3 JUN: London The Wallace Collection and Holland Park

10am Pick up by private driver and private guide

The Wallace Collection

It is one of the best collections of fine arts ever assembled by one family in the UK! You will discover Pictures and Miniatures, Ceramics and Glass, Sculpture and Works of Art. Arms and Armour, Sèvres porcelain, and Gold Boxes and Furniture. Paintings, furniture and porcelain are displayed together to recreate the atmosphere of the grand private collections of the 19th century.

Get your audio-guide at the entrance (available in English or French only) or try the free smartify app by scanning the art and uncover the story.

Lunch at the Wallace Restaurant

The Wallace Collection's stunning courtyard is the glamorous location for Peyton and Byrne's French-style brasserie.

Afternoon

Your private driver and guide will take you to the Holland Park

The history of Holland Park, one of London's finest green spaces, makes an interesting tale for history buffs and horticulturalists alike. The park surrounds a Jacobean mansion, Holland House, named after its second owner, the Earl of Holland, whose wife was the first person in England to successfully grow dahlias. In the 19th century, Holland House became a hub of political and literary activity, visited by Disraeli and Lord Byron amongst others, but was largely destroyed by bombs during WWII. These days, dahlias are still grown within the 55 acres of Holland Park, which also houses the Japanese-style Kyoto Gardens with its koi carp and bridge at the foot of a waterfall.
