

Piano Slam

I wake up to the sound of reggaeton playing in the living room

I come out my room to the smell of eggs and bacon being made in the back

When I look to the living room, I see my mom and grandma dancing to the music while cleaning

Then my mom screams out “Lucia come over here and join us hija!”

And of course, I go and join them and dance my heart out to the different beats in the song

Until my dad yells out “breakfast is ready go set the table.”

We stop the music and have the amazing breakfast my dad made while laughing to different jokes

Isn't that such an amazing way to start the morning, don't you think?