Diana Garcia

Charismatic Diana Garcia is a social studies teacher at the St. Croix Educational Complex and the president of the St. Croix Majorettes. Ms. Garcia finds her happiness in love, family, friends and the simple things in life. When she walks into a room her loving and nurturing vibe radiates like beams of light! Even when she can barely juggle her own problems, Ms. Garcia has a difficult time saying, “No!” Although she constantly improves herself, she can be stubborn at times and will remind herself that “there is so much more to life than what I have encountered.” She enjoys talking about life while hanging out with her friends. Tell her your plans, your goals. Hey, even tell her about your new dog, but leave gossip at the door. People aren’t her heroes—only God who has done much for her. One special gift and her happiest moment was the birth of her son Jesus Garcia, Jr. Blue, her pet fish, is a constant joy. Lastly, her beloved aunt taught her that in order to get the most out of life, one must demonstrate respect and discipline. With that anyone can go as far as the kind and hilarious Diana Garcia.

John Obafemi Jones

John Obafemi Jones thinks culture should be important to everyone. So, through his art and art related activities, he promotes a lasting appreciation for culture. Mr. Jones admires positivity. Yemaya Jones, fellow artist and love of his life, shares his optimistic attitude. One of Mr. Jones' greatest achievements is teaching at the St. Croix Educational Complex High School, because many of his students turned out to be excellent human beings. Though he enjoys being a retiree and a full time artist, having been a teacher and making a positive impact on future artists and world citizens fills him with pride. Mr. Jones values love and respect most in his friends. His real life heroes are his parents. He advises young people to be a better person today than you were yesterday.

Nina York

Nina York left Denmark in 1976 to live on St. Croix in order to complete her father's dream of visiting the U. S. Virgin Islands. For 13 years, Ms. York was the editor of the local magazine, St. Croix This Week. Through this experience she worked with many other local writers and artists. She admires and has happily experienced much of our rich culture and only wishes she could contribute more to the people of the VI. Her biggest contribution to the community has been publicizing the island's beauty with her Virgin Islands collectable stamps. Her stamps display the islands' rich history, scenic views, sugar mills, and hibiscus flowers. York has also traveled to Denmark and offered lectures that promoted the islands as a tourist destination. For that work she received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Chamber of Commerce and recognition from the United States Congress. Ms. York uses her time to work on her stamps and spend quality time with her friends.

Toby Derima

Born on St. Croix, Toby Derima loves being a talented musician. He finds peace and happiness in his art. A member of four bands, his greatest accomplishment is winning the first Party Monarch Competition on St. Croix and keeping the title for three consecutive years. Toby's personal motto is, "nothing is impossible with hard work." It is easy to see that Derima is a positive influence on his son Tyriq "Riigo" Derima, a member of Hypa-Aktiv-Krew. He feels if there are any changes to be made, it is to relax more. Derima does enjoy dancing quadrille. He advises upcoming musicians to create their music for the love of it. Everything else will come after: money and fame. He admires positivity in others, no matter what they do for a living.

Priscilla Hintz Rivera Knight

Priscilla Hintz Rivera Knight is a literal master of the arts. She has a master's in arts administration. In addition, Mrs. Knight has a bachelor's degree in social studies, a professional certificate in arts marketing, and a certificate in museum and curatorial studies. Mrs. Knight has participated in many exhibitions such as "Live Life in Yellow," "Dream in Green", and "Shansi Miller: Lady in Red Visits." She has recently co-founded the Gri-Gri Project with her husband, writer and photographer David Knight Jr. The Gri-Gri Project consists of exhibitions, events, and the culture of the U.S. Virgin Islands. This project has taken Mrs. Knight as far as Cuba, Barbados, Aruba, Puerto Rico, Denmark, and the United States. She has worked for organizations such as the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., Casa de las Américas in Cuba, and the St. Thomas Historical Trust. Doing what she loves most and spreading V.I. happiness through every piece of artwork, Knight is currently the director of the "Bajo El Sol Gallery" on St. John.

Mario Picayo

Mario Picayo is an author, photographer, filmmaker and editor-in-chief of Editorial Campana and its two children imprints. An optimist at heart, he believes that no matter how bad the world is we can do better by working together. One must, however, take risks in order to see the outcome. "Each day you wake up, strive for better, go for YOUR it and never give up," he advises. Whether it is your goal to write a book or paint a master piece of art--keep pushing, he says. His greatest contribution in the Virgin Islands is the cultural projects that he has completed with teachers and students. He uses photography to find a way to make young people see themselves positively. Mr. Picayo also promotes the work of other VI authors and illustrators in a unified positive vision of the Virgin Islands. Mr. Picayo is the embodiment of the quotation: "You never work a day in your life, when you are doing what you love."

