soda fountain history

The soda fountain was an attempt to replicate mineral waters that bubbled up from the Earth. Many civilizations believed that drinking and/or bathing in these mineral waters cured diseases, and large industries often sprang up around hot springs.

In their heyday, soda fountains flourished in pharmacies, ice cream parlors, candy stores, dime stores, department stores, milk bars and train stations. They served an important function as a public space where neighbors could socialize and exchange community news. In the early 20th century, many fountains expanded their menus and became lunch counters, serving light meals as well as ice cream sodas, egg creams, sundaes, and such. Soda fountains reached their height in the 1940s and 1950s.

You can see a bit of Fort Collins' soda fountain history on the Union Wall where a vintage green mixer is proudly displayed. It was used at "Sol & Dicks" in the 1940's to make drinks like the one's you're tasting today! It is on display thanks to Jan Thayer.

In modern day Fort Collins, Union Bar & Soda fountain exists as a weekly gathering place to enjoy diner style foods and soda fountain beverages, for people like you to reminisce of the good ol' times while creating some fun new memories of your own. Enjoy!
