Parade

Garance Matton's paintings are composed as collages. The figures stand out on the surface of the canvases in strange attitudes. Sometimes their presence is only suggested by the shape of a face. The figures are embedded in colored structures where space extends in a game of shapes and overlapping plans. Games are a central element of Garance Matton's work: scrabble, crosswords, puzzles are almost a structural component of her imagination. It allows her to put together pictorial elements from different worlds but also to bridge the gap between different ways of painting.

Garance Matton creates multilingual paintings and her composite images are filled with artistic references: Piero della Francesca, Uccello... they subtly blend with the artist's daily objects: comb, clock, connected devices. They all exist in the painting, like the pieces of a puzzle, or the rooms of a house.
