

The World of Work

Integrating inclusion design into company policy is becoming increasingly important, not only for workers' happiness at an organization, but also for companies and their bottom line.

Rapid innovation is leading to another Industrial Revolution, with organizations and workers needing to learn how to evolve and integrate the technological advancements into the workplace.

The workplace is undergoing a huge transformation. In response, workers will also change the way they interact with the economy.

More and more workers are entering the Gig Economy, or becoming freelance workers or independent contractors.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics projects that by 2020, 43% of the workforce will be gig workers.

Millennials, who are slated to make up 75% of the workforce by 2025, are the biggest drivers of this change.

