Keynote Lectures

EuARe is proud to host four outstanding scholars that will each give a lecture from 13:15 to 14:15 at the restaurant of the Aemilia Hotel. The lectures are accompanied by a light buffet lunch (including vegetarians and kosher options) reserved for attendees. The entrance to the room will be possible from 12:45 but the doors will close once the maximum seating capacity has reached (110 seating) and compulsorily at 13:15. It will not be possible to reserve seating. The entrance will be according to a “first come, first served” basis.

Conceptions of Self and Community in Social Ethics: What Place for Religion?

Taking up the conference theme, “Empowering the Individual, Nurturing the Community”, the paper analyses different approaches to the relationship between individuality and sociality and their consequences for their views of religion. Noting recent changes in religion and in the public sphere, it compares three social philosophical and ethical traditions: the contract approach focused on individuals; the virtue approach embedded in communities; and a participatory approach which seeks to combine a morality based on inner freedom with structures of solidarity.

Individuals and Communities: What did Contemporary Jewish Thought Bring to Political Theory?

This talk will discuss the ways in which Jewish philosophers contributed to political theory in the twentieth century. It focuses on the philosophical debates that developed in the early part of the century about political Zionism, later about the socialist experience of Kibbutz in Palestine, and finally about social justice in the last decades of the twentieth century. It aims at showing how these questions led such thinkers as Martin Buber and Michael Walzer to borrow from Jewish thought in order to develop their conceptions of how individuals belong to social, political, and cultural communities, and what role the state plays in modern liberal societies.

The Tensions and/or Accommodations between Religious Freedom and Secular Public Spheres

Individuality and community are two key aspects of human existence, two different loci for identity, responsibility, religious practices, and spiritual relations. Their relationship is an ancient and enduring religious concern and basic to modern discussions of freedom, solidarity, ethics, and social change. It is newly challenged by the reorganization of human existence on a global scale and by such new technologies as gene editing and artificial intelligence that challenge what it means to be an individual human and for humans to live in community.

Bio

Craig Calhoun is University Professor of Social Sciences at Arizona State University. Previously, he was Director of the London School of Economics (LSE), President of the Social Science Research Council (SSRC), and a professor at NYU, Columbia, and UNC-Chapel Hill. Calhoun’s books include Roots of Radicalism, Critical Social Theory and Does Capitalism Have a Future? (with Immanuel Wallerstein, Randall Collins, Georgi Derluguian, and Michael Mann). Renewing the Demos (with Charles Taylor and Dilip Gaonkar) will appear in 2019.

#7/428 - Tim Winter
In Search of a Modern Sharia Discourse of Pluralism

Because politicians and social administrators are learning the need to engage with Muslims in their self-definition as a religious community, purely secular definitions of human fulfillment and liberty must find ways of conversing with theological narratives which ground human dignity and rights in metaphysics rather than primarily in social utility. This paper will survey foundational Islamic assumptions about human diversity and measure their intelligibility to modern positivism.

Fake news” became a household name after it was used by Donald Trump in his presidential campaign in 2016. It was also adopted by his opponents to denounce the maneuvers of Trump’s supporters. There is a growing social science literature on fake news, with many, including Neil Levy, Regina Rini, and Axel Gelfert proposing competing definitions of the concept. Religion is a fertile ground for fake news. The panel proposes a case study of religion in China, where fake news are spread by governmental sources to justify the persecution of certain groups, but also by certain NGOs and international religious agencies to criticize both their opponents and the government. The panel, based on original research and field trips to China, asks how we can try to discern fake news from genuine information about religion in China, and introduces “Bitter Winter,” a new news outlet covering both traditional and new Chinese religions and religious movements, with which some panelists are associated.

Phenomenology between Reality and Perception. How has the “theological turn” contributed to the conversation between phenomenology and theology?

08:30-10:30 - Salottino Pascoli - Aemilia Hotel

Phenomenology has experienced a revival and renewal in recent decades since the time when Dominique Janicaud (1991) polemically complained about the “theological turn” in French phenomenology. It is time to examine the implications of this turn for phenomenology in general, and for (re-)thinking theology and the conditions for religious experience – but also discuss the continuous relevance of Janicaud’s critique.

The panel invites contributions on recent developments in phenomenology: How has phenomenology changed by transgressing the limit of immediate appearances? What are the consequences for the field of religion and theology? How could we reflect on onto-theology today? The panel will also discuss how religious phenomena are perceived and analysed, such as revelation, sacrament, incarnation, transcendence, love, body, and sacrifice.

Life after Death, Dead among Alive - Different Aspects of the Underworld in Pre-Columbian and Modern Societies of both Americas

08:30-10:30 - Junior Suite I - Aemilia Hotel

According to many Native American beliefs, death was not the end but an opening gate to a long path to the otherworld. As a consequence, they equipped burials with numerous grave goods which were not only consider as „objects” but they also reflected the important ideas behind the religious beliefs held by the Native American societies. Dead play an important role even in modern times. Living relatives try to remember and commemorate them during special celebrations. This panel will be dedicated to general concept of underworld and death among the Native Americans.

Teaching and Learning on Islam at the German-Speaking Universities

08:30-10:30 - Sala Arancio - Fscire

Academic studies on Islam are taught in different forms and constellations in German-speaking Europe mainly coming from Islamwissenschaft, a perspective of theological studies, and Middle Eastern Studies. Other forms come beyond theology or area studies, varying anthropology, sociology, and law. This panel invites students and professors in theology, law, anthropology, political science, and gender studies to share their personal experiences in teaching and learning about Islam in the German-speaking European Universities. Our first aim is to examine the formats and pedagogies of teaching and learning and to look at their implications for local and regional politics and policies in respective countries. Secondly, we aim to talk about the impact of these university courses for the larger European communities, civil society, and the state institutions. Third, is to discuss the future directions that teaching and learning might take.

Spatial Issues in Religious Studies - Past and Present: Common life spaces within religious communities

08:30-10:30 - Sala Lettura - Fscire

Both in the past and in contemporary age, places for consecrated life interpret the specific charism of religious communities and strengthen their members' identity. The shape of these places thus becomes an image of the particular religious life, as well as the recursion of paths the driving force of belonging. The spaces of religious communities can therefore be considered as privileged testimonial elements, both in relation to the past, as in the most recent buildings or adaptations. On the one hand, this call for papers focuses on spaces that monastic and religious communities are leaving, in order to examine specific tools (management, regulatory and planning) which may allow to preserve their testimonial and identity aspect. On the other, in relation to new religious communities (urban and cenobitic ones) the present call for papers would like to investigate their spaces of life, to reveal new identities and the relationship with tradition.

Digital reality and the reality created by God

08:30-10:30 - Sala Riviste - Fscire

The widespread adoption of modern information technology leads to the total digitalization of culture. Galileo’s thesis “the book of nature is written in the language of mathematics”, which led to the mathematization of natural science, today is continued: “the book of culture is written in the language of numbers, in the language of Informatics”. Everything becomes a subject to digitalization: economy, military sphere, communications, politics, mass media, art, anthropology, etc. At the same time, the universal adoption of information technology poses serious challenges: the replacement of natural, God created reality, virtual reality; ubiquitous use of “cinematic effect” (H. Bergson); the more indirect modes of communication, “loneliness in the network”; opportunity of “electronic concentration camp”; utopian anthropological projects (transhumanism) etc. To discuss these and other caused by the process of total digitization of cultural issues is the aim of this Panel.

Madness and epistemology

08:30-10:30 - Sala Archivio - Fscire

An implication of Thomas Aquinas’ careful and balanced argument for the rationality of the human understanding of God is that madness appears as a problem that has to be solved. The problem lies on the fact that such a rationality in Aquinas requires properly functioning sensitive part of the soul, which madness disturbs. Thinkers with a more radical understanding of divine difference tend, however, to take different approach. Nicholas Cusanus is an example of a thinker who, two hundred years after Thomas, relates to the same Aristotelian corpus from the presupposition of God as being beyond the humanly thinkable. According to Foucault’s History of Madness, this results in Cusanus understanding divine wisdom as a kind of madness that necessitates Christology as the only conceivable foundation of rationality. Is this a relevant reading of Cusanus? Moreover, how could Aquinas and Cusanus, who both are influenced by Aristotle’s writings, produce such different accounts of epistemology?

De-radicalizing and Preventing Religiously Inspired Terrorism. Results of the first year of the project’s activities
08:30-10:30 - Sala degli Specchi - Palazzo Isolani

The panel is part of the activities aimed at analysing the phenomenon of radicalization and de-radicalization of religiously inspired terrorism, in which the University of Bari Aldo Moro is strongly engaged. These same activities are related to both the Master in "Prevention of the phenomenon of radicalization of terrorism and policies for inter-religious and inter-cultural integration", which started a year ago at the Department of Law, and the first Italian Project devoted to de-radicalization, held in Bari through a collaboration between the said University and the local Prosecutor’s office.

It is fundamental to address the following questions. What is the relationship between terrorism and religion? What are the best activities and the practice for preventing radicalization and monitoring the process of de-radicalization? What are the perspectives (in terms of security, the protection of fundamental rights, and State-religions) relationship for those matters?

Pico della Mirandola, Johannes Reuchlin, Francesco Zorzi - e la tradizione ebraica nell’Europa cristiana - ad esempio Giovanni d’Arezzo, Guido Bartolucci riconosceva il ruolo che questi personaggi hanno avuto nel rinnovamento religioso e filosofico. L'opera di Marsilio Ficino ebbe a svolgere un ruolo di primo piano nella diffusione dell’interesse per la tradizione ebraica, legandola alla riflessione di Marsilio Ficino e Marsilio d’Arezzo. In questo scenario, la tradizione ebraica, Paideia, 2017

Con il XVI secolo l’ebraismo viene a far parte integrante della coscienza della cultura europea, concorrendo a far valere nel discorso pubblico tutto un filone di idee e di saperi fino ad allora lasciato ai margini. Ciò fu reso possibile non soltanto dalla riforza e della riscoperta degli studi filologici nell’ambito della ricerca biblica e alla loro importanza nei movimenti di riforma del cristianesimo, ma anche dalle profonde trasformazioni culturali avvenute nell’Italia dell’XV secolo con la riscoperta dei Padri greci, di Platone, del Corpus Hermeticum. In questo scenarioosedimento di Guido Bartolucci ricostruisce i diversi passaggi attraverso i quali il filosofo fiorentino scopri l’ebraismo e mostra come grazie all’incontro con intellettuali ebrei che condividevano le stesse aspirazioni filosofiche e religiose egli poté avere accesso a conoscenze precluse ai contemporanei. L’opera e la riflessione di Marsilio Ficino esercitarono un’influenza determinante su più di un protagonista della riscoperta della tradizione ebraica nell’Europa cristiana - ad esempio Giovanni Pico della Mirandola, Johannes Reuchlin, Francesco Zorzi - e contribuirono a comprendere meglio la funzione che questo patrimonio culturale ebbe in un periodo di profonda crisi delle istituzioni politiche e religiose.

