ZeroStone Terms and Conditions

The NZ Ministry of Health currently recommends that before reoccupation of a premises, surface wipes for methamphetamine not exceed the following concentrations, in the associated conditions; 1.5 µg | 100 cm<sup>2</sup> in carpeted rooms, 2.0 µg | 100 cm<sup>2</sup> in uncarpeted rooms, and 0.5 µg | 100 cm<sup>2</sup> in a premise that has been used as a clandestine meth' laboratory.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd drug testing technicians take their samples in accordance with their inScience training, and in accordance with Dräger methods.

The Dräger Screen Test results are created by the use of the Dräger DrugTest 5000, and the results are passed onto the client by ZeroStone Investigations Ltd.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd use Analytica Laboratories for the scientific analysis of samples taken.

Analytica Laboratories test for methamphetamine and 3 related compounds (amphetamine, ephedrine, and pseudoephedrine). The testing is ISO 17025 accredited by IANZ, which means that it is independently audited to provide results that can be trusted. Testing follows the internationally recognised NIOSH 9111 method

Analytica Laboratories provide NIOSH 9111 compliant test kits for sample collection.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd drug testing technicians take their samples in accordance with their inScience training, and in accordance with Analytica Laboratories and NIOSH 9111 methods.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd methamphetamine contamination technicians regularly take quality control "blank samples", which are analysed by Analytica Laboratories, to ensure their testing procedures can be relied upon.

Analytica Laboratories' results and subsequent report are their findings, and are passed onto the client by ZeroStone Investigations Ltd.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd do not necessarily endorse the NZ Ministry of Health methamphetamine levels for methamphetamine contamination, but accept that they are the designated levels of safety in New Zealand at the present time.

ZeroStone Investigations Ltd advise categorically that unless every surface in a premise is tested, there is no way to guarantee a home is completely free of methamphetamine contamination. Technicians are trained to sample from the areas most likely to show signs of contamination. The more samples taken, the more likely it is that any methamphetamine contamination present will be found.
