

Guided by a heart home

By Miriam Salguero.

In the feeling of love and devotion,
The brown-eyed boy made me feel,
Even through the whispers of panic,
I find my high, my heart's emotion.

Through the thickest or thinnest,
You're the boy, my boy, my heart, my soul.
To survive, my guiding call so true,
In the feeling of love, risk and new.

I yearn to have you around,
Although love is a hit or miss,
I want you home,
Home with me tonight and for all of life.

I can't do this without you;
It's hard to face it all alone.
You're the person I want and need next to me,
Breathing me and touching me.

When I am with you, I am at peace,
It's a feeling that can't be beat.
Making it easy for me to fall,

And to genuinely trust it all.

We are human, so we're not perfect,
But we got this, I don't need anything else.
As long as you're here,
I know we're going home.

When you looked me in my eyes,
The warmth I felt, I couldn't disguise.
When the stars align,
I can see your heart—can you see mine?

As much as patience is key,
With you is the only state I want to be.
My home is with you, no matter where we are,
Distance might hurt, but time will heal the scar.

With you, my heart feels complete,
That is something no one can defeat.
Time only brings us closer,
Honest to God, with my heart and soul, you are the holder.

If your fear is love, let it be known,
A prize too good, baby, you'll never be alone.
I'll stand, no need to run and hide,
Love like mine and yours will always abide.

Loving you endlessly

Embracing all that you are

Valuing every moment cherishing all that you are

Overcoming all obstacles together

Never letting you go, holding you close through all that life may bring.

No matter what comes we will be just fine

We am never alone