

remember me

I said goodbye to you today
In my own quiet way
A hidden tear was shed
Tribute to the life you led

Empty chair, an unspoken reminder of you
Too soon to be filled by a patient so new Numb to the pain of so many goodbyes
Sorrow hidden, secretly brushing tears from my eyes

You joined the others who paved the way for you
The leader, the song-man, the fiesty one, too
The one who decided that he'd just had enough
Saying farewell to you all has been so tough

I like to imagine you are all gathered up there
Playing poker, having feasts, so many stories to share
No more restrictions on fluid and food
No longer chained to disease, it is as it should

Those of us left behind, keep your memory alive
Working hard every day to help others survive
Chair no longer empty, a new soul to tend Hidden tears suppressed
A new beginning to the end

Another Goodbye
