An Unexpected Place

By Moshe Perel (Toronto, CA)

This past Motzoi Shabbos we had the honor of having Rabbi Elchonon Boruch (Andre) Roitman come speak. He first was telling us how hard it can be to be a Hatzalah member, and how the radio can go off at the worst times but he does it to be able to help Klal Yisroel. Then he told us about how he grew up in Brazil not religious, but every Friday night he would drive with his father and two brothers to shul. Then one Friday night after davening he walked out of shul and saw everyone crowded around the car, so his father said they are probably looking at the new car, but as they got closer they realized they weren't admiring the car. Someone had broken in and stolen the stereo! His father looked at it and instead of saying Hashem obviously doesn't want me to go to shul, he took it as a sign not to drive to shul on Shabbos. So that night they walked back home. When they got to the building they lived in, Andre told his father "you go up the elevator but since we already walked home I'm going to walk up the 11 flights of steps to our apartment" so his father said I don't want you to go by yourself, so he said I'll send your two brothers up in the elevator and I'll go up the steps with you. But then his brothers said if you're walking up so are we. And since that Shabbos his family has been Shomer Shabbos. After that he ended up learning in Israel and Baltimore and he spoke about the Yeshivas he went to. He then spoke about his job as a financial advisor. We then had the hotdogs prepared by Rafi Bausk.

We would like to thank Rabbi Roitman for coming and telling us the awe inspiring story of how he and his family became Shomer Shabbos, and to Rafi for grilling the hotdogs and to Ori Adivi who will be coming to speak this Motzoi Shabbos for arranging the speech.

The 1lb. Cheeseburger

By Moshe Perel (Toronto, CA)

This past Monday, Rabbi Salfer's shiur went to the restaurant L'chaim for double cheeseburgers because we took a test on the Halachos of Succos, from the Kitzur Shulchan Aruch. The test was 72 questions and the lowest score was 95%. When we got there the burgers were being made. Each burger is the size of two burgers put together which is ½ Lb. of meat, and we had double burgers so each of us had 1lb of meat, with a bun, fake cheese, lettuce, tomato, pickles, onions and fried onions. On the side we had fries and each guy got an Arizona drink. We would like to thank Rabbi Salfer for giving us the motivation to learn the Halachos and for taking us for the delicious burgers.
