

About Chorley Photographic Society

The club's heritage goes all the way back to our formation in 1895 when photography was young. Today, we are still at the forefront of local photography. In fact, Chorley Photographic Society is now one of the UK's premier photography clubs.

The club runs an engaging and first class syllabus of events all year round, which include sessions at least weekly for our members.

The club competes in local, national and International photography competitions where Chorley Photographic Society has built a reputation for excellence. We are consistently one of the top clubs in the UK and, recently, one of the more successful photographic clubs in the world. One particular high point was winning the Gold Medal at last years FIAP World Cup interclub competition and winning several UK National Competitions, such as the PAGB Cup.

The Club has met continuously since its inception and membership is open to all, regardless of photographic experience or skill. I am proud that we have created an environment that allows internationally successful photographers and relative beginners to work alongside each other in the same club. Yet at the same time being able to fulfil the needs of all our members, irrespective of experience and skill.
