

When The Embers Fall Down

Let's stay up all night in case the sun decides that it won't rise
'Cause I don't know how many tries we get to get it right
So kiss me fast, and kiss me hard, 'cause I don't know what comes after the dark
Let's stay up all night in case the sun decides that it won't rise

There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more but here inside your eyes it is warm

Let's stay in bed all day when comets crash and hit the ground like rain
I don't know how many ways or turns of phrase I get to say
I'll kiss you fast and kiss you hard and place my head against your beating heart
Let's stay in bed all day when comets crash and hit the ground like rain

There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more when the storm hits the shore
There could be nothing more but here inside your eyes it is warm

I don't know where, where the sun, where it goes when it burns out
I don't know where, how to run, how to hide from the fallout
And I don't know where, where we go, when it ends and it ends

When the embers fall down
When the embers fall down

I don't know where, where the sun, where it goes when it burns out
I don't know where, how to run, how to hide from the fallout
And I don't know where, where we go, when it ends and it ends

When the embers fall down
When the embers fall down

Let's stay up all night in case the sun decides that it won't rise
Let's keep love alive 'cause that's the only way we'll all survive
