WILDLIFE EXPERT URGES WILDERNESS USERS TO CARRY BEAR SPRAY

In addition to the usual warnings from police to be extra vigilant on the roads over the coming May long weekend, a local wildlife expert has also issued a warning to those persons heading into the wilderness to pack bear spray.

The warning comes on the heels of the death last weekend of 27 year old Ward O'Connor from Mackenzie, who was the victim of an attack by a 300 pound male black bear near Williston Lake.

Ward's father Daniel O'Connor says his son was camping with his fiancée about 10 kilometres up the Parsnip Forest Service road on Saturday. While Ward slept outside by the campfire, his fiancée slept inside their motor home, a decision that likely saved her life.

The bear believed to be responsible, as well as a wolf, were tracked down and killed by conservation officers.

Wildlife coordinator Frank Ritcey concedes fatal black bear attacks are rare, with only 65 recorded in North America in the last one hundred years.

However, he's urging would-be holiday weekend campers to pack bear spray, which he calls a proven deterrent, as he has no knowledge of any fatal bear attacks when bear spray was used.

NORTHERN HEALTH FINISHES TOP OF THE PODIUM FOR 2015 CANADA WINTER GAMES PREPAREDNESS WORK

Northern Health is being recognized by the Canadian Public Relations Society (CPRS) with a 2015 Gold Award in the Best Special Events category for its preparation work for the 2015 Canada Winter Games. The award is part of the CPRS Awards of Excellence program that recognizes outstanding projects in public relations and communications.

The project team focused on health needs for the Games and was led by Northern Health with input from key stakeholders including the Games host society. The project focused on our key categories of activities:

Health services and operations; Medical services for the Games; Health promotion, education, and training; and Public health and preventative services planning.

"Northern Health was a critical partner in our ability to host a successful event of the magnitude of the 2015 Canada Winter Games," said Shirley Bond, MLA for Prince George-Valemount. " Not only did the Northern Health team plan and prepare for managing short term medical needs, they added sport specific training and even encouraged our community to get more physical activity. This award recognizes a job very well done!"

An important component of the planning for the Games was ensuring that medical services would be available for athletes, coaches, team officials, visitors, and residents of northern B.C. Planning of medical services across northern B.C. included ensuring current service levels could be maintained, and expanded in Prince George in the event an influx of resources was required. In addition, health professionals including physicians, nurses, athletic therapists, physiotherapists and pharmacist were required to help at the polyclinic established at the Prince George Civic Centre and at sporting venues. Communication with staff, physicians, the community, and the Games host society was integral to ensure all of these services were able to meet the needs of the public.

"The Winter Games were a tremendous success and it's comforting to know that behind the scenes, Northern Health was well prepared for anything that might have happened," said Prince George-Mackenzie MLA Mike Morris. "I offer my congratulations to the Northern Health project team on the CPRS Gold Medal."

A focus for Northern Health was leaving a legacy that would benefit northern B.C. residents after the Games concluded. An example of legacy work included partnering with Wellness in Northern B.C. (WINBC) and PacificSport Northern B.C. to use the opportunity to train health care professionals for sport specific skills. Injury prevention and concussion management training sessions were held in 15 communities across Northern Health including Dawson Creek, Terrace, Valemount, Quesnel, and McBride. The health care professionals were able to volunteer during the 2015 Canada Winter Games to support the athletes, and will be able to utilize their skills in their home communities post-Games.

"I'm very proud of the work by northern physicians, the team at Northern Health, and our partners to effectively manage health care resources during the 2015 Canada Winter Games," said Cathy Ulrich, Northern Health President & Chief Executive Officer. "From the responsiveness of services at the University Hospital of Northern B.C. to the polyclinic, the health care service delivery was impressive."

Another legacy from the Games was getting people to consider how to incorporate physical activity into their lives. A team of 17 people from various Northern Health programs attended 2015 Canada Winter Games venues to promote the importance of getting 150 minutes of physical activity a week. The team was regularly joined by the new Northern Health mascot, Spirit the Caribou, who was created for the games to engage with children and youth.

"The training of health care professionals for sports injuries was imperative as we wanted to make sure they knew how to appropriately access and assess an athlete on a trampoline or other field of play," said Dr. Anne Pousette, WINBC Executive Director and President of PacificSport Northern B.C. "Having this expanded knowledge in northern B.C. will create lasting benefits for the safety of athletes in our region, and create capacity for future events."

The public health team was engaged in the Games as well, providing surveillance reports to ensure a proactive approach could be taken to prevent outbreaks or spread of disease. They partnered with the B.C. Centre for Disease Control and Public Health Agency of Canada who have helped with large scale events in the past. The team also undertook extensive restaurant inspections prior to and during the Games. The environmental health team routinely inspects restaurants but, due to increased pressure on food services with an increase of visitors, it was an opportunity to continue the education process about food safety.

"We know that physical activity can help improve a person's overall health, and we wanted to show that it is easy to find an activity you enjoy that will be beneficial for your health," said Dr. Sandra Allison, Northern Health's Chief Medical Health Officer. "We saw an opportunity to leverage the energy from the Games that is focused on sport to encourage people to consider their physical activity levels. Our staff were extremely successful in their engagement with northerners and spectators from across the country."

Other initiatives included focusing the 2015 IMAGINE Grant Program to promote physical activity, announcing the IMAGINE Grant recipients, speaking about chronic disease at Torch Relay events across the north, and much more!

LITTLE BOBTAIL LAKE FIRE GROWS TO OVER 8,000 HECTARES

The Little Bobtail Lake Fire, three kilometres south of Norman Lake, has grown significantly over the last 24 hours and is now burning an area of approximately 8000 hectares. This fire is showing unpredictable and aggressive fire behaviour.

There are 120 firefighters, five helicopters and 10 pieces of heavy equipment responding to the incident as of May 14th. Wildfire Management Branch crews are also supported by four Air Tractor AT-802F "Fire Boss" amphibious airtankers that can drop water, foam or retardant on the fire.

Firefighting operations are running 'round the clock. The current objective of firefighting efforts is to protect structures in the area without compromising the safety of Wildfire Management Branch crews. Despite the intensive efforts in combatting the blaze, those residents living in the evacuation alert areas are being warned that an evacuation order could be soon forthcoming.

DAWSON CREEK RCMP NEWS RELEASE

Dawson Creek RCMP responded to a complaint of a male brandishing a handgun in the vicinity of 10th Street and 104 Avenue around noon on Tuesday. The complainant did not describe any threat toward anyone in particular.

Police set up a perimeter of the area and made extensive patrols but no suspect was located. Although the report has not been substantiated, every effort was made including utilizing a visiting Police Dog Service (PDS) member to assist.

The subject's description was minimal so the Dawson Creek RCMP are asking the public if anyone was in the area at that time and saw something to please contact the Dawson Creek RCMP or call Crime Stoppers.

WHY I JOINED CADETS...

I joined cadets because my dad joined and it sounded like he really liked it. The camps he went to sounded like a lot of fun.

WHY I THINK OTHER KIDS SHOULD JOIN CADETS...

I think other kids should join cadets because it is a great way to learn discipline and have fun. You can go to camp and meet old friends and make new friends. You can do Field Training Exercises, gliding, drills and learn about planes.
