The Philosophy Program Committee encourages the submission of individual papers or symposium proposals:

- Paper submissions exceeding 3,000 words will not be considered. Each paper submission must include a word count and abstract of no more than 150 words. Self-reference should be deleted to permit anonymous review.
- Proposals for symposia must include a 750 word proposal for the symposium, a list of presenters and affiliations, and a 300 word abstract for each proposed paper.

Selection will be based on quality, relevance to issues at the intersection of Philosophy and Psychology (as well as other sciences of the mind), and program considerations. The aim is to present a program that is as balanced as the quality of submissions in each area will allow (though papers addressing issues of gender, race, sexuality, bias, and social exclusion are especially encouraged). All papers and proposals must employ gender-neutral language. Authors must indicate whether they wish to be considered for a Graduate Student Travel Award or the Griffith Prize (for details and eligibility see: <http://www.southernsociety.org/griffith-award>).

The Psychology Program Committee encourages submissions in all areas of psychology. All abstracts submitted and presented should employ gender-inclusive language. Titles should clearly indicate the topic of the paper. Contributions for reporting empirical studies must be based on methods appropriate to psychology as a natural or social science. The context, contribution, and importance of the research as well as the hypothesis or question being investigated should be stated clearly. The principal variables and the research design should also be specified. Submissions of symposia, panel discussions, and debates are encouraged. In particular, sessions are encouraged that include participation by psychologists and philosophers or that focus on topics of interdisciplinary interest. For symposia or sessions, the organizer should prepare a session abstract, not to exceed two pages, describing the session or symposium theme, content, and importance. All symposium materials, including individual abstracts, should be submitted together and include SYMPOSIUM' as a keyword.

Abstracts should be no more than 300 words and include 1) descriptive title, 2) author names and affiliations, and 3) keywords. Accepted abstracts from graduate students and faculty will be designated for paper presentations. Undergraduates are encouraged to submit abstracts for a poster presentation. Student authors must list a faculty advisor. All fields of the submission page must be completed, including whether the author wishes to be considered for a Graduate Student Travel Award or the Griffith Prize.

All abstracts should be submitted to: http://lsu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_eA1JvJ11Bi0svpr