Over the past three decades, a significant number of centers for ‘religion and public life’ have emerged in European universities. Beyond a shared goal to enhance the public understanding of religion, these centers vary widely in mission, scope, research agenda, and they rarely collaborate with one another. The roundtable will address the modes of communicating about religion in European public spaces from different national and religious perspectives and engage in a discussion with the audience.

Between the Late Middle Ages and the first modern age, the legends of Prester John and the ten lost tribes of Israel became inextricably entwined, fuelling the imagination and the eschatological expectations Jews and Christians alike. The comparison of the main texts that conveyed these legends between the 12th and the 16th centuries allows us to trace back the historical events that animated the relation between both religious communities during this period and reveals surprising affinities on an doctrinal and symbolic level. The description of the lands where the subjects of Prester John and the ten tribes dwell, in fact, present the same paradisiac traits; moreover, both legends are framed within a marvellous setting, which is full of eschatological and messianic meanings. A common “prototype” appears thus at their origins, and the joint observation of these legends may shed new light on the complex issue of the Jewish-Christian relationship during the timespan taken into account.

This panel’s objective is to include different research projects and debates which converge into the flourishing field of inter-religious dialogue (hereafter, IRD). In the first session, entitled ”Christianity and Islam, part I”, while, on the one hand, some speakers will try to analyse and shed new light on the IRD of Pope Francis in crucial geopolitical areas, on the other hand, key questions will be addressed on Islam as a universal religion and on its peaceful or violent spread. Finally, the perception of the religious otherness will be explored through the language and symbolism of films.

In the second session, entitled ”Buddhism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism”, the discourse will move far East for a while through the explorations of the struggle of Dual-Religious Belonging and of post-modern perspectives on post-Christianity and secular Buddhism. Then, there will be an examination of the Catholic Church response to WWII massacres in Poland and Ukraine as well as an assessment of theories of conversion from Islam to Christianity.

In the third session, entitled ”Christianity and Islam, part II”, IRD will be investigated from the perspective of Syrian refugees as well as through the lenses of public diplomacy. Finally, before asking important questions hinged on gender roles and digital youth voices, IRD will assume the connotations of Inter-Faith Dialogue in the specific case of Uchimura Kanzō.

Academic Theology in Pluralistic and Secular Societies

This panel is sponsored by the Journal Theorèmes, and three different institutions involved in academic theology.

10:45-12:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

Christian theology, as an academic discipline, is challenged everywhere in Europe, both from the point of view of societies, and from the Churches. At the same time, there is a growing political demand for Islamic theology in academia, as a possible way to build a counter-discourse to radical Islam. What are the conditions necessary for theology to be legitimately present within European academic institutions? What is the relation of theology to other academic sciences (especially: religious studies, Islamic studies, philosophy, etc.)? What are (and should/could be) the relations between 1) academy and society, and 2) theology and religions. What can be reasonably expected from academic theologies, from a political and social point of view? We will here particularly focus on the relation between theology and religious communities, and between theology and academia.

The Post-Secular City: The New Secularization Debate

10:45-12:45 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

The secularization debate went through a big change during the last fifty years. Could this change be described as a paradigm shift? In his “La città post-secolare. Il nuovo dibattito sulla secolarizzazione” (Queriniana 2019), Paolo Costa articulates a positive answer to this question: the shift has mainly to do with the de-construction of the secularization “theorem” (H. Blumenberg). So, the new debate can be reliably described as being polarized between the “de-constructors” and the “re-constructors” of the theorem. The volume consists of a long introduction where “secularization” is deeply analyzed, and of eight chapters in which several exemplary figures in the recent debate (H. Blumenberg, D. Martin, C. Taylor, H. Joas, T. Asad, M. Gauchet, J. Habermas, G. Vattimo) are picked up and discussed. The conclusion is hesitant. It is unclear, Costa claims, whether the concept is still helpful to understand what is going on around us now and is in store for us in the near future.

The panel aims in an interdisciplinary perspective to ask question around new forms of religion in modernity. Religious studies and Theology have different angels to tackle questions of religion and its forms in modernity. Identity seems to be a key question.

Martin Rötting looks from a religious studies perspective into the often-addressed category: The spiritual pilgrim - a form of religion in modernity? Daniela Fella looks into “Identity crises in modernity. The impact of religion on female identity constructions in contemporary auteur cinema” and Rainer Gottschlag asks a theological question: “Assembled by grace in freedom?” following up ideas and divisions that started in Vatican II.

In this period of uncertainty and restlessness in Europe, there comes a new wave of interest for Erasmus of Rotterdam who was a philologist, theologian, and pedagogue (1466-1536). It is the Erasmus who loved the whole of humanity, the arts, books, philosophies, and religions. He disdained only one thing: secular and religious fanaticism since he considered it, opposed to reason and destroyer of peace and coexistence. Erasmus’s communicative nature prevented him from seeing the insurmountable differences between Jesus and Socrates, between Christian doctrine and ancient wisdom, between religiosity and morality. He also welcomed the pagans in the name of tolerance, uniting them with the fathers of the Church. For him, Philosophy was a different way to find God.

The three “religions of holy books”, Judaism, Christianity and Islam, not only emerged in a patriarchal society, but also throughout the history they were interpreted in an androcentric way, dominating the official tradition of exegesis. A closer look on the Holy Scriptures brings to light that there are many aspects in scriptures, which are amazingly in opposition to such readings. Reception history as well needs to be revised: women always read their Holy Scriptures and of many of them interpreted them in a gender-fair way or even with an option for women and for the marginalized.

The book outlines forms of political orthodoxy in Orthodox churches, past and present. It contains a big picture of religion being politicized and even weaponized. While Political Orthodoxies assesses phenomena such as nationalism and anti-Semitism, both widely associated with Eastern Christianity, the book is focused on the theological underpinnings of the culture wars waged in eastern and southern Europe. The issues in these wars include monarchy and democracy, Orientalism and Occidentalism, canonical territory, and autocephaly. Wrought with peril, Orthodox culture wars have proven to turn toward bloody conflict, such as in Georgia in 2008 and Ukraine in 2014. Accordingly, this book explains the aggressive behavior of Russia toward its neighbors and the West from a religious standpoint. The spiritual revival of Orthodoxy after the collapse of Communism made the Orthodox church in Russia, among other things.

The panel is part of the activities aimed at analysing the phenomenon of radicalization and de-radicalization of religiously inspired terrorism, in which the University of Bari Aldo Moro is strongly engaged. These same activities are related to both the Master in "Prevention of the phenomenon of radicalization of terrorism and policies for inter-religious and inter-cultural integration", which started a year ago at the Department of Law, and the first Italian Project devoted to de-radicalization, held in Bari through a collaboration between the said University and the local Prosecutor’s office. It is fundamental to address the following questions. What is the relationship between terrorism and religion? What are the best activities and the practice for preventing radicalization and monitoring the process of de-radicalization? What are the perspectives (in terms of security, the protection of fundamental rights, and State-religions) relationship for those matters?

Conceptions of self and community in social ethics: What place for religion?
13:15-14:15 - RISTORANTE - AEMILIA HOTEL

Taking up the conference theme, “Empowering the Individual, Nurturing the Community”, the paper analyses different approaches to the relationship between individuality and sociality and their consequences for their views of religion. Noting recent changes in religion and in the public sphere, it compares three social philosophical and ethical traditions: the contract approach focused on individuals; the virtue approach embedded in communities; and a participatory approach which seeks to combine a morality based on inner freedom with structures of solidarity.

Diverse Aspects of Inter-Religious Dialogue
Christianity and Islam - Part 2
14:30-16:30 - SALA RUBICONE - AEMILIA HOTEL

This panel’s objective is to include different research projects and debates which converge into the flourishing field of inter-religious dialogue (hereafter, IRD). In the first session, entitled “Christianity and Islam, part I”, while, on the one hand, some speakers will try to analyse and shed new light on the IRD of Pope Francis in crucial geopolitical areas, on the other hand, key questions will be addressed on Islam as a universal religion and on its peaceful or violent spread. Finally, the perception of the religious otherness will be explored through the language and symbolisms of films.

In the second session, entitled “Buddhism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism”, the discourse will move far East for a while through the explorations of the struggle of Dual-Religious Belonging and of post-modern perspectives on post-Christianity and secular Buddhism. Then, there will be an examination of the Catholic Church response to WWII massacres in Poland and Ukraine as well as an assessment of theories of conversion from Islam to Christianity.

In the third session, entitled “Christianity and Islam, part II”, IRD will be investigated from the perspective of Syrian refugees as well as through the lenses of public diplomacy. Finally, before asking important questions hinged on gender roles and digital youth voices, IRD will assume the connotations of Inter-Faith Dialogue in the specific case of Uchimura Kanzō.

Understanding Prophecy in Early Judaism and Christianity
14:30-16:30 - SALA CANOSA 2 - AEMILIA HOTEL

This panel focuses on perceptions and conceptions of prophecy in Early Judaism and Christianity. Since the earliest strata of its history, the phenomenon of prophecy has played a key role in the formation of Israelite society and identity. In the post-exilic period and in the context of the formation of Early Judaism, the phenomenon continued to play a foundational role, but also acquired new hues and nuances, serving also to designate a particular kind of literature. It is primarily as a type of literature that prophecy became instrumental in the formation of Christianity, which appropriated texts and traditions and incorporated original hermeneutical elements that were foundational in the construction of Christian theology and identity. The papers in this session seek to offer fresh insights on views of prophecy (whether as a social and religious phenomenon or as a literary genre) and of prophets (whether as individuals or as a corpus of sacred texts).

Sacrifice, Renunciation, and Asceticism in Environmental Ethics

14:30-16:30 - SALA BIBIENA - AEMILIA HOTEL

While calls for investing in “green technology” or “geo-engineering” prospects may suggest that the ecological transition need not undermine an economics of growth and technological innovation, an alternative thread in environmental ethical reflection focuses on sacrifice, renunciation, simplicity, sobriety. Several questions emerge: first of all, how are sacrifice, renunciation or simplicity understood as terms and as ethical or political norms? Second, what should be sacrificed, renounced, or disciplined and with what implications? What dangers may be implicit in appropriating such values? Reflection on theological and religious understandings of sacrifice and asceticism – and attention to the critiques of theologies of sacrifice and religious practices of asceticism, notably from feminist and liberation movements – may offer essential insights.

