TRICK OR TREAT

The costumes are done and the kids are ready for the big night. But are you?

Here are a few tips to help you prepare for this year's batch of trick-or-treaters:

Make it safe

~ Remove any objects from your driveway, walkway, front steps or balcony that could be dangerous. Remember that kids tend to be less careful when they're excited. Leaves can become very slippery, so sweep away any leaves from these areas. Even your car should be kept out of the driveway for the night of the 31st.

~ Give the kids lots of light to see by. If you choose to use candles, keep them well out of reach.

Make it fun

~ Take part in the excitement by decorating your home and donning your own disguise. You will probably have trick or treaters of all ages, though, so don't overdo the "scary" aspect of this night.

~ Stick to individually-wrapped candies. That way, parents can have a bit more control over how much goodies their little goblins can gobble down at each sitting.

~ Not sure which candies to buy? Have kids of your own? Ask them - they'll know!

~ Why not offer something other than candy? Stickers, crayons or figurines are favourites among kids - particularly those with food allergies.

Make it count

~ Remember to pull out all your spare change for the Unicef boxes that kids will be bringing with them. Countless children around the world rely on these Halloween donations for basic necessities.

Make it early

~ Be ready by late afternoon so that the wee ones can finish their rounds before night falls. Just be careful not to give out too much candy too soon, or you'll be caught empty-handed when the older kids come around. Remember, the expression is trick or treat, after all! One of the best things about Halloween is watching the kids have so much fun.

Mushroom MOZZA BURGERS
One of your all-time favourites is about to grace our grills once more. Treat yourself to fresh mushrooms and real mozzarella, all heaped on succulent beef raised without the use of hormones or steroids. It's here for a limited time but as delicious as you remember, so grab one today.

23rd Annual Take Our Kids To Work PROGRAM

This year on Wednesday November 1st, grade 9 students
across Canada will spend a day in the workplace of a parent, relative, friend or volunteer host.
Take Our Kids to Work is The Learning Partnership's that annually involves more than 250,000 Grade 9 students.
Take Our Kids Day is more than a fun day, it's an opportunity to understand the importance of staying in school, pursuing post-secondary studies, apprenticeships and school-to-workplace transitions. It's learning first hand what skills are required in today's workplace, getting to explore options, and a way to see how many career choices are open to each kid.

Please watch for your grade 9 permission form.

Learn more about Take Our Kids to Work day at www.thelearningpartnership.ca

If you mess up, 'fess up.

Celebration of Life

It is with great sadness and heavy hearts that we announce the passing of our son, father, brother and companion, Craig Winterburn.

Craig was taken from us suddenly on Tuesday, October 17, 2017 in Edmonton, Alberta at the age of 31 years.

Craig's family would like to invite you to come help celebrate his life with them on Saturday, October 28, 2017 from 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm
at the Pine Valley Exhibition Park
3900-51 Street
Chetwynd, BC, interment will be held at a later date.

Very Respectfully Reynars Funeral Home and Crematorium

MAYOR'S REPORT

October 27, 2017

When opposite viewpoints express community feelings on a topic, a Council ruling on the topic is bound to make some people happy and others sad, angry, disappointed, or otherwise looking for plan b or c. And so it is when Chetwynd Council rules. How could it be otherwise?

We read the information, we listen to the opinions of people affected by the issues, we try to make the best decisions under the circumstances. We are committed to making honest, ethical decisions free of personal interest. In fact, it is quite usual for a member of Council to self-identify as being in conflict of interest and excuse herself or himself from the discussion and decision.

Providing the solution for the temporary workers descending on Chetwynd is not to be taken lightly. On the one hand, temporary workers can fill up empty hotel rooms, suites, camp grounds, eat in our restaurants, and keep grocery stores open from 6 to 9. We'd like to be able to keep them comfortable, warm and dry when they are not on the job so that, in addition to the wages that they don't spend here, they can take home good memories of time spent here.

On the other hand, which is by far the most calloused and blistered, Council can't predict the future with any degree of certainty. (Of course, this is not news to you.) So when a businessperson tries to communicate her or his excitement about a looming business opportunity Council must take on the arduous task of weighing the cons as well as the pros of a yes or no answer.

Should Council allow the rezoning for a third worker camp in town? Should Council have allowed the maximum term of three years for the two already approved? All of us depend on business either directly or peripherally, but we are all dependent. But when the nod to business A potentially undercuts the revenues of business B Council has to be sure that the long-term results tend for the general good.

Too often we just don't know, nor can we know with any certainty. We just have to make the decision that, to our mortal minds, carries the greatest potential for the common good.

In the case of the recent decision to disallow the proposal for a third in-town camp, Council considered a number of facts. (It is always comforting to have some facts at our disposal.) Fact one: Council has already rezoned for 416 beds. Fact two: Council recognizes that all rental beds in town are not full every night. (Just don't drop in without a reservation because there might not be a bed in the next town either.) Fact three: Council understands that the temporary job numbers will have peaks and valleys based on the nature of the work at the time and we do not want to jeopardize the revenues of long-term, established businesses whose clients may be drawn away to the camps during the valley periods. Fact four: by its nature, pipeline construction is transitory. Those jobs will vanish away when the work is done.

And finally Fact five: as time moves on, as time does, Council can move with it. If circumstances change relative to work and accommodation, the question can always be revisited. But don't read into this last fact more than Council intends.

