

What Makes Us Unique

Cradled in Grace approaches adoption from a Christ-centered perspective, with all members of the triad in mind. Through carefully developed partnerships, we offer extensive training and insight from adult adoptees, birth families and adoptive parents.

New in 2019, we have several changes in place to make our client experience even better!

Thanks to the generosity of Texas Christian Adoptions, we now offer free to our clients a 2.5 hour training video. In this video, clients will have the benefit of insight from adult adoptees, adoptive families and birth families. This training also provides valuable information from a geneticist so that adoptive families can have a well-informed understanding of what to expect with regard to the social and medical history.

In partnership with Arrow and Root our clients can receive an amazing, professionally designed profile book, customized to meet the needs of our partner agencies. During the design process, Cradled in Grace clients will receive feedback and profile review from a birth mom perspective through Arrow and Root's exclusive with Leah Outten of Open Adoption Consultants. This is all provided to Cradled in Grace clients for a cost far below the average professional profile design company.

We're excited to partner with Ashley Mitchell of Lifetime Healing to provide our clients with more than a decade of experience educating others about topics related to birth families. She will tackle the hard topics that many Hopeful Adoptive Families wonder how to navigate. These include, but aren't limited to:

- + How to love an expectant mother after you have been chosen. Including meeting for the first time, gifts, hospital and more.
- + How to navigate an open adoption through anything that life throws at you. Including silence of a birth mother, adding additional family to the mix and "unsafe" situations.
- + Understanding Adoptive Parent guilt, setting appropriate boundaries so you don't cross the line and understand that the birth mother grief is NOT YOUR FAULT!

Home Study

Do we need to have a home study for you to work with us?

You do not. We are happy to provide options for a thorough, yet cost effective home study in your state. If you already have a home study, that's ok too! We will be happy to reach out to your home study agency and obtain the documentation we need.

Agency Clients

We can work with families no matter where they are in the process. While you may not need all of the services we offer, there are still many benefits. Cradled in Grace is here to advocate and support you throughout the entire adoption process, from the first day you contact us, all the way to finalization.

For The Men

Kim's husband, Scott, offers a one on one chat with with our male clients. He will help them walk through issues and struggles from a guys perspective/adoptive fathers' perspective. We all know guys process things differently most times and we think it's important that the guys have someone they can talk to that "gets it".
