BEAUTY AND TRANQUILITY ON A HISTORIC COUNTRYSIDE PALACE

Hotel Torre de Ruesga, a 17th Century palace whose façade is flanked by two towers, is considered one of the most important palaces in Cantabria. This historical building combines elegance and sobriety. Commissioned by Licenciado D. Juan Fernandez de Valle and built by the renowned architect and Master Builder Diego de Siniega, the palace remained untouched until 1886 when the central body was extended and the famous frescos of the main floor were executed by Catalan painter Leon de Criach depicting legends of the area. Conflicts over inheritance caused the palace to be abandoned in the 1950's leaving it at the mercy of the elements for over 40 years. Years of pure architectural devastation that left Torre de Ruesga in ruins. It was not until 1996 that the current owners undertook the responsibility of restoring the palace to its former splendour. Over 2 years of painstaking renovation and restoration the biggest challenge was to preserve its original structure and decorative detail while combining them with all the modern amenities expected of a luxury hotel. The careful restoration maintained its palatial majesty, the hotel interior is embellished with the 19th century frescos of León Criach, regarded as one of the palaces most distinctive features. In 1998 Torre de Ruesga's doors were opened once again to all those in search of history, quality, beauty and tranquility of this historic countryside.