Oh, by the way, "we must love them both – those whose opinions we share and those whose opinions we reject. For both have labored in the search for truth, and both have helped us in the finding of it" (Thomas Aquinas, 1225-1274).

DAWSON CREEK RCMP LED ON LENGTHY CHASE

Dawson Creek RCMP were led on a lengthy chase in their attempt to recover a stolen pickup truck.

Police received a call stating that the stolen vehicle had been seen on October 13th.

After attempting to pull the vehicle over, they were forced to cease their initial pursuit due to the risk to other drivers.

Later, however, officers were able to link the truck to a break and enter while investigating, and track the truck to an unmaintained road. Police followed the vehicle down the road, which steadily worsened, until they were forced to vacate their vehicles and pursue on foot.

With the assistance of police dogs, the truck, which had become stuck in a rut, was found. The thief is now in police custody.

KELSEY'S CHRONICLE

Halloween has always been at the top, tied for first, as my favourite holiday for a few reasons - dressing up, the cool and creepy decorations, and of course the candy! Here are some things I came across about Halloween that I thought would make for an interesting read, some origins, stories and a few spooky facts...

Halloween, or All Hallows Eve, as it is sometimes referred to as, began as an ancient Pagan festival called "Samhain," where Celtic people would dress up in costumes to ward off evil spirits and hopefully contact relatives that had passed on. This tradition took place around the end of October, between the autumn and winter equinox, when the summer had ended and the beginning of cold, short days was upon them. They believed this was the only time where spirits could walk among them.

Wiccan stories often tell of animals such as cats, bats and spiders. These were often companions of witches and are in several wiccan myths and tales. In the town of Salem, Wiccan culture is still very much a thing. Some self-proclaimed Wicce or Wicca (masculine or feminine) actually begin dressing up in full witch regalia months before Halloween, sometimes even all throughout the year.

Trick or treating began as a tradition called "souling," which refers to kids going door to door asking for soul cakes (a type of bread) in exchange for a prayer for a passed relative. It Is said that the tricking tradition began gaining traction when Irish Immigrants came to America in the early 20th century, bringing with them their mischievous pranks... If you ask me, that's just putting the blame elsewhere! But when pranking became out of control in the 1930's in the US, some cities took it upon themselves to put a curfew into effect for Halloween night.

Pumpkins, pumpkins, pumpkins! Did you know pumpkins come in greens, whites, greys and even reds? There are a few origins on how Jack O' Lanterns came to be, but each one always trails back to the use of turnips instead of pumpkins. Some accounts say that the faces carved are meant to represent those stuck in purgatory, while other accounts say the face is to help ward off evil spirits.

Mexico's Day of The Dead is a celebration that usually takes place between October 31st and November 2nd, and many assume it is Mexico's celebration of Halloween. It actually has nothing to do with Halloween or its traditions or customs. The Day of The Dead is when people decorate altars and put out traditional food and drink for the spirits of their relatives that have passed on. They believe that happy spirits will provide protection. On November 2nd, festivities take place in the cemetery.

Believe it or not, there have been many stories of times when people thought something was a Halloween decoration when it turned out to be real. This actually happens more often than people think. It's usually by a hanging that people assume is meant to scare others as a joke, but is in fact someone's way of suicide in a very public and disturbing way. All the stories have one thing in common: people who see the prank believe it to be fake, until one suspicious person goes to investigate, meaning when they found out it's real, the corpse has been on display for sometimes days.

Halloween is always so much fun with kids, dressing up and running door to door for treats, but it can also be a very dangerous night for pedestrians. Use caution when trick or treating and even in the hype and excitement always remind your kids to look both ways before crossing the street. For all those people driving around on Halloween, be so careful of all the little princesses, super heros, ghosties, goblins and vampires and have a fun and spooky evening!

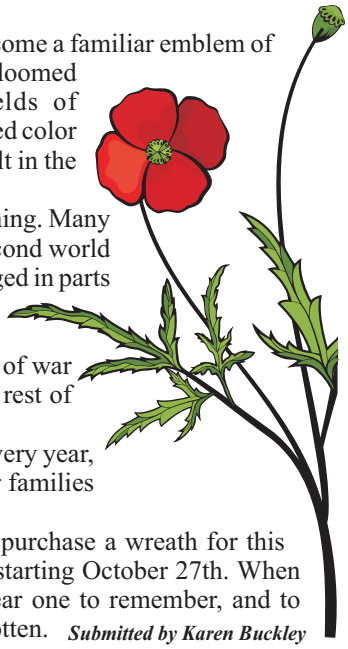
POPPY CAMPAIGN 2017

Remembrance Day is a memorial day observed in many countries to remember the members of the armed forces who died in the line of duty sinceWorld War I. Remembrance Day is observed November 11th to recall the official ending of World War I, on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

The red "Remembrance Poppy" has become a familiar emblem of Remembrance Day. These poppies bloomed across some of the worst battlefields of Flanders in World War I, their brilliant red color an appropriate symbol for the blood spilt in the war.



Once again, November 11th is approaching. Many years have passed since the first and second world wars. Still today there are wars being raged in parts of our world. Men and women are laying their lives on the line to protect and keep us safe. They see the horrors of war and have to live with those visions the rest of their lives.

The annual Poppy Campaign goes on every year, raising money to aid veterans and their families that need assistance in some way.

Orders have gone out asking that you purchase a wreath for this worthy cause. Poppies will be on sale starting October 27th. When you see them, please purchase and wear one to remember, and to show their sacrifices have not been forgotten.
