OCTOBER, tenth Month.

1878.

The goodly show of summer's pass'd away,
No more we hear the cheerful warbler's lay;
Each fruitful field made desolate by frost,
And floral beauties in oblivion lost.

| 15 | | More rain. | "Billy must not work," said Mrs. Jackins, "by no means. I intend him for a store." And so this smart lad is left to be a gentleman while his father tugs alone in the field. Instead of learning to be industrious and honest; he learns what is fashionably called doing business—which is to smooch cigars, snap whips, drink frog, run horses, wear a watch chain, and swear roundly. This is a great evil in the country, and it is to be hoped that the next society that shall be formed will be one for preventing the increase of UPSTARTS. |