Claire Roker

Claire Roker is a woman of excellence, honesty, and wisdom. Born on the island of St. Croix, Mrs. Roker enjoys our tropical lifestyle with family and friends. In fact, Mrs. Roker has determined that she has no desire to live elsewhere. Experiences from her past have given her plenty reasons to be openly honest with friends and neighbors; however, on a rare occasion she may lie about her age. Mrs. Roker values the love we have for one another as a community. She especially loves and admires her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Therefore, it comes as no surprise that one of her happiest moments in life was delivering her first child. She is a sought after community member and a woman with vast knowledge. Mrs. Roker has worked with several beauty pageants such as Hal Jackson's Talented Teens, Outstanding Teen America, and Miss St. Croix. One position she fondly remembers holding is Assistant Commissioner of Tourism for the Government of the Virgin Islands.

Alscess Lewis-Browne

Alscess Lewis-Browne doesn't want to be anywhere else but in the Caribbean. Here, her heart is home, and she is inspired to write and share her thoughts. So it stands to reason that she is the director and editor of the University of the Virgin Islands' Caribbean Writer. Raising her children and publishing her writing are two of Ms. Browne's greatest achievements. Ms. Browne is happiest spending time with tried and true friends, writing, and editing. One of her favorite authors is Langston Hughes. Ms. Browne believes people should give from the heart, not with the expectation of getting something in return. Each day Ms. Browne gifts the Virgin Islands with nurturing a new generation of writers. Her new novel "Shadows" will be released this year.

Winona "Patrece" Adams Hendricks

Winona "Patrece" Adams Hendricks was an educator for 32 years. Her career includes experience as a principal and assistant principal. She taught at The University of the Virgin Islands and is presently a member of the Board of Education. Mrs. Hendricks is also a creative visionary. In 1981 her carnival troupe Riggidims pranced down the road during the St. Croix Festival and has kept going for 30-plus years. Mrs. Hendricks believes that perfect happiness is enjoying life with family and friends. She is happy that she grew up with many responsibilities. Her upbringing prepared her for her greatest achievement, being a great mom, grandmother, and educator. Mrs. Hendricks likes people who are humble and gives others the chance to shine. She loves her three children immensely: Kasan C. Wheatley, Dr. Kysha S. Hendricks, and Kevre' L. Hendricks. Her other inspirations are grandchildren Kasan C. Wheatley, Jr. and Kaiel C. Wheatley.

Charles D. Peters

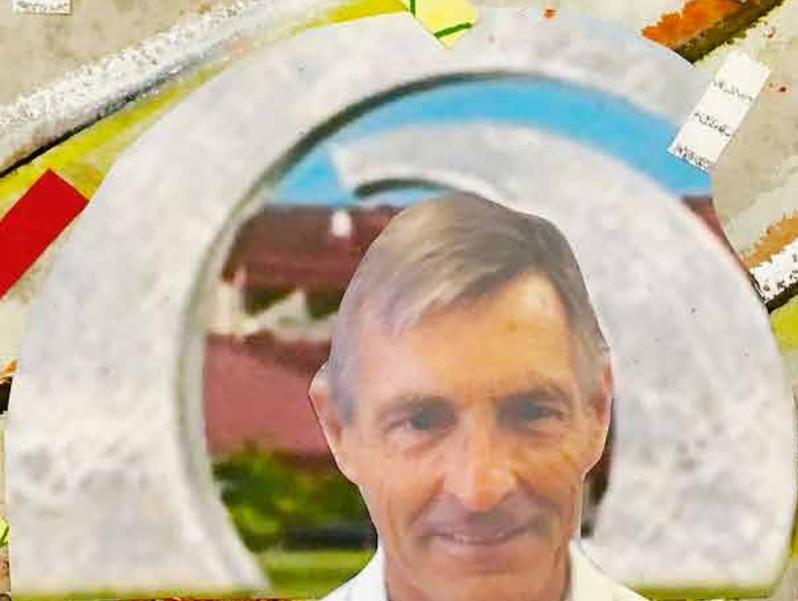

Charles D. Peters would rather not change anything about himself even if he could, because he likes who he has become. Mr. Peters has a lot to be proud of. He started his own business at age 21. He was an industrial construction specialist dealing with quality control. Presently, he captures amazing images as a photographer. He feels it is a great achievement to actually learn what you set out to learn and to use your talents and abilities to see your projects or ideas into existence. Mr. Peters finds joy in being a respected artist. The 70-plus-year-old African American man has gone through many obstacles. He believes being positive and thinking positively helps you have positive results. Mr. Peters would love to give more of his time to young people, helping them to figure out how to do something with their lives. His advice for young people is summed up in his motto for success: be prepared, be honest, be truthful, and be mindful.