Human dignity and human rights. What relationship?
Panel organized by International Consortium for Law and Religion Studies (ICLARS)

14:30-16:30 - SALA MARCONI - AEMILIA HOTEL

The “Punta del Este Declaration on Human Dignity for Everyone Everywhere” was adopted on December 4, 2018, shortly before the 70th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), by a group of scholars, government leaders, and international organizations representatives from around the world. It aims at developing a common language on human dignity and helping to further the original intentions of the drafters of the UDHR in ensuring human rights protection for everyone everywhere. After a short presentation of the declaration aim and content, the discussion will focus on the following topics:

- Can the idea of human dignity for everyone everywhere help with the implementation of human rights, through progressive measures?
- Can it enable the vision of human rights to become a common standard of achievement for all people and nations?
- Can the idea of human dignity help reconcile competing human rights claims, and resolve tensions with other important national and social interests?
- Can the idea of human dignity provide insight into the nature of dignitary harms and identity politics in the midst of the conscience wars?

Uses and Abuses of Religion in Populist Europe

14:30-16:30 - SALOTTINO CARDUCCI - AEMILIA HOTEL

With the rise of political populism across Europe, there is an increased interest in religion. In this panel, scholars from an array of disciplines meet to ponder the challenges of populist and xenophobic investment in biblical narratives and motifs in recent years. Examples range from the apocalyptic rhetoric employed by far-right movements to (seemingly) more innocent references to Christian symbols as identity markers by established parties.

The aim of the panel is twofold. On the one hand, it wishes to enhance the critical analysis of political and ideological abuses of religion across Europe today; on the other hand, it explores the potential of the biblical legacy to offer counter-narratives to the scaremongering and scapegoating tendencies of much political rhetoric in present debates. More specifically, the members of the panel try to chart the contours of a public theology that can respond critically and creatively to the contemporary political landscape.

Phenomenology between Reality and Perception. How has the “theological turn” contributed to the conversation between phenomenology and theology?

14:30-16:30 - Sallottino Pascoli - Aemilia Hotel

Phenomenology has experienced a revival and renewal in recent decades since the time when Dominique Janicaud (1991) polemically complained about the “theological turn” in French phenomenology. It is time to examine the implications of this turn for phenomenology in general, and for (re-)thinking theology and the conditions for religious experience – but also discuss the continuous relevance of Janicaud’s critique. The panel invites contributions on recent developments in phenomenology: How has phenomenology changed by transgressing the limit of immediate appearances? What are the consequences for the field of religion and theology? How could we reflect on onto-theology today? The panel will also discuss how religious phenomena are perceived and analysed, such as revelation, sacrament, incarnation, transcendence, love, body, and sacrifice.

(Re)Discovering Religious Identity after the Age of Atheism. Networks vs Official Preaching of Churches and Communities in Post-communist Societies

14:30-16:30 - Sottoristorante - Aemilia Hotel

The approach to the religious identity attribution and interpreting has always been a challenge for researchers (Taylor 1989; Kloch 2011; Campbell 2015). Many of them agree that formal belonging to a particular religion does not guarantee the same religious identity. In modern post-communist societies this problem becomes even more complicated. After a long time of atheism as state policy in the USSR, spontaneous internet based communication focused on faith became one of the main tools for seeking, discovering and rediscovering personal religious identity. Hundreds of blogs, forums, teleconferences, discussion groups in Russian, Belarus, Ukraine and other countries have been overloaded with personal faith self-expression with arguments pro et contra and this process is still vibrant - despite and alongside with ‘official’ religious preaching which in many cases is less convincing than informal internet chat. Therefore ‘mass self-communication’ (Castells 2007) is becoming more and more promising subject for religious identity research. Critical approach to ‘mass self-expression’ will advance the understanding of how religious identity is being comprehended and articulated. The proposed panel will focus on the analysis of different characteristics of religiosity in the internet communication texts and the comparison of ‘popular’ religiosity with the official doctrines.

14:30-16:30 - La Piazza - Aemilia Hotel

This panel investigates into regulation of private aspects of religion, particularly regarding minors within religious families. This panel discusses recent case-law and other legal arrangements from several European countries and compares legal-political arguments underpinning (potential) restrictions that pertain to the common good. How do these arguments mediate “private” and “common” in democratic constitutional states? This two-session panel will cover rites of passage such as circumcision and baptism, the protection of minors in families with one or more radicalised parent, and religious family laws.

The role of religion in creating spatial, temporal and social order in cities has been an important topic in research from ceremonial centres and cities of Meso- and South America to Near Eastern and ancient Mediterranean, but also Chinese, Indian and medieval European cities. A growing number of inhabitants and the increased density of interaction seem to have prompted (and enabled) processes of institutionalisation and the formulation of norms. Papers in this panel, however, suppose that any modelling that is limiting religion to a tool of government and administration on the one side and marginal groups on the other is mistaken. For the individual actor urban settlements present an enormously complex environment of constraints and affordances. Previous sacralisations and contemporary religious practices are part of that. This book presentation is co-sponsored by RefoRC

14:30-15:30 - Piano Terra, 116 - Fscire

Linguists, historians of literature and of typography from Poland, Lithuania and Czech Republic join their efforts in this volume to present not only the fascinating phenomenon of a varied and long-lasting movement of translating, commenting and printing of the Bible in the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth in the 16th and 17th centuries, but also depict the actual state of research on the subject. A quick rise of the different Reformation movements contributed to a ‘natural’ need for new translations and commentaries to be used by community members. These new currents, first easily accepted and spread in the country, even when suppressed, could not stop this activity, and later new Catholic translations and commentaries of the post-Trident period, both in Polish and Lithuanian, proved it. Big part of study is also dedicated to particular typographical realizations of this activity and an example of the musical expression directly inspired by the biblical translation, is also provided.

Popes and the Revolutions

14:30-16:30 - Sala della Memoria - Ateliersì

Contemporaneous to the announcement of the Second Vatican Council (1959) occurred cataclysmic changes in politics, society, technology and social behaviour. During the decade 1959 to 1968 the Popes John XXIII and Paul VI tried to give adequate answers to these changes. One may think of Fidel Castro’s Cuba or the military regimes in Latin America, of the independence wars in Africa or Asia, of the Cold War between the political systems and countries, of the technological efforts to conquer the space or of the sexual revolution in the 1960s. Contributions confront these “revolutions” to the mostly defensive reactions of the Church and elaborate the connection with the conciliar event.

Science and Theology: Relationship and Contexts
14:30-16:30 - Teatro San Leonardo
Both religion and science have been means to improve the lives of human beings and to answer their questions about the human life and the surrounding world. There have been common aspects as well of opposite aspects between these two approaches. They have also had mutual influence on each other. The aim of the panel is to investigate the main features of harmony or conflict between S&R and to survey their reciprocal influence. Its main focus is the analysis of features of the debate both in the East and in West.Mohammed Bagheri (Iran, member of the scientific board of the Institute for the History of Science at the University of Tehran and professor of History of Mathematics and Astronomy) will chair and introduce the panel presenting a paper on the relationship between astronomy and theology.

De-radicalizing and Preventing Religiously Inspired Terrorism. Results of the first year of the project’s activities
14:30-16:30 - Sala degli Specchi - Palazzo Isolani
The panel is part of the activities aimed at analysing the phenomenon of radicalization and de-radicalization of religiously inspired terrorism, in which the University of Bari Aldo Moro is strongly engaged. These joint activities are related to both the Master in “Prevention of the phenomenon of radicalization of terrorism and policies for inter-religious and inter-cultural integration”, which started a year ago at the Department of Law, and the first Italian Project devoted to de-radicalization, held in Bari through a collaboration between the said University and the local Prosecutor’s office. It is fundamental to address the following questions. What is the relationship between terrorism and religion? What are the best activities and the practice for preventing radicalization and monitoring the process of de-radicalization? What are the perspectives (in terms of security, the protection of fundamental rights, and State-religions) relationship for those matters?

The rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender persons (LGBT) are strongly contested by certain faith communities, and this confrontation has become increasingly pronounced following the adjudication of a number of legal cases. As the strident arguments of both sides enter a heated political arena, it brings forward the deeply contested question of whether there is any possibility of both communities’ contested positions being reconciled under the same law. This volume assembles impactful voices from the faith, LGBT advocacy, legal, and academic communities - from the Human Rights Campaign and ACLU to the National Association of Evangelicals and Catholic and LDS churches. The contributors offer a 360-degree view of culture-war conflicts around faith and sexuality - from Obergefell to Masterpiece Cakeshop - and explore whether communities with such profound differences in belief are able to reach mutually acceptable solutions in order to both live with integrity.

Understanding Prophecy in Early Judaism and Christianity

16:45-18:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This panel focuses on perceptions and conceptions of prophecy in Early Judaism and Christianity. Since the earliest strata of its history, the phenomenon of prophecy has played a key role in the formation of Israelite society and identity. In the post-exilic period and in the context of the formation of Early Judaism, the phenomenon continued to play a foundational role, but also acquired new hues and nuances, serving also to designate a particular kind of literature. It is primarily as a type of literature that prophecy became instrumental in the formation of Christianity, which appropriated texts and traditions and incorporated original hermeneutical elements that were foundational in the construction of Christian theology and identity. The papers in this session seek to offer fresh insights on views of prophecy (whether as a social and religious phenomenon or as a literary genre) and of prophets (whether as individuals or as a corpus of sacred texts).

Modern Philosophy of Religion: Topics - Methods - Concepts

Conference organised by The European Society for Philosophy of Religion (ESPR)

16:45-18:45 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

Philosophy of Religion is one of the major European ways to reflect on the meaning of religion in general, but as well to discuss philosophically all the questions of life, which are part of religions. This panel is organised by the European Society for Philosophy of Religion (ESPR) and wants to bring together people from different backgrounds to give space for a joint reflection on topics, methods and concepts of today’s Philosophy of Religion.

Lay People in Contemporary Orthodox Christianity: Identity, Vocation, Challenges

16:45-18:45 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

The panel focuses on a largely neglected topic in Orthodox Christianity: the role and mission of the laity in the Church and society. To this purpose, the panel critically reflects on (i) the identity of the laity in light of Orthodox Tradition and contemporary ecclesial developments; (ii) laity’s role, responsibility, and contribution to the Orthodox Church’s spiritual and social mission in a pluri-religious, multi-cultural, and globalized society; (iii) the many challenges (ex.: clericalism, fundamentalism, etc.) faced by lay people in Orthodox Christianity today; (iv) the development and implementation of an ecumenically-oriented theology of laity in Orthodoxy.

