Thomas Hall, Exeter

Advised several prospective developers over a number of years on the potential re-use and conversion of this Grade II villa that had spent many years on the "Buildings at Risk" register. The heritage importance of the listed building, the walled gardens and extensive grounds was retained through sensitive conversion and new buildings were designed in the grounds. The site has now been redeveloped for the Steiner School. Joint working with specialist contractors regarding structural issues with the building achieved appropriate results while retaining the important historic character. Opened September 2015.

Royal Albert Memorial Museum, Exeter

A multi-million pound refurbishment of the Grade II listed mid C19th museum fulfilling requirements of C21. Pivotal role in ensuring the architectural and historic interest of the building was retained and, where possible, enhanced.

Building won National Museum of the Year in 2012.
