A STUNNING COUNTRY HOUSE HOTEL CLOSE TO GRANADA

Cortijo del Marques is an impeccably restored cortijo (Manor House), reopened in 2010, offering an authentic rural Andalusian experience. Positioned between the Pozuelo and Arana mountains in the province of Granada and at only 20 km from the city of Granada, it is ideally located for guests to enjoy hiking, cycling and sightseeing historical monuments such as the Alhambra. Once an agricultural property, the hotel takes its name from the Marquis of Mondejar who gained the property from the defeated Moors. The property was extended in 1878 to include a fortified tower and chapel, which received full church rights two years later by Pope Leon XIII. With beautiful views of the surrounding mountains, olive-trees and sunflower fields, which can be enjoyed from the outdoor pool in summer, you can unwind on the terrace or enjoy the courtyard patio and fountains. For cooler evenings the cortijo offers guests a large lounge with two fireplaces, arched patio windows and Chesterfield sofas. There are 15 boutique rooms and suites scattered around the different buildings with names such as Tower, Pigeon Loft and Granary, each one utilising original materials and furnished with wrought iron bedsteads, antique furniture and rustic wooden floors and beams. In addition there are spacious family suites available. All have central heating, private bathroom with bathrobe and a seating area. The Silo is an example to the uniqueness of the rooms: a round room in the former grain silo with cast iron bathtub, custom made bed and exposed wooden structured ceiling. The Chapel offers a perfect venue for weddings, concerts and social events with its fully restored structures and altar laterals showing the ancient, blue blooded family coat of arms.
