

First Midnight

150 years ago

All through the night the stars appear to move slowly around the North Star, called Polaris. The star Eltanin in the head of Draco the Dragon is about 150 light years away. The light that left Eltanin 150 years ago, traveling at 186,000 miles per second, is just now reaching your eyes.