“What types of projects qualify for consideration in the State Capital Outlay Program?”

- Eligible projects would include but not be limited to: land acquisition; site development and improvement; acquisition, construction or renovation of buildings; public infrastructure: water, sewer and wastewater, drainage, roads and bridges; recreation; economic development
- Capital Outlay is not for operating or routine maintenance expenses.
- Projects should have an anticipated useful life of 20 years or more.
- Projects must be for a “public purpose”.

“Who can apply for State Capital Outlay funding?”

State Agencies, Local Government Entities, and Non-Profit Organizations are eligible to apply for State Capital Outlay funding.

STATE CAPITAL OUTLAY PROGRAM CALENDAR OF KEY EVENTS January – June 2018

Jan - Mar	In January and February 2018, the Division of Administration will be reviewing Capital Outlay Budget Requests and will develop recommendations for the Governor. These recommendations become the Governor’s Original Capital Outlay Budget Bill (House Bill No. 2).
February 1	Last day for Joint Legislative Committee on Capital Outlay to meet to consider approval of Late Capital Outlay Request submittals. After February 1 st , there is a separate process for Late Approval, but it is limited to “emergency” or “economic development” projects.
March 12	2018 Regular Legislative Session starts.
March 19	Governor submits Capital Outlay Budget Bill (House Bill No. 2) to the Legislature.
June 4	2018 Regular Legislative Session ends.

OUTLOOK FOR CAPITAL OUTLAY FUNDING:

In the final quarter of 2017, the State Revenue Estimating Conference announced State Revenue numbers that were higher than what they had projected earlier in the year. If this trend continues into 2018, it will result in more Capital Outlay Bond capacity for 2018 than has been available in recent years. The State Revenue Estimating Conference will be meeting early in 2018 to update State Revenue Estimates; and the State Bond Commission will be updating their Bond capacity calculations prior to the Regular Legislative Session. We should know more in the next couple of months about how much new Capital Outlay Bond capacity we can expect for the 2018 Legislative Session.

Through an agreement with LaMATS, James Purpera (former State Capital Outlay Budget Analyst) will provide LaMATS members with two Capital Outlay newsletters per year; several instructional webinars; and will also provide each member with up to one hour of consultation per year by phone or email to answer questions about any part of the State Capital Outlay process.

Additional consulting services, tailored to individual client needs, will be negotiated directly between you and James Purpera. The following resume and testimonial comments from a few full service clients, gives more information about the full range of services available from James Purpera Governmental Consulting.

RESUME

James Purpera is not a lobbyist, but with over 30 years of experience in Louisiana state government he is equipped to be able to provide valuable advice and assistance to you in your efforts to seek Capital Outlay funding for your projects and to maneuver through the legislative and bureaucratic process. In addition to advice and assistance provided in response to individual client issues, James Purpera also provides email newsletters and other email and phone updates throughout the annual State Budget process: to provide status reports about what is going on in the Capital Outlay process; to advise and remind clients about what they should be doing at each step in the process to maximize chances for success; and to help clients (and their engineers and architects) understand the technical and paperwork requirements of the process before and after a project is funded. James Purpera’s clients include ports, airports, municipalities, parish and other governmental entities, non-profit organizations, and lobbyists.

No one can guarantee success but as a former State Budget Analyst James Purpera understands how and when decisions are made in the State Budget process; and understands the bureaucratic process that funded projects have to maneuver through.

About James Purpera's Experience and Consulting Services

In October 2007, with more than 30 years of state government experience, James Purpera started a consulting business and is now using his knowledge and solid understanding of the art and science of state government and the political process to assist local government entities and non-profit organizations in their efforts to successfully maneuver through the State Capital Outlay Process.

James Purpera has extensive experience in the State Capital Outlay process having worked for the Division of Administration (Facility Planning & Control) as a Budget Analyst and Budget Manager in the Capital Outlay program, and then having worked for the Legislature as a Budget Analyst for the Ways and Means Committee and the Appropriations Committee.

James Purpera has long been recognized for his expertise in the area of State Budgets, particularly the Capital Outlay Budget. James Purpera has had articles about the Capital Outlay process published in the Louisiana Municipal Review and in the Ports Association of Louisiana newsletter. In addition, he has conducted Capital Outlay instructional classes for various organizations.

James Purpera understands the technical requirements which are essential to make a request, and he understands that "appropriate" follow-up strategy at every step in the process is what gives a request its best chance for funding.

If you have an interest in requesting Capital Outlay funding, but lack the knowledge of the process, staff or time to keep up with the rules, prepare an effective request or follow-up strategy, then James Purpera may be able to assist you.

The Capital Outlay Request is the most straight forward part of the process, so if you have already submitted a request, James Purpera may be able to assist you with tracking and follow-up strategy so that your request does not miss any opportunities for consideration.

If you have a project that has already been funded, but lack the knowledge of the process, staff or time to keep up with the paperwork and other bureaucratic requirements, then James Purpera can help you understand the bureaucracy that funded projects have to maneuver through.

James Purpera's fees for service will vary based on the type of service needed.