Proselytism or/and Mission

16:45-18:45 - Sala Marconi - Aemilia Hotel

The conception of this term originates from the greek word proselitos (Προσέλιτος), in the course of translating the Bible from Hebrew to Greek. It means the set of the forms regarding the conversion of others, the active efforts to win the adherents into the concrete religion, sharing the truth of the salvation. The use of the “unworthy motivation” has created the negative connotation of this term and the appeals to give it up for the interconfessional dialogue. Today, the term Proselytism has been replaced by the term Evangelization; in 1975, Vatican has published the real systematical program of the modern evangelization, “Evangelii nuntiandi”. The New WCC Affirmation on Mission and Evangelism “Together Towards Life: Mission and Evangelism in Changing Landscapes” (2012) does confirm the need of a new conversion (metanoia) in mission. The main difference by analyzing Proselytism and Mission lies in the comprehensive philosophical view part-to-whole.

Uses and Abuses of Religion in Populist Europe
16:45-18:45 - SALOTTINO CARDUCCI - AEMILIA HOTEL

With the rise of political populism across Europe, there is an increased interest in religion. In this panel, scholars from an array of disciplines meet to ponder the challenges of populist and xenophobic investment in biblical narratives and motifs in recent years. Examples range from the apocalyptic rhetoric employed by far-right movements to (seemingly) more innocent references to Christian symbols as identity markers by established parties. The aim of the panel is twofold. On the one hand, it wishes to enhance the critical analysis of political and ideological abuses of religion across Europe today; on the other hand, it explores the potential of the biblical legacy to offer counter-narratives to the scaremongering and scapegoating tendencies of much political rhetoric in present debates. More specifically, the members of the panel try to chart the contours of a public theology that can respond critically and creatively to the contemporary political landscape.

The Contested Place of Religion in Family Law

Part of the Oxford Journal of Law and Religion program

16:45-17:45 - LA PIAZZA - AEMILIA HOTEL

Like many beliefs, religious views matter across an individual's life and the life cycle of a family - from birth to marriage, through child-rearing, and, eventually, death. This volume examines clashes over religious liberty within the personal realm of the family. Against swirling religious beliefs, secular values, and legal regulation, this volume offers a forward-looking examination of tensions between religious freedom and the state’s protective function. Contributors unpack some of the Court’s recent decisions and explain how they set the stage for ongoing disputes. They evaluate religious claims around birth control, circumcision, modesty, religious education, marriage, polygamy, shared parenting, corporal punishment, faith healing, divorce, and the end of life. Authors span legislators, attorneys, academics, journalists, ministers, physicians, child advocates, and representatives of minority faiths. The Contested Place of Religion in Family Law begins an overdue conversation on questions dividing the nation.

Both in the past and in contemporary age, places for consecrated life interpret the specific charism of religious communities and strengthen their members’ identity. The shape of these places thus becomes an image of the particular religious life, as well as the recursion of paths the driving force of belonging. The spaces of religious communities can therefore be considered as privileged testimonial elements, both in relation to the past, as in the most recent buildings or adaptations. On the one hand this call for papers focuses on spaces that monastic and religious communities are leaving, in order to examine specific tools (management, regulatory and planning) which may allow to preserve their testimonial and identity aspect. On the other, in relation to new religious communities (urban and cenobitic ones) the present call for papers would like to investigate their spaces of life, to reveal new identities and the relationship with tradition.

Urban Religion in Historical Perspective

16:45-18:45 - SALA BIBLIOGRAFIA - FSCIRE

The role of religion in creating spatial, temporal and social order in cities has been an important topic in research from ceremonial centres and cities of Meso- and South America to Near Eastern and ancient Mediterranean, but also Chinese, Indian and medieval European cities. A growing number of inhabitants and the increased density of interaction seem to have prompted (and enabled) processes of institutionalisation and the formulation of norms. Papers in this panel, however, suppose that any modelling that is limiting religion to a tool of government and administration on the one side and marginal groups on the other is mistaken. For the individual actor urban settlements present an enormously complex environment of constraints and affordances. Previous sacralisations and contemporary religious practices are part of that. Rethinking Religion in India - Texts

16:45-18:45 - REFETTORIO - FSCIRE

In the last two decades, the study of Indian culture has brought to the surface basic problems in the conceptual framework and vocabulary of the field. An emerging consensus suggests that ‘Hinduism’ does not refer to any distinct religion but only serves as a useful abbreviation for a family of culturally related traditions. But what are the consequences of this claim? This panel will focus on the problems of conceptualizing ‘religion’ in India and examine their implications for two domains where they have been largely ignored: (a) Indology and the translation of ‘religious’ texts and (b) the intersection of law and religion in India. While translating and interpreting texts, Indologists draw on the same terms used to describe Indian ‘religion’ during the past centuries. When dealing with cases about religious freedom, judges in India discuss the nature of Hinduism and the scope of religion in very similar terms. The panel will argue that these domains are in urgent need of rethinking.

History of two Italians in the south Patagonia: one looking for the tracks of the missionaries of don Bosco and the other looking for the locations of a film about Charles Darwin and the indigenous.

1. Historical and chronological Relevance: it makes known an event of historical importance unknown, viz. the centenary of the cross of Cape Froward;
2. Historical and cultural Relevance: it makes one reflect on the extinction of entire indigenous populations which, after surviving for 10,000 years, disappeared within a few decades following contact with European civilization;
3. Relevance for the Church: in bringing together the two main actors it opens a dialogue between science and faith;
4. Educative and religious Relevance: it invites a reflection on the biblical, theological and spiritual significance of that cross planted at the end of the world;
5. Touristic and cultural Relevance: it describes unknown landscapes, abandoned and lifeless, and splendid panoramas of unspoilt nature and absolute silence.

Orthodoxy and Nationalistic ecclesiology. Challenging the globality of the 21st century

Conference organized by the CEMES - Center of Ecumenical, Missiological and Environmental Studies

08:30-10:30 - SALA RUBICON - AEMILIA HOTEL

The birth of modern Autocephalous Churches has its origins in the ideological transitions of the 19th 20th cent. that enabled the growth of the Gospel in new public contexts. Recently, Orthodoxy was amongst the protagonists of the social-spiritual “rehabilitation” of Eastern Europe. However, the demand of Church emancipation often identified Church independency with religious nationalism or confessional rigidity. As a result Orthodoxy faces the pressure of a nationalistic view of the faith, that understands itself in opposition with the West, in favour of local Orthodoxies and a peculiar political Orthodoxy.

The panel welcomes proposals principally on the following topics:

1. In which way should be understood the concept of Autocephaly?
2. Can Orthodox synodality work beyond the “national Church” paradigm?
3. What challenges present for the Orthodox Church the current local conflicts (the “Ukrainian issue and the “Macedonian Church”)?
4. Was is the main Orthodox understanding of the West?

Technological enhancement of human condition: philosophical and theological challenges

08:30-10:30 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

Important advances in sciences and technology render today feasible intervention levels in human nature that were until recently unimaginable. Progress in genetic editing; neuroscientific neural mapping and functioning; device implants; pharmacology; and regenerative medicine – just to remind several among the most relevant fields – are deeply changing our understanding of human nature, nourishing new expectations and transforming social visions about ideal futures and the meaning of human life. The aim of this panel is to give some keys – from philosophy and theology – in order to respond the new challenges and opportunities emerging from such advances.

Rethinking the concept of God from the History of Religions: a Historical Approach to the Conceptual Debate

08:30-10:30 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

After having raised the question for God last year, we come up with a new proposal on the reflection of the concept of God(s) through the concrete examples of historical religions. In this panel we will deal with a broad diachronic reflection but through concrete historical cases: God(s) and religion(s) are two concepts that can be understood through historical praxis. From the first historical manifestations of religions to the postmodern spiritual approaches, God(s) and religion(s) have established an interaction of mutual definition: how we understand the religious determines the understanding of the divine, and vice versa. We open this panel to all those communications that deal with this binomial [image-concept of God(s) / and the structure of “the religious”] in any historical stage with the aim of reaching methodological conclusions that overcome the interdisciplinary approaches to introduce ourselves in the core of Comparative History of Religions.

Thinking on Islam, identity and citizenship in Western Europe: between politics of diaspora and resistance

08:30-10:30 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

The main aim of this panel is to contribute to the study of Islam in terms of identity and citizenship – politics, discourses and performativity- in Europe. In European societies, migrant communities from Muslim majority countries have come to be perceived as “Muslim” subjects, carriers of primitive values, under suspicion of radicalization. Authors as O. Roy affirm that in the transnational Islam, the religion is one element that has been able to produce a Muslim Diaspora independently of the national origins of its members. In this process, concept of resistance, as pointed out by Scott (2003), allows us to analyze the responses of the population in diaspora in a context of uncertainty. Some areas of interest are: religion in cities, dynamics of construction of an authority/corpus of religious formation, religiosity in the so-called second generations and analysis of discourses on identity produced.

National-Socialism and Christianity

09:00-10:30 - Sala Bibiena - Aemilia Hotel

The relation between National-Socialism and Christianity (in- and outside Germany) was ambivalent. National Socialism exploited the Christian language to present itself as the defender of a ‘positive Christianity’, and churches welcomed National-Socialism as a restorer of their position within society and promoter of its values. At the same time National-Socialism tried to control the church in an early stage of the Third Reich, bypassing its confessions and church polity, and imbuing Christianity with anti-Jewish and Germanic mythological elements. But there was also a small, but vocal opposition within the churches, protesting against mixing racism and nationalism with Christianity. Taking dissenting stands in a totalitarian society requires intellectual independency, political cunning, and moral courage. The theme of this session is which means and intellectual resources churches employed in the years 1933-1945 in their struggle to stay independent in a totalitarian society.

The Cult of Patron Saints of a Particular Land (Landespatronen)

08:30-10:30 - Salottino Carducci - Aemilia Hotel

The focus of the panel is on the hagiography and cult of patron saints of a particular land or nation (Landespatronen) on the example of the patron saints of Bohemia and Moravia (and possibly other countries) and their veneration in the Early Modern period. This theme is intimately connected to the formation of local and national identity and represents also the form of local domestication of Christianity. The individual speakers of the panel follow the ways this cult is reflected in different text genres, like chronicles, legends, prayers, sermons or hymns. Papers: Jan Andrle, Hagiographica Bohemica (the Currently Compiled On-Line Database of Czech-, German- and Latin-Language Sources Dealing with the Theme of the Patrons of Bohemia and Moravia Created in the Church Province of Bohemia 1550-1750); Marie Škarpová: Early Modern Hagiography of Patron Saints of Bohemia; Alena A. Embodied Religious experiences: an historical perspective

08:30-10:30 - Salottino Pascoli - Aemilia Hotel

This panel addresses the embodied and performative dimension of the sacred, both in its dynamical engagement with the Christian heritage and as an expression of the emergence of new “experiences of the sacred”, not always historically related to Christianity. The investigation focuses on patterns of performative actions which involve the human body and are embedded in a sacred space, exploring how both the human body and the physical space undergo symbolical and historical transformations as a result of a religious experience (as in the case of pilgrimages, liturgies, medieval and contemporary Passion performances).

