"He is not here; for he has been raised" (Matthew 28:6)

EASTER

Holy Week is a veritable rollercoaster; a triumphant entry, a horrific murder, and the ultimate plot twist ending- there is no body in the tomb. Beyond plastic eggs and chocolate bunnies, Easter is a celebration of life that conquers death, and a Saviour who took every sin down into the grave and broke their power, so that everyone who believes in him would be free to live with him forever. That's definitely worth celebrating!

Talk about it: In our Kids' Faith program this week, we read from Matthew which includes the Pharisees and Pilate stationing soldiers at the tomb to prevent anyone from falsifying the resurrection. How does this amplify the story? Why did Matthew consider this detail important enough to include in his narrative? How does this help us to have "the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen"?
