

Castles through history

Castle huge and castles small,
Some with battlements and city wall,
Some so old they cannot be found,
Just a pile of stones lying on the ground.

*Castles through history,
Real or imaginary,
Castles through history,
Each telling a story.*

Some have turrets to the sky,
Some have stairs winding up so high,
Some were home of a queen or king,
Protecting lots of people during years of fighting.

*Castles through history,
Real or imaginary,
Castles through history,
Each telling a story.*

Tales of prisoners in the dungeons,
Princes, princesses, knights and dragons,
Full of bravery and courage,
Protected by a portcullis and a drawbridge.

*Castles through history,
Real or imaginary,
Castles through history,
Each telling a story.*

Some were built many centuries ago,
And still stand firm in the rain and snow,
Built on hills so proud and tall,
Telling tales of history for us all.

*Castles through history,
Real or imaginary,
Castles through history,
Each telling a story.*