Surveillance and Religion

08:30-10:30 - Junior Suite 1 - Aemilia Hotel

Religious communities are targets, as well as consumers, of surveillance. Religious practice as a site of surveillance and religious identity as a justification for a surveillance gaze is an emerging field of interest. State interest in monitoring faith groups has a lengthy history with particular strategies and consequences deployed in different periods and contexts. Watching-over co-religionists may be a significant duty of care expected of designated officeholders or looking out for the needs of fellow believers may be located in small, voluntary groups. Systems of support and formation, including disciplinary dimensions, are often integral to religious practice and the consequences of such surveillance warrant social scientific, philosophical and theological consideration. This panel aims to address some of these many dimensions, across a range of geographical contexts and faith traditions.

Mistica e profezia: un discorso politico al femminile dal tardo medioevo all’età contemporanea (Mystic and Prophecy: a female political discourse from the late Middle Ages to the contemporary world)

08:30-10:30 - Junior Suite 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This panel aims to analyse the relationship between politics and female mysticism, between late Middle Ages to the first half of the Twentieth century. This is meant as an introduction to two key aspects of political society in the early modern era: on the one hand, the aptitude of women to use mystic language in political and social conflicts; on the other hand, the role of female mystic authority in the definition of sacred spaces and devotional practices. As a matter of fact, the relationship between politics and mysticism never ceases to mark the history of Catholicism and of its visionary women: a long-term approach covering developments from the 14th to the early 20th centuries will particularly allow us to examine the continuities and discontinuities of the phenomenon, drawing attention to its historical evolution and constant adaptation to different social, cultural and political contexts.

Philosophy and art in context of primary and secondary religions - Axial Age and rise of secondary religions

08:30-10:30 • SottoRistorante - Aemilia Hotel

This panel approaches cultures such as Egyptian, Japanese, Mesopotamian and Hellenic, as a representatives of cultures based on "primary religions". Primary religions are - as Assmann describes them - the ones that has "spontaneously evolved from prehistoric forms of worship", are not the products of a intentional act of religious reform, and center around ritual instead of relying on a holy text and ethical norms inferred from it. The aim of this panel is to investigate how various aspects of primary religions influence political thought, ethics, aesthetics etc. This essentially comparative and transcultural study is meant to examine the way in which primary religions affects different cultures and what is their possible impact on later philosophy.

Analyzing Interreligious Dialogue - Methods and Theories

Panel organized on behalf of the European Network of Buddhist Christian Studies (ENBCS)

08:30-10:30 • Sala Arancio - Fscire

This panel will discuss some theoretical aspects of interreligious dialogue which have not yet caught sufficient attention. Based on his field work (Rötting, Religion in Bewegung, Münster 2012) - Martin Rötting will present a classification of different types of interreligious learning and discuss their relevance for dialogue settings. Drawing on historical examples, Martin Repp suggests "communication" as a heuristic tool in understanding different aspects of interreligious interactions, such as peaceful and aggressive forms, ethics of communication or intercultural communication. Against this background the concept of dialogue can be developed in a more comprehensive way. Elizabeth Harris looks at the spatial component of religious identities as a factor in inter-religious conflict. The analysis will be largely based on her recent case study of Buddhist-Christian relations in Sri Lanka in the colonial and postcolonial periods (Harris, Religion, Space and Conflict in Sri Lanka: colonial and postcolonial contexts, Routledge 2018).

Public constitutional law of Religion: an interdisciplinary topic?
08:30-10:30 - SALA LETTURA - FSCIRE

Prof. Fattori’s recent book tracks down the developments of constitutional studies in the field of law and religion in Italy. It places Italian constitutional scholarship in a broader context, both geographically and intellectually. It is therefore a very good conversation-starter for a reflection on the boundaries and the similarities between Public Church Law and Constitutional Law’s inquiries in the field of law and religion. This initiative aims at bringing together scholars of various disciplines of the newest generation, with the task of reflecting on the methodologies involved in the legal component of the studies of law and religion.

From the Romantics to Laudato Si: The Theological Character of Ecology
08:30-10:30 - SALA ARCHIVIO - FSCIRE

The modern ecological movement has its origins in the efforts of the romantics in 18th century England and Germany to set aside mountainous landscapes from industrial development as loci for the contemplation of beauty and the sublime. Romantic regard for beauty and the sublime was informed by Christian Platonism and Protestant piety but the religious and theological origins of the ecological movement are insufficiently recognised. In this panel we will hear papers exploring the religious and literary origins and character of modern nature conservation from the Cambridge Platonists through the English romantics to contemporary expressions of environmentalism as public religion, including the Papal Encyclical Laudato Si which represents a publicly religious adoption of the contemporary quest for a more ecologically sustainable way of living on Mother Earth.

In God, Sexuality and the Self: An Essay on the Trinity, Sarah Coakley, professor of theology at Cambridge and an Anglican priest, addresses the task of “providing a coherent, and alluring, vision of the Christian faith. This panel invites critical appraisal and creative engagement with Coakley’s attempt to recast systematic theology and recapture the contemporary imagination for Jesus Christ. Ecumenical perspectives on Coakley’s thologie totale are particularly encouraged. Areas of interest include: desire as the central theological catalyst and horizon; prayer and contemplative practices as the matrix of theology; trinitarian perspectives on sexuality and gender; retrieval of patristic theologies; attention to Scripture; interdisciplinarity and “contrapuntal” voices in theology; and responses to ethical issues confronting Churches.

Freedom’s Edge takes the reader directly into the heart of the debate over the relationship between religious freedom and LGBT and reproductive rights. The book explains these complex areas of law, and what is at stake in the battle to protect each of these rights. The book argues that religious freedom and sexual freedom share some common elements and that in most contexts it is possible to protect both. Freedom’s Edge explains why this is so, and provides a roadmap for finding common ground and maximizing freedoms on both sides. The book will enable anyone with an interest in these issues to understand what the law actually teaches us about religious freedom, sexual freedom, and how they interact. This is important because what is often argued by partisans on both sides distorts the legal and cultural stakes, and diminishes the possibility of compromise.

The first Italian introduction to the works of Leopold Zunz, the founder of the Wissenschaft des Judentums. The volume contains also the first Italian translations of Etwas über die rabinische Literatur and other essays, in which the innovative purpose of Zunz’s contribution clearly emerges. He turned Judaism into a scientific object, worthy of being examined under a philological, historical and political perspectives. Through a rigorous study of tradition, a meticulous search for sources and a careful bibliographic analysis, Zunz has highlighted the interdisciplinary relationships and historical contaminations that have made Judaism a dynamic and heterogeneous field and a constituent element of the history of Europe. It was precisely this interweaving that assumed a decisive political role for the emancipation of the Jews: only an adequate understanding of Judaism could lead - according to Zunz - to a conscious reform of society, which would protect the Jews from all present and future discrimination

The seventeen studies in “The Golden Calf in Jewish, Christian, and Islamic Traditions” explore the biblical origins of the golden calf story (Exodus, Deuteronomy, 1 Kings) and its reception elsewhere in the Hebrew Scriptures (Hosea, Jeremiah, Psalms, Nehemiah) and subsequently in Second Temple (Animal Apocalypse, Pseudo-Philo, Philo, Josephus) and rabbinic Judaism, in the New Testament (Acts, Paul, Hebrews, Revelation) - in early Christianity (among Greek, Latin, and Syriac writers) - and in the Qur’an and Islamic literature. Expert contributors explore how each ancient author engaged the calf tradition — whether explicitly, implicitly, or clearly and consciously avoided it — and elucidate how the story was used both negatively and positively for didactic, allegorical, polemical, and even apologetic purposes.

Orthodoxy and Nationalistic ecclesiology. Challenging the globality of the 21th century

10:45-12:45 - Sala Rubicone - Aemilia Hotel

The birth of modern Autocephalous Churches has its origins in the ideological transitions of the 19th 20th cent. that enabled the growth of the Gospel in new public contexts. Recently, Orthodoxy was amongst the protagonists of the social-spiritual “rehabilitation” of Eastern Europe. However, the demand of Church emancipation often identified Church independency with religious nationalism or confessional rigidity. As a result Orthodoxy faces the pressure of a nationalistic view of the faith, that understands itself in opposition with the West, in favour of local Orthodoxies and a peculiar political Orthodoxy.

The panel welcomes proposals principally on the following topics:

1. In which way should be understood the concept of Autocephaly?
2. Can Orthodox synodality work beyond the “national Church” paradigm?
3. What challenges present for the Orthodox Church the current local conflicts (the “Ukrainian issue and the “Macedonian Church”)?
4. Was is the main Orthodox understanding of the West?

The panel will provide the state-of-the-art of the research project on "The Online Atlas of Religious Minorities Rights and Claims in the EU Countries", which started one year ago. Silvio Ferrari will present the general outline of the project, a few data concerning education and religious minorities in the five first countries (Greece, Italy, Belgium, Estonia, Poland) that have been chosen to test the project and the project timeline for 2019. The presentation will be followed by a discussion with the participation of Francesco Alicino (LUM) and Roberta Medda-Windischer (EURAC). Some materials are available for people who intend to attend the panel. To receive them, please send an e-mail to silvio.ferrari@unimi.it

Technological enhancement of human condition: philosophical and theological challenges

10:45-12:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

Important advances in sciences and technology render today feasible intervention levels in human nature that were until recently unimaginable. Progress in genetic editing; neuroscientific neural mapping and functioning; device implants; pharmacology; and regenerative medicine – just to remind several among the most relevant fields – are deeply changing our understanding of human nature, nourishing new expectations and transforming social visions about ideal futures and the meaning of human life. The aim of this panel is to give some keys – from philosophy and theology – in order to respond to these challenges and opportunities emerging from such advances.

Rethinking the concept of God from the History of Religions: a Historical Approach to the Conceptual Debate

10:45-12:45 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

After having raised the question for God last year, we come up with a new proposal on the reflection of God(s) through the concrete examples of historical religions. In this panel we will deal with a broad diachronic reflection but through concrete historical cases: God(s) and religion(s) are two concepts that can be understood through historical practice. From the first historical manifestations of religions to the postmodern spiritual approaches, God(s) and religion(s) have established an interaction of mutual definition: how we understand the religious determines the understanding of the divine, and vice versa. We open this panel to all those communications that deal with this binomial (image-concept of God(s) / and the structure of "the religious") in any historical stage with the aim of reaching methodological conclusions that overcome the interdisciplinary approaches to introduce ourselves in the core of Comparative History of Religions.

