

News, Views & Entertainment

More of the Best of the Valley

May 29, 2019

Valley residents remember fallen heroes

The Memorial Day holiday weekend's blue skies and sunshine offered a perfect backdrop for parades in the Valley.

Rain-weary area residents turned out in large numbers to remember those who paid the ultimate price so future generations could celebrate and enjoy those parades in Ansonia, Derby, Seymour and Shelton.

Pictorial highlights from each parade are shown in today's issue.

Perfect weather greets Shelton-Derby Memorial Day Parade-goers

On Monday morning hundreds lined the sidewalks of downtown Shelton and Derby to watch veterans, firefighters, police officers, Scout troops, school groups, bands and more march in the annual two-city parade.

See more views of the day on P.2

- Photos by Patricia Villers

Here are more views from Derby-Shelton Memorial Day parade. See a slideshow of the event HERE

Ansonia marks Memorial Day

In Ansonia Sunday, city native and veteran James Murphy, who is almost 99, traveled from Minnesota to march in the parade he loves. It was his June birthday wish to do so. See more photos on P.3
- Photos by Patricia Villers

More pictures from Ansonia's Memorial Day Parade

For the 2019 Ansonia parade, Ansonia veteran James Murphy, who is almost 99, traveled from Minnesota to march in the parade he loves. It was his June birthday wish to do so.

See a slideshow of the event HERE

Seymour residents enjoy parade

On Sunday, residents enjoyed Seymour's traditional parade on Main Street that ended at the Community Center.

- Photos by
Peggy Dinan Carvalho

