

St. Dymphna Psychiatric Center - Consultation Day

January 16, 2016

The day started as solemn as the weather with the accommodations rendered to the OPD clients and their significant others. They waited in the designated area where they can shed from the sunlight and was observed that as time passes, the flow of the consultation is going well and much organized.

They were also given snacks served by our stable residents with supervision of one of the Brothers of Charity.

We are now teaching and encouraging our residents also to mingle and socialize with others through giving them the privilege to serve others with supervision. Through this, people may witness the healing and chances that our brothers and sisters with mental disabilities still have hopes and chances to live and gain their lives back with trust and love of their family and community.

They were all accommodated with genuine service not only to clients in need most of care but in all level and fairness.

During the event, we have observed minimal complaints and/or any disturbed clients. In addition, other OPD clients was observed stable than before of their first consultation. With simple and brief awareness to everyone involved and with concerns for mental health, it ended with success and as organized as before.

The consultation then ended with success and satisfactorily rendered care and awareness to everyone.