Thinking on Islam, identity and citizenship in Western Europe: between politics of diaspora and resistance

10:45-12:45 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

The main aim of this panel is to contribute to the study of Islam in terms of identity and citizenship – politics, discourses and performativity – in Europe. In European societies, migrant communities from Muslim majority countries have come to be perceived as “Muslim” subjects, carriers of primitive values, under suspicion of radicalization. Authors as O. Roy affirm that in the transnational Islam, the religion is one element that has been able to produce a Muslim Diaspora independently of the national origins of its members. In this process, concept of resistance, as pointed out by Scott (2003), allows us to analyze the responses of the population in diaspora in a context of uncertainty. Some areas of interest are: religion in cities, dynamics of construction of an authority / corpus of religious formation, religiosity in the so-called second generations and analysis of discourses on identity produced.

Approaches to Glory

10:45-12:45 - Sala Bibiena - Aemilia Hotel

Recent trends of religious studies focus the co-entailment of the Sacred and the Power as a Christian tradition internal process of problematically seeking the way(s) of facing the secular power. The Panel queries Glory paradigms as a trial of comprehending and functionalizing the Glory/kenosis rather than supernature/nature intertwining in different authors and periods Christologies, following the paths opened by the debate over the deeply structural challenge inside the Christianism between glory and kenosis as hierarchical and anarchical opposite strengths, not only reserved or resolved in the eschaton, but also dealing with basileus/ecclesia(e) or rather citizen/believer struggling stances and issues. Ancient and modern paintings and writings will be sounded out in their approaches to Glory combining sacred and power representations, as suggested by H. U. Von Balthasar, K. Barth, K. Schmitt, E. Peterson, E. H. Kantorowicz and M. De Certeau.

Martin Luther on Church, Society and Power

10:45-12:45 - Sala Marconi - Aemilia Hotel

The reformation, initiated by Martin Luther, changed the church and the society over 500 years ago, and his theology has been influential to European societies, churches, and theological thinking ever since. Debates on and questions about religious and political power, authority, and hierarchies played a significant role in the Reformation Era, in public spheres as well as in those considered private. Luther actively took part in these discussions. This panel presents perspectives on Luther’s works and writings regarding political and ecclesiastical leaders, power, and authority in the 16th century. The panel is open for papers focusing on Luther’s works on the relations of church, society and power.

Embodied Religious experiences: an historical perspective

10:45-12:45 - Salottino Pascoli - Aemilia Hotel

This panel addresses the embodied and performative dimension of the sacred, both in its dynamical engagement with the Christian heritage and as an expression of the emergence of new "experiences of the sacred", not always historically related to Christianity. The investigation focuses on patterns of performative actions which involve the human body and are embedded in a sacred space, exploring how both the human body and the physical space undergo symbolical and historical transformations as a result of a religious experience (as in the case of pilgrimages, liturgies, medieval and contemporary Passion performances).

Panel: Philosophy and art in context of primary and secondary religions

10:45-12:45 - SOTTORISTORANTE - ARMILIA HOTEL

This panel approaches cultures such as Egyptian, Japanese, Mesopotamian and Hellenic, as representatives of cultures based on "primary religions". Primary religions are - as Assmann describes them - the ones that have "spontaneously evolved from prehistoric forms of worship", are not the products of a intentional act of religious reform, and center around ritual instead of relying on a holy text and ethical norms inferred from it.

The aim of this panel is to investigate how various aspects of primary religions influence political thought, ethics, aesthetics etc. This essentially comparative and transcultural study is meant to examine the way in which primary religions affects different cultures and what is their possible impact on later philosophy.

The panel aims to investigate the role of religion in the relation to citizenship and the interconnection between citizenship and religion in contemporary Western societies from two perspectives. First of all the role of identity and belonging, since one of the main features of both citizenship and religion is that the two bind individuals together into communities, that in one case is political and in the other is religious. Therefore, the aim is to analyse how these two expressions of membership, and their framework of rights and duties, relate to each other, overlap and eventually conflict. Secondly, nowadays this relationship appears to be under pressure in Western societies that are characterized by a growing presence of religious pluralism, taking into account that contemporary societies are concerned about the presence of religions that bring sets of values, practices, and symbols that are considered different from traditional religions. How this relationship will evolve?

For centuries the University of Bologna has been at the heart of the study of canon law. In 2014, Cambridge University Press established Cambridge Studies in Law and Christianity, with Professor John Witte Jr as Series Editor. Its purpose is to publish cutting-edge work in Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox Christian contributions to public, private, penal and procedural law and legal theory. The Great Christian Jurists series is a part of this ambitious project, the first volume, brought together legal titans in English Legal History, the second dealt with Spain. Others compilations on Nordic, American, Welsh, and German Christian jurists are already in preparation.

EuARe, in collaboration with CUP, have brought together Professor Mark Hill QC and Professor Javier Martínez-Torrón, editors of these respective volumes to explain the project, to defend their selections and to explain the value of these biographical portraits to legal historians, students of canon law, comparative law and jurisprudence more broadly as it impacts on religion. The editors will be questioned by Professors Ana Maria Celis, Vincenzo Pacillo and Andrea Pin and audience members will be invited to participate. Leaflets of the Cambridge Studies in Law and Christianity Series will be available.

Religious Experience is a relevant topic in many academic fields, ranging from Philosophy of Religion to Epistemology, from Religious Studies to Cognitive Science. We will take into account different philosophical interpretations of religious experiences, especially those based on a set of theistic beliefs. We will also discuss some epistemological issues related with religious experience and the rational plausibility of the latter in the light of contemporary naturalism. Moreover, we will try to explain the difference between ordinary religious experiences, deep experiences and mystical experiences. In this view, we will consider some theological interpretations of religious experience in different religious contexts.

Individuals and Communities: What Did Contemporary Jewish Thought Bring to Political Theory?

13:15-14:15 - Ristorante - Aemilia Hotel

This talk will discuss the ways in which Jewish philosophers contributed to political theory in the twentieth century. It focuses on the philosophical debates that developed in the early part of the century about political Zionism, later about the socialist experience of Kibbutz in Palestine, and finally about social justice in the last decades of the twentieth century. It aims at showing how these questions led such thinkers as Martin Buber and Michael Walzer to borrow from Jewish thought in order to develop their conceptions of how individuals belong to social, political, and cultural communities, and what role the state plays in modern liberal societies.

Law & Religion: Public theology and natural law

14:30-16:30 - Sala Rubicone - Aemilia Hotel

This panel considers James K.A. Smith’s Cultural Liturgies (Desiring the King, Imagining the King, Awaiting the King) and discusses the potential for scholars in Law and Religion to engage with his public theology along the lines of the legal-theological approach as recently suggested by Stefanus Hendrianto in the journal Law and Method. The panel examines Smith’s reservations concerning natural law doctrine as can be found in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, among other traditions. It explores the potential to use perspectives from Smith’s public theology – in connection with other Christians thinkers such as Augustine – as a legal-theoretical alternative to ideas advanced by Ronald Dworkin and Jürgen Habermas. It will further consider the relevance of Smith’s work in the more general context of public administration. The organizers welcome paper proposals engaging other public theologies than Smith’s, as long as the focus remains on their potential for law and religion scholarship.

Economic Justice and the Church Today:
Ecumenical Perspectives on Ecclesiology and Ethics

14:30-16:30 - Sala Canossa 1 - Aemilia Hotel

Our world has never seen greater wealth and yet at the same time it has never seen greater inequality. Enormous wealth is becoming concentrated in the hands of fewer and fewer individuals, corporations and states. The gap between rich and poor within societies and between global regions becomes ever wider, leading to a range of further devastating social developments such as mass migration, conflict and environmental damage. How can and should Christian churches confront these alarming trends more effectively today? What models of orthopraxis and solidarity should be promoted to advance economic justice for these times? How might different churches best collaborate in taking a courageous stand and promoting new ways of understanding our interconnectedness and therefore shared responsibilities to counter what Pope Francis has called the 'cult of money' along with countering the dehumanizing and rampant capitalism that is so rapidly eroding social fabric and harmony in our century?

Traditional instruments and new challenges: The squaring of the circle?

14:30-16:30 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

Religious diversity and integration issues are undoubtedly amongst the most salient ones on today's political agenda in particular because of the challenges posed by migrants and refugees. In search for fair accommodations of contemporary religious diversity in western societies, this panel aims to bridge studies conducted in the field of historical, religious minorities and among new religious communities stemming from more recent migration flows. In particular, this panel addresses the question whether it is beneficial and meaningful to compare and extend to religious migrant communities policies, institutional accommodations and legal frameworks conceived by and/or for old religious groups such as the Jewish rabbinical court (Beth Din), the Muslim Sharia councils in Western Trace or the UK, and the Catholic Roman Rota in Italy. The panel is open to contributions from different disciplines in a comparative and/or single case perspective.

Historical genesis of the UGCC

14:30-16:30 - SALA BIBIENA - AEMILIA HOTEL

The research considers a very important factor of the international activity of the Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church (UGCC) - which actively supports, along with its parishes, the most positive trends in state policy. Spiritual openness of the people is determined not only by mentality, tradition or symbols, but also by axiological reference points, which in their content are Christian in both Ukraine and Europe. Worldview phenomenon of human integration of cultural identity is formed under the influence of historical, socio-political, economic and other factors inherent in every ethnic group, state or region. Actually, the sociocultural features of our society actualize the study of the problem of spirituality. The UGCC by its nature is eastern not only by the rite, but also by its spirituality, which is why it puts on itself the task of reviving the centuries-old East Christian spirituality inherent in the Ukrainian people. It is the ontological rather than the psychological basis of spirituality that defines it not as a state of mind, but as a real application of theological or Christian principles to the life of each individual.

Panel Violence and Grace in the Human Condition

The aims of this panel are to put classical concepts of theological anthropology such as grace and "original sin" in conversation with contemporary thinkers such as Giorgio Agamben, Terry Eagleton, Réné Girard, Rowan Williams. The objective is to create a network of multidisciplinary research to seek the relevance of theological resources to the understanding of contemporary social and political thinking.

#5/341.1 - Panel
Non æstus, non frigora, non pluviæ : the “necessary” practice of the pastoral visit within the organization of the dioceses and of the post-Tridentine religious institutes

14:30-16:30 - Junior Suite 1 - Aemilia Hotel

The pastoral visit is an essential instrument for the propaganda and strengthening of religious discipline against heresy, and also one of the fundamental decrees of the Catholic Reformation. It is an extraordinary source for historians of several disciplines, and represents a wealth of information for the study of religious spirituality as well as ecclesiastical institutions, art and society. It records a wide variety of aspects, some of which are less thoroughly studied in literature. The visit is first and foremost a journey, with its preparations, its ceremonials, its stages, but also its practical needs, its costs, its hassles, even its adventures. It is customary to refer to the practice of pastoral visits in the diocesan dimension, but it should not be forgotten that similar visits were made annually by religious orders, men and women, especially when organized in a centralized administration whose virtual borders overlap with those of states, nations and dioceses.

