

Me and You (And All the Things We Do)

How many nights will I wake up screamin'?
So far five and I'm still dreamin'
What do I expect when I got to bed and you're what's in my head?

All the shit you said and the shit you did
The things I'm not sure I will outlive
It terrifies me realizing I am just the same as you

And maybe that's why in my dreams I can't outrun you
Because I am you
And maybe that's why when I scream no one saves me 'til I wake myself
'Cause there's not one else

Just me and you
You're all the things I do

How many nights will I wake up screamin'?
We're up to ten, can I quit sleepin'?
I tried to drink those dreams away but you can't drink yourself out of your skin

The things I said, the things I did
I didn't know I needed to forgive
It's clear as day in dead of night, I sweat the sheets and swing with all my might

Just me and you
You're all the things I do

I guess it's time that I face you
I guess it's time that I stop denying
I guess it's time that I face you
I guess it's time that I give up lying
