A: Yes! Entry is open to members of Women with Altitude, The Men's Altitude Network and Non-members.

Q: Is there an entry fee?

A: No, there is no entry fee, however the Awards Ball is an event where tickets will need to be purchased. Tickets go on sale from 1st February and are in the range of $130-140 for a 3, course a la carte meal, drinks and entertainment. Discounts for tables of 10 will also be available.

Q: I have entered the awards, but I'm not able to attend the awards ceremony

A: What a shame! It so important that finalists are at the awards. We have found that people who think they won't win, are often the ones that do, so it's important to be there to celebrate yours and your fellow finalists. We suggest the following:

- Is there someone who can attend in your place?
- If not then we would suggest you consider entering at another time.

Q: When is the closing date for receiving entries:

A: In 2018, Entries close midnight 12th of April, unless extended by the organisers

Q: I have been nominated and the category I have been nominated for doesn't match my circumstances, what should I do?

A: This sometimes happens when friends and colleagues nominate. Not to worry, just select the category that is appropriate for you and submit to that category. Your friends, Colleagues and customers are just excited to see you enter, and the category won't be noticed by your nominator.

Q: I have a business partner, should we both enter

A: Yes, you are welcome to nominate with all of your business partners or team.

Q: I don't have a great photo; can I still submit my entry?

A: We must have a photo for the entry to be validated. Choose a photo that you love and submit that

Q: I have answered a question and I'm under or over the word count, what should I do?

A: If you are under and you are happy with the content of your answer, then submit. If you are over the word count, how far over. The judges have to read scores of entries, it's important that you don't go over by more than 40 words