Mike Walsh

Mike Walsh is a well-known metal worker. His most memorable piece of art is the Middle Passage icon located on the St. Croix Educational Complex High School campus, what is most notable about that sculpture is that one piece was placed in the ocean as a tribute to those Africans who lost their lives on the middle passage journey to enslavement. Mr. Walsh's real life heroes are his lovely wife and women in general, because they are fearless and have great integrity. He also admires President Barack Obama's grace and discipline. Walsh's greatest achievement is being successful despite challenges. Therefore, he values hard work and deplores laziness. His most treasured possession is his health, for without proper health the body could not operate well. His motto is: "Freedom is trotted easy in hardness."

Kevre' L. Hendricks

Mr. Hendricks is a well-known member of the Fusion Band on St. Croix. When he is not on the road, he teaches music at the St. Croix Educational Complex High School and will gladly answer to the nickname Maestro. Mr. Hendricks masterfully directs the marching and the concert bands. A stern and dedicated teacher, Mr. Hendricks pushes his students to persevere, instead of giving up. He advises them to take music seriously and accept opportunities in order to avoid later regret. For him, perfect happiness is sitting down and playing music. He is friendly, but don't touch his bass! It is his most treasured possession. He deplores whiners and negative people. Of the eight billion people in the world, he naturally admires his mother the most, how fortunate they are to appear in the same calendar. His favorite musicians are jazz trumpeters Wynton Marsalis and Jon Faddis. Mr. Hendricks meets life's challenges courageously to become the person he wants to be in the future.

Virgin Islands Cultural Contributors Calendar Project Educators

Sayeeda Carter

Sayeeda Carter teaches Drama and Speech at the St. Croix Educational Complex. She has been teaching for 24 years in St. Croix, California and New York. Something that her students always enjoy about her is that she is funny and crazy. If you were to take one of her classes, it may be difficult but once you get over your stage fright, you'd have a blast. Ms. Carter has acted on stage countless times and has appeared in two locally produced films shot by Peter Sagnia, "Preciosa" and "That Which is Needful". The current state of education in the Virgin Islands causes lots of stress and anxiety for Ms. Carter. She is concerned that we are not demanding enough rigor and commitment and that our students won't be ready for the world outside of the VI. She always wants the best for her students. Ms. Carter's teaching methods are revolutionary and dynamic. She is most proud of her beautiful daughters, Zuma and Ma'at and grateful for her dedicated partner.

Danica M. David

St. Croix born artist, art educator, and owner of Danica Art Studio, Ms. Danica M. David, thanks the Creator for gifting her with a creative brain that constantly churns with ideas. She uses her imagination to preserve her culture with every painting she creates and every art lesson she teaches. As an art educator at the St. Croix Educational Complex High School, Ms. David is concerned about our islands' future and the youth she serves. Every day she continues to be thankful which help her to push through difficult times. The desire to do something new motivates her. Perhaps one day you will see her take the stage in her theatrical debut. Among her varied accomplishments she is most proud of being the mother of two sons, Alex and Kaylan. Ms. David is also proud of herself for writing her first book titled Creative Callaloo. Creative Callaloo showcases Virgin Islands' art, poems, and recipes. Ms. David's book will be available in 2018.

Regina Edwards-Keels

Regina Edwards-Keels, a twenty-year teaching veteran, is an English teacher at The St. Croix Educational Complex High School. Previously, she taught in Florida and South Carolina. With tireless devotion, she works to ignite a love of reading and language in her students. As a native Virgin Islander, St. Croix is often the subject of her own reading and writing. She also enjoys taking pictures of landmarks, animals, and plants of the island. Mrs. Keels dreams of opening a Caribbean curated bookstore. Her greatest moments, thus far, have been spent with her family and friends hiking, eating, and laughing. She is married to Dexter Keels of South Carolina. They have two wonderful sons. She advises them and all young people to give their lives a chance--travel, meet new people, and learn many skills. In the words of the writer Tolstoy, "If you want to be happy be."
