

UNPRECEDENTED FASHION

Hip hop culture” was first a dance in AFRICA, with clans that danced around a bonfire, it was a typic behavior for them but the culture began in the underground New York by two people who changed the meaning of this dance and started to express Hip hop culture through to music in United States. Then, this genre grew around the world and society has a good opinion about it now.

The genre was born in the 70s through five types as DJing, Mcing, graffiti, beatbox and breaking or break dancing. Hip hop culture started with this features of music and dance in New York,

But quickly the movement had influenced countries worldwide. it was called “global musical epidemic” because the beats and the sounds were preferred by adolescents.

A typical expression is the street language is transmitted to the hip hop culture through rap music. If you like rap music you know that there are a lot of words identify to the hip hoppers as the word “nigga” or “da bomb” those are the most popular words of hip hoppers in all world and represent something that is excellent. it is called slang, one can hear to Japanese hip hoppers or Colombian hip hoppers using the same slang like American hip hoppers. Slang is one in the world because you can understand the urban language and they use the word as a term of endearment.

Society was affected because of style rappers, they adorn themselves with the most unlikely preppy labels. Clothing styles that include clothes as Tommy Hilfiger, Nautica, Timberland. However, This is one way to express the renegade image of the street.

finally, hip hop subculture can have a big social impact . since the 70s people expressed their opinions or dislikes through music, dance, beatbox, etc. this culture increased because of millions of hip hoppers all over world heard these lyrics and concentrated on positive messages. if we do it the impact could be revolutionary.

BY: JUAN RODRIGUEZ