The BC Wildfire Service says the Pine River wildfire is under control.

The fire is now fully contained at 10 hectares, with no chance of spread, the Service said Thursday afternoon. It's believed to have been human-caused.

Update, May 14, 8:27 a.m.:

Precipitation is expected to help firefighters contain the Pine River fire today. The fire near Hasler Flat is just under eight hectares and still listed as out of control, the BC Wildfire Service says. Precipitation is expected in the area, and the Wildfire Service says it expects the fire will be updated later today to either being held or under control. Crews will be on site today, and no heavy machinery or air support is required. The fire is suspected to be human-caused.

Original story:

The BC Wildfire Service says a wildfire is burning out of control near Chetwynd.

The Pine River fire was reported at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday near Hasler Flat, and is currently estimated at three hectares in size. The grass fire is burning alongside Highway 97 and has spread into the nearby deciduous forest, the Wildfire Service said. There are six initial attack firefighters on site, with 20 others from the Fort St John Unit Crew also arriving. Requests for both an air tanker and a bucketship have been issued, and should be on site soon, the Wildfire Service said. RCMP are currently on site doing traffic control, and the Ministry of Transportation will be taking over.

5 natural alternatives to grass

If you're tired of mowing, watering and fertilizing your lawn, consider replacing your grass. Here are five alternatives that can be used as ground cover.

1. Creeping Jenny

(Lysimachia nummularia):

The golden-tinged leaves of this evergreen perennial prefer direct sunlight over partial shade. Creeping Jenny can withstand being walked on occasionally, and it produces vibrant yellow flowers in June and July.

2. Rupturewort (Herniaria glabra):

Perfect for high-traffic areas, this resilient evergreen can tolerate harsh growing conditions and survive with very little water. Rupturewort's dense leaves thrive in full sun, and its tiny green flowers line the stems in early summer.

3. Creeping thyme (Thymus serpyllum):

Fragrant and beautiful, this herb is characterized by small leaves and flowers that range from pale pink to bright purple. Tolerant of foot traffic, this plant is a good choice for homes in wooded areas because deer and rabbits won't eat it.

4. White clover (Trifolium repens):

This plant is ideal for regions that get little or no rain because it thrives even during hot, dry summers. However, its delicate leaves and small white flowers are easily trampled.

5. Bird's foot trefoil (Lotus corniculatus):

This adaptable plant can grow in almost any climate, so long as it gets plenty of sun. As summer progresses, its flowers will gradually change from yellow to red.

Since many ground cover species are more delicate than grass, consider creating a stone foot path to avoid stepping on your new lawn.

Join this team in engaging the community in a spirit of reading, learning and discovery.

LIKE YOU USED TO

Ron, an eighty five year old man, was sitting on the couch with his wife, Maisie, when she said to him, 'Why don't you come sit close to me like you used to.' So he did.

After a moment Maisie said, 'Why don't you put your arm around me like you used to.'

Ron put his arm around Maisie and held her tight. Then she said, 'Why don't you nibble on my ear like you used to.'

Ron got up and left the room.

'Where are you going?' Maisie called out.

What type of fruit should you grow?

Fruit-bearing trees, shrubs and plants are easy to grow and can add visual interest to your yard with their vibrant foliage and flowers. Here's what to plant based on various preferences.

IF YOU WANT A HARVEST THIS SUMMER

To enjoy your fruit within a few months, opt for fast-growing plants. A few examples include strawberries, raspberries, ground cherries, cantaloupes and watermelons.

IF YOU WANT LONG-LASTING PRODUCERS

If you're willing to be patient, plant a perennial tree or shrub that has a long life but only bears fruit after a few years. Apricot trees and blackberry bushes take about two years to produce fruit. For blueberries, pears and apples, you'll need to wait three years. Plum trees take six years.

IF YOU WANT UNIQUE BUT DELICIOUS BERRIES

If you want to plant fruit that's a little out of the ordinary, try black currants, Arctic kiwis or Saskatoon berries. These berries are great for making mouth-watering jams.

Keep in mind that some trees and shrubs only bear fruit if there's a second plant nearby to pollinate it. If you want to grow apples, for example, you'll need to plant two trees.

How to prepare for a multi-day motorcycle trip

Careful preparation is the key to having a successful motorcycle trip, especially if you plan to spend several days on the road. Here's what you should do before you embark.

INSPECT YOUR BIKE

Make sure your motorcycle is running smoothly before you hit the road. The last thing you want is for it to break down when you're far from home. Pay close attention to the:

- Tires. Check the pressure and make sure the tread isn't worn down.
- Brakes. Look for signs of corrosion and listen for squeaking or grinding sounds.
- Suspension. If your bike doesn't handle well, bring it to a mechanic.
- Headlights. Make sure they're not cracked or burnt out. Don't forget to check the brake lights too.
- Fluid levels. Change the engine oil and if necessary, top up the transmission, coolant and brake fluids.

If this is your first ride of the season, get your motorcycle inspected by a professional to make sure it's in good condition.

PLAN YOUR ROUTE

Hitting the open road without a plan is spontaneous but also reckless. An itinerary helps you manage your time and ensure you can reach each destination before nightfall. You should also book your accommodations in advance since hotels and campgrounds can fill up fast, especially during the summer.