Pentecostalism and Pentecostalization. A relevant religious phenomenon of the Christianity

14:30-16:30 - Junior Suite 2 - Aemilia Hotel

To present the impact of Pentecostalism on contemporary Christianity and the importance of its contribution to the spreading of the Gospel on a worldwide level; to point out the significance that this phenomenon has had in Europe and the challenges it poses both in ecumenical and interreligious dialogue. The presentations will focus on interventions by scholars who will highlight the theological proposal and spirituality of Pentecostalism, the intercultural characteristics of its expansion, the historical and sociological aspects of its growth.

#5/224.3 - Panel
Philosophy and art in context of primary and secondary religions

14:30-16:30 - SottoRistorante - Aemilia Hotel

This panel approaches cultures such as Egyptian, Japanese, Mesopotamian and Hellenic, as representatives of cultures based on “primary religions”. Primary religions are - as Assmann describes them - the ones that has “spontaneously evolved from prehistoric forms of worship”, are not the products of an intentional act of religious reform, and center around ritual instead of relying on a holy text and ethical norms inferred from it. The aim of this panel is to investigate how various aspects of primary religions influence political thought, ethics, aesthetics etc. This essentially comparative and transcultural study is meant to examine the way in which primary religions affects different cultures and what is their possible impact on later philosophy.

The state's religious neutrality in Europe: common notions and specific trends

The panel is co-organized by the Research Project REVESTRA (Spanish Ministry of Science, Complutense University of Madrid) and the Research Unit DRES (Droit, Enterprise, Religion et Société) - University of Strasbourg

14:30-16:30 - LA PLAZIA - AEMILIA HOTEL

One of the main aims of the European legal space, at the level both of the Council of Europe and the European Union, is to provide a high degree of protection to fundamental rights and freedoms, among them the freedom of thought, conscience and religion. In recent years, there have been increasing debates about the connection between the guarantee of freedom of religion or belief and the adoption of a neutral stance vis-à-vis religion by European states. One of the key questions in this regard is how to define the state’s religious neutrality. It is not an easy question, if we consider two factors. One is the fact that a large part of the constitutional and social values of European nations are based on particular religious traditions, mostly of Christian origin. The other is the diversity of European notions about how relations between state and religion should be conceived, structured and legally articulated — this diversity has been explicitly recognized by the European Union and implicitly accepted by the case law of the European Court of Human Rights. There is still a number of questions that remain unanswered. Can we derive a particular notion of neutrality from the European Convention on Human Rights? Are exclusive neutrality and inclusive neutrality equally acceptable from the perspective of the ECHR? Without any limitations? Which is the relevance of different notions of religious neutrality for the design and organization of the public and private sphere? This panel will explore some of the tensions between different notions of state’s religious neutrality and the protection of freedom of religion or belief of all individuals and communities, in the light of the European legal experience. Particular attention will be paid to the areas of the interaction between European case law and constitutional principles, legitimate limitations on freedom of religion or belief, and the internal autonomy of religious institutions.

Reimagining Zen in a Secular Age

Panel organized on behalf of the European Network of Buddhist Christian Studies (ENBCS)

14:30-17:00 - SALA ARANCIO - FScIRE

The papers in this panel discuss various aspects of the transformation of Zen in the context of Secularism and its encounter with the West. André van der Braak shows how a form of Zen modernism has arisen that combines Buddhist doctrines with a Western secular framework. Given that this type of Zen modernism is widely felt to be inadequate, he asks for alternative imaginings of Zen that would fit with Western secular modernity. Raquel Bouso deals with the modern presentation of Zen as “non-religion” by Japanese and Western Zen-Buddhists. The paper will discuss the relation between such concepts of Zen and Keiji Nishitani’s view of “non-religion” (非宗教) or John Caputo’s idea of “religion without religion”. Kurt Krammer discusses why European Zen practitioners in their majority would abhor to have their practice be called “religious”. Against this background he will characterize different types of Zen practitioners regarding their engagement in interreligious dialogue. Anne Vroom draws out the tensions in the semantic field that has grown around the term ‘ego’ in modern Zen thought, where ‘ego’ is used as a translation of the traditional conceptuality of ‘(an)jìmatan’ but also connects with European and American psychological and philosophical uses of the term. From a feminist perspective, the (de)value of ‘ego’ will be critically examined. Sybille Fritsch-Oppermann discusses how Zen, taken up by modern art (installations and music) - functions as a bridge builder between secular art and religion. In her paper she will show that in this process Zen is partly received as non-religion whilst art discovers its spiritual roots.

Panel: Women prove superior (1 Esdr. 3:12). Women and Power in Jewish Hellenistic Literature

14:30-16:30 - SALA LETTURA - FSCIRE

In recent decades, numerous studies have been devoted to the role and status of women in the Hebrew Bible. In contrast, Jewish literature in Greek (Septuagint and so-called intertestamental literature) is a less respected area of research: How are women, their role, their influence and their power described in these texts? In this panel some selected examples will be discussed. The focus is on philological, historical and theological aspects.

Panel: New Trends in Religion and Environment

14:30-16:30 - SALA ARCHIVIO - FSCIRE

Pope Francis’ Laudato Si and the spiritually-powered nonviolent resistance at Standing Rock are two recent examples that illustrate that religion is playing an increasingly important public role in care for the environment. Research in Religion and Environment (or, Religion and Ecology) is also an internationally growing field. This panel session brings together recent European and North American scholarship that uniquely appropriates two illuminating themes — violence and emotions — to reexamine the relationship between religion and the environment.

Telling Mediterranean Dissent in Early Modern Age. Strategic contributions to early modern religious history

14:30-16:30 - Sala Bibliografia - Fscire

This panel aims to present the results of our last studies on early modern religious, political and literary history of dissent: we are talking about the last contributions our research group provided revolving around strategic and particular fields. Bearing in mind the different backgrounds of the panel's participants, we are discussing with scholars who are external to the group but who will take care of the introduction and of the conclusion.

In order to encourage comparison among us as well as between us and the public, the panel will be organized in this way:

1. Introduction
2. Telling the XVIth Century Protestant Reformation
3. Heretics, dissidents and inquisitors in Public Digital Humanities
4. Making inquisitorial prosopography
5. New perspectives in European Reformation’s History
6. Conclusion

Intellectuals, artists, (still) secret agents between the 16th and 18th centuries

14:30-16:30 - Refettorio - Fscire

The panel is thematically linked to the initiatives that have examined the contribution of the Dizionario Biografico degli Italiani (and its future prospects) to historical knowledge in Italy. These initiatives begun with the 90th anniversary of the foundation of the Istituto della Enciclopedia Italiana (1925-2015) by Giovanni Treccani. With a rather broad periodization ranging from the late 16th century to the 18th century, historians will reflect on the peculiarity of certain items published to date in the DBI, on the meaning and usefulness of the biography for historical investigation and on figures to whom adequate space has yet to be dedicated.

Philosophy of Religious Experience: Contemporary Debates
Panel Organised by the Italian Society for Philosophy of Religion - Associazione Italiana di Filosofia della Religione (AIFR)

14:30-16:30 - Sala della Memoria - Ateliersì

Religious Experience is a relevant topic in many academic areas, ranging from Philosophy of Religion to Epistemology, from Religious Studies to Cognitive Science. We will take into account different philosophical interpretations of religious experiences, especially those based on a set of theistic beliefs. We will also discuss some epistemological issues related with religious experience and the rational plausibility of the latter in the light of contemporary naturalism. Moreover, we will try to explain the difference between ordinary religious experiences, deep experiences and mystical experiences. In this view, we will consider some theological interpretations of religious experience in different religious contexts.

Jewish Scepticism as Philosophical Question

14:30-16:30 - Museo Ebraico

Research on Jewish philosophical scepticism is still in its very beginning stages. This also holds true for cultural expressions of scepticism, i.e. modes of sceptical strategies present in Jewish literature, cultural practices, history, the organization of social groups, and especially education. This lack of interest in the intricacies of Jewish scepticism in Jewish studies may be rooted in the modality of Jewish philosophy as such, it's being notoriously in-between, subsuming traditional wisdom, philosophy, theology, Jewish and general Weltanschauung, as well as cultural history, and representing a hazardous bridge between orthopraxy and orthodoxy. In this panel we would like to investigate the controversial binomial of Jewish scepticism under a philosophical perspective.

The Religion of Others

14:30-16:30 - Sala dell’Archivio - Palazzo Isolani

From their very beginnings, Christianity and Islam have developed and expanded in the midst of other religions – as predecessors, competitors, targets for conversion, or as parallel traditions to be tolerated if not respected. The concrete historical circumstances have given rise to different modes of competition and coexistence, but even more particularly to different understandings – or misunderstandings – of these other religious traditions. The various papers presented here will explore the various, and sometimes shifting, ways in which Christians and Muslims have managed their relationships and attempted to comprehend other religions.

Can the Church of Scientology be called a religion? And, if so, based on what parameters? What really can this Church say about itself, aside from legal disputes and states of mind of followers, defenders or defectors? The book, exceeding both mere critique and apology, wishes to fill a gap in the knowledge of Scientology, indicating a change of pace in its own self-understanding. To consider this Church as a religion means, before all, to examine its theological-doctrinal contents, the liturgical and ritual aspects, reconstructed in these pages with the balance of critical detachment and empathy characterizing anyone primarily attempting to “put themselves in another man’s shoes”: a search of objectivity one can achieve only putting aside bias and getting into the perspective it means to study, taking it above itself.

This panel considers James K.A. Smith’s Cultural Liturgies (Desiring the King, Imagining the King, Awaiting the King) and discusses the potential for scholars in Law and Religion to engage with his public theology along the lines of the legal-theological approach as recently suggested by Stefanus Hendrianto in the journal Law and Method. The panel examines Smith’s reservations concerning natural law doctrine as can be found in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, among other traditions. It explores the potential to use perspectives from Smith’s public theology – in connection with other Christians thinkers such as Augustine – as a legal-theoretical alternative to ideas advanced by Ronald Dworkin and Jürgen Habermas. It will further consider the relevance of Smith’s work in the more general context of public administration. The organizers welcome paper proposals engaging other public theologies than Smith’s, as long as the focus remains on their potential for law and religion scholarship.

