

INTACTIVISTS STATEMENTS SHOWING THAT INTACTIVISM IS A MENTAL DISORDER

13

Taylor McCarty

Home (1) Active 9m ago

And I'm sorry to say this but I really can't see myself staying your friend if you choose to mutilate your child in that manner. It is starting to affect my mental health and cause serious depression because every time I see you post about him I know what you're going to do to him and it makes me sick to my stomach because I've actually watched videos of the procedure being done and it makes me lightheaded to see and think about. It upsets me to know that you are going to mutilate him no matter how much information I give you. That makes me think bad things about you that I don't want to think because I love you dearly.

14

Daniel Rold
February 13 · 🌐

Mindy (Lyft)
Feb 13, 3:10 PM PST

Follow-Up from Lyft Safety
Hello Daniel,

My name is Mindy, and I am with Lyft's Trust and Safety Team. As my associate stated in her previous email, you allegedly made inappropriate comments about your genitals, refused to allow passengers to exit, and used Lyft's platform to discuss your views on circumcision to the point of handing out flyers with photos. These actions made passengers uncomfortable and concerned for their safety.

Please keep in mind that the decision to deactivate your account was made after a holistic review of your driving account, and is not the result of any one incident in particular. This decision has been reviewed and will remain final.

Regards,
Mindy

15

Steven Barendregt
September 27, 2017 · 🌐

Welp... Another family member blocked me on Facebook for trying to educate her about the damage that circumcision causes.

63 132 Comments

Steven Barendregt
Lol well I still have my sister and my uncle. I also have friends who care about me more than my own mother or my brothers.

Like Reply 3

Steven Barendregt
December 24, 2018 · 🌐

While I'm very pleased that my sister K [redacted] has chosen to leave her child intact I still cannot have a good relationship with her, because she still does not recognize circumcision as mutilation. She thinks that it should be up to the parents to decide whether or not to mutilate their child, and does not recognize me as a victim of genital mutilation.

Steven Barendregt
September 1 · 🌐

Every time i notice a girl who's interested in me i bring up mgm for 2 reasons.

1. I would never date someone who supported mgm.
2. To educate them

And almost every time, she loses interest in me after i talk about it. Just happened tonight.

33 297 Comments

16

Kalei Cherise Valery Friends of Bloodstained Men
November 15 at 12:36 PM · 🌐

I am at a breaking point and I'm looking for support.

Many nights I lie awake with the image of my now soon-to-be husband as a newborn infant being wheeled away from his mother, strapped into a plastic tray, and being sliced into without any remote concept of what's happening. I can imagine every single cut. The nurse staff, the perpetrator, bright lights, the terror... it's all so vivid to me despite never experiencing it myself.

Every time I see an infant I can't help but think "I hope no one messes with that kid's genitals." Every time I'm in a room full of men now, I can't help but think about how a likely majority of them have been mutilated and subsequently lied to. Every day I think about how many babies are screaming at this very moment and not one protector of theirs is listening. I feel like nothing I do about it will never be enough.

How do I stay strong through this, for my partner, my friends, and my future sons? How do I numb the absolute horror that I feel over this without crying every day? And what more can I do to help people who have had this act forced upon them?