4. Volunteers

4.1 Thinking about volunteering

If you are interested in becoming a volunteer but are not sure what you would like to do, the range of opportunities can be overwhelming. There are a number of questions you can ask yourself which will help you select the right sort of voluntary opportunity to suit you:

- Why do you want to volunteer? Is it because you have time to spare, would like to make new friends, would like to learn new skills and gain experience, or have skills and experiences that you would like to put to good use?
- How much time can you spare? Can you make a regular commitment of a few hours a week, or are you looking to do something more short term?
- Do you prefer interacting with groups of people, on a one-to-one basis, or would you be happy to work alone?
- If you want to work with people, what sort of people - elderly, children, young people or disabled people? NB Some roles working with children or adults at risk may require you to have a Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) check, also known as a criminal record check.
- Do you have any specific skills that you would want to use in a voluntary capacity?
- Are you motivated to volunteer for a particular cause? If so, do you know exactly what you want to do or are you prepared to offer your services where they are most needed?
- Are you prepared to undergo training if your volunteering requires it?
- If you are on welfare benefits, do you know how volunteering may affect your entitlement? See information sheet 4.12 'Volunteering and Welfare Benefits'.

Volunteering involves a degree of personal commitment and responsibility but it also brings with it a sense of achievement and fulfilment. Whatever your reasons for volunteering, the most important advice you can be given is to enjoy what you are doing.

Once you have the answers to these questions, contact your local volunteer centre (Visit www.volunteering-wales.net to find your nearest centre).

A volunteer centre offers a one-stop resource for information, advice and guidance on all aspects of volunteering for both volunteers and recruiting organisations. Volunteer Centre staff aim to link the skills, experiences, time and enthusiasm of local people looking to volunteer with organisations seeking to develop their services.

Once you have made a selection, you may want to ask the organisation a number of questions before making a decision:

- Will I be reimbursed for out of pocket expenses?
- Will I have insurance cover while volunteering?
- Will I have access to relevant training?
- Will I know exactly what is, and what is not, expected of you?
- Will there be a named person who I can talk to about my work?
- Will I be trained in the use of any special equipment, and will protective clothing be provided?
- Will I need to give notice if you wish to finish your placement?
- Will a Disclosure and Barring Service check be required?