Reconsidering the Jewish-Christian Dialogue in an Ecumenical Context: New Ways, Old Questions

16:45-18:45 - Sala Canossa 1 - Aemilia Hotel

In this panel, we address the old/new question of how to conduct the confrontation between the Jewish and Christian faiths: through mission and dialogue? Through dialogue only? But for what purpose? How has the encounter with the Jewish ‘other’ shaped Christian understandings of the Church, especially in Roman Catholic theology after Vatican II? How does the durable mission of Israel pre-empt the Christian mission towards Israel? What might be the role of the Holy Spirit for this specific dialogue? Within the variety of Protestant theologies and denominations, in what new ways are the old questions reconsidered?

The speakers of this ecumenical panel will allow time for a Q&A session in English and French and will make available handouts in English.

New Frontiers of Technology and the Study of Religion: the Emerging and Transformative Role of Libraries, Universities, and Cultural Heritage Institutions

16:45-18:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This is a continuation of last year’s New Frontiers of Technology and the Study of Religion: the Emerging and Transformative Role of Libraries, Universities, and Cultural Heritage Institutions panel. We will showcase the work of libraries, academic or intellectual centers, and scholars working on projects that are born-digital or are digital representations of physical collections, or a hybrid of both. Looking within the context of centers and libraries devoted to theological or religious studies, special attention will be paid to how these disciplines influence and shape the philosophical and theoretical underpinnings which drive projects that use burgeoning technologies or utilize already existing ones.

Sacrifice, Renunciation, and Asceticism in Environmental Ethics

16:45-18:45 - Sala Bibiena - Aemilia Hotel

While calls for investing in “green technology” or “geo-engineering” prospects may suggest that the ecological transition need not undermine an economics of growth and technological innovation, an alternative thread in environmental ethical reflection focuses on sacrifice, renunciation, simplicity, sobriety. Several questions emerge: first of all, how are sacrifice, renunciation or simplicity understood as terms and as ethical or political norms? Second, what should be sacrificed, renounced, or disciplined and with what implications? What dangers may be implicit in appropriating such values? Reflection on theological and religious understandings of sacrifice and asceticism – and attention to the critiques of theologies of sacrifice and religious practices of asceticism, notably from feminist and liberation movements – may offer essential insights.

Panel Beyond Devotion II is dedicated to secular and religious writings (verse, prose, polemics, textual histories etc.) of secular authors as well as those originating from religious orders and clergy. Main interest lies in showing the origins of vernacular translations of the Holy Scripture along with the controversies that surrounded them, and also in written testimonies of religious devotion and conversion. The aim is not only to confront different kinds of texts and experiences, but to situate this heritage in a social and confessional context. All papers and discussion will be held in English.

The panel examines several key issues in the debate about the relationship between Christian doctrine and the political sphere in the global South. It aims to engage critically with some of the traditional doctrines of Christianity – for example, the doctrine of Trinity, the person of Christ and the universal significance of his saving work, the identity and mission of the Church as sacrament of the world – in order to locate and make sense of them within the political history and context of the global South. In so doing, the panel seeks to respond to one of the deep-seated assumptions that, the task of ensuring and fostering the development and progress of people in the global South context belongs legitimately to the jurisdiction of politics, and that Christianity can only make an ‘individualised’ contribution to the field of politics.

Non æstus, non frigora, non pluviae: the ‘necessary’ practice of the pastoral visit within the organization of the dioceses and of the post-Tridentine religious institutes

16:45-18:45 - JUNIOR SUITE 1 - AEMILIA HOTEL

The pastoral visit is an essential instrument for the propaganda and strengthening of religious discipline against heresy, and also one of the fundamental decrees of the Catholic Reformation. It is an extraordinary source for historians of several disciplines, and represents a wealth of information for the study of religious spirituality as well as ecclesiastical institutions, art and society. It records a wide variety of aspects, some of which are less thoroughly studied in literature. The visit is first and foremost a journey, with its preparations, its ceremonials, its stages, but also its practical needs, its costs, its hassles, even its adventures. It is customary to refer to the practice of pastoral visits in the diocesan dimension; but it should not be forgotten that similar visits were made annually by religious orders, men and women, especially when organized in a centralized administration whose virtual borders overlap with those of states, nations and dioceses.

Religion and the Elements

16:45-18:45 - JUNIOR SUITE 2 - AEMILIA HOTEL

We propose an interdisciplinary panel that investigates the way that ‘the elements’ - understood broadly as natural, climatological, ecological substances and processes - become the material occasion for religious practices of political mobilization, countermemory and claims about divine presence in the world. In particular we analyze how faith-based communities mobilize residents to engage in grassroots politics through their depiction of extreme weather as “natural” disasters (Pearson) - how imagining the otherworldly elements of outer space enables historical reconstruction and articulations of alien subjectivity in Afrofuturist science fictional aesthetics and cultural production (Harris) - and how aberrant weather in particular geographies makes possible the creation of oral traditions of the oppressed which locate divine presence (Davis). Collectively this panel aims to foreground the emergence and dynamic interaction between religious practices and their worlds and environments.

Philosophy and art in context of primary and secondary religions

16:45-18:45 - SOTTORISTORANTE - AEMILIA HOTEL

This panel approaches cultures such as Egyptian, Japanese, Mesopotamian and Hellenic, as a representatives of cultures based on "primary religions". Primary religions are - as Assmann describes them - the ones that has "spontaneously evolved from prehistoric forms of worship", are not the products of a intentional act of religious reform, and center around ritual instead of relying on a holy text and ethical norms inferred from it.

The aim of this panel is to investigate how various aspects of primary religions influence political thought, ethics, aesthetics etc. This essentially comparative and transcultural study is meant to examine the way in which primary religions affects different cultures and what is their possible impact on later philosophy.

"Women prove superior" (1 Esdr. 3:12). Women and Power in Jewish Hellenistic Literature

16:45-18:45 - SALA LETTURA - FSCLIRE

In recent decades, numerous studies have been devoted to the role and status of women in the Hebrew Bible. In contrast, Jewish literature in Greek (Septuagint and so-called intertestamental literature) is a less respected area of research: How are women, their role, their influence and their power described in these texts? In this panel some selected examples will be discussed. The focus is on philological, historical and theological aspects.

The panel is thematically linked to the initiatives that have examined the contribution of the Dizionario Biografico degli Italiani (and its future prospects) to historical knowledge in Italy. These initiatives begun with the 90th anniversary of the foundation of the Istituto della Enciclopedia Italiana (1925-2015) by Giovanni Treccani. With a rather broad periodization ranging from the late 16th century to the 18th century, historians will reflect on the peculiarity of certain items published to date in the DBI, on the meaning and usefulness of the biography for historical investigation and on figures to whom adequate space has yet to be dedicated.

Religious Experience is a relevant topic in many academic areas, ranging from Philosophy of Religion to Epistemology, from Religious Studies to Cognitive Science. We will take into account different philosophical interpretations of religious experiences, especially those based on a set of theistic beliefs. We will also discuss some epistemological issues related with religious experience and the rational plausibility of the latter in the light of contemporary naturalism. Moreover, we will try to explain the difference between ordinary religious experiences, deep experiences and mystical experiences. In this view, we will consider some theological interpretations of religious experience in different religious contexts.

Faith and religious freedom between music and concentration camps
16:45-18:45 - Teatro San Leonardo

The panel aims to deepen the relationship between music, anthropology, philosophy, law and religion, starting from musical "concentrazionaria" phenomenology. Music "concentrazionaria" production has played an important role in the lives of deportees: in fact, music allows even those who do not believe to elevate the spirit. The meticulous research of the Master Lotoro (who will be one of the speakers) has allowed to revive the melodies created by the prisoners in a context of captivity. The musicians have composed their works as an irrepressible hymn to life, capable of overcoming their tragic death, using music as a means of redemption, as a space of freedom, even religious.

17:00-18:00 - Piano Terra, 116 - Fscire

The heritage “Hidden Christian Sites in the Nagasaki Region” is a unique testimony to the history of people and their communities who secretly transmitted their faith in Christianity during the time of prohibition spanning more than two centuries in Japan. Located in very remote areas including small islands at the westernmost edge of Japan, the property represents how the Christian communities survived in the midst of the conventional society and its religions, gradually transforming, ultimately ending their religious traditions and being assimilated into modern society after the prohibition was lifted. In Bahrain, 30th June 2018, this cultural heritage was nominated World Cultural Heritage after many years of the researches. The meeting, with the support of the book aims to approach the audience exploring sites and landscapes where for three centuries the hidden Christians has practiced the Christianity. Interreligious Spirituality: The Role of Meditation
Panel organized on behalf of the European Network of Buddhist Christian Studies (ENBCS)

17:15-18:45 - Sala Arancio - Fscire

In western countries spirituality is increasingly getting multireligious or interreligious. This presents research on the role of meditation within this process. On the basis of his empirical research in Munich, Vilnius, Seoul and New York Martin Rötting will analyze ways in which the reception of meditation practices from other religious traditions functions as an identity marker for interreligious spirituality. Karl Baier takes a closer look at the more recent popularity of “mindfulness” practices in the West, especially in therapeutic contexts. His paper highlights a neglected issue of the mindfulness boom: the reception of mindfulness by authors who try to integrate it into Christian spirituality. In the third presentation, Achim Riggert pursues the question to what extent the Christian practice of Buddhist meditation may impact on traditional forms of Christian prayer. Can Buddhist meditation transform Christian prayer in a way that conforms more with modern consciousness and current spiritual needs?

The Ecumenical Dialogue on the Eucharist and Intercommunion from Vatican II till today

Panel organized with the Ecclesiological Investigations Research Network

08:30-10:30 - SALA RUBICONE - AEMILIA HOTEL

The commemoration of the 500th anniversary of the start of the Reformation in 2017 certainly was not an inner-Protestant affair. Since the publication of the Lutheran-Roman Catholic international dialogue statement From Conflict to Communion it was obvious that also the Roman Catholic Church was willing to engage in a common commemoration of the Reformation, which became most obvious in the ecumenical service in Lund Cathedral on Reformation Day 2016. The preface of the Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity, Cardinal Koch, made the interesting suggestion to start preparing for the next step in Catholic-Protestant relations that could consist in a jointed Declaration on Church, Ministry and Eucharist, while at the same time insisting that the differences between Catholics and Protestants in view of their key ecclesiological convictions and their model of unity are very profound if not unbridgeable. Other voices consider it almost unbearable, in view of the ecumenical progress made, that Protestants and Catholics cannot celebrate the Eucharist together. During last years the discussion on this theme has been intensified. Therefore, for this panel papers are invited discussing the results of recent regional initiatives (U.S.; Finland) to lay the foundations for a new common declaration on Church, Ministry and Eucharist, the discussion on the German bishops’ conference study guide on the admission to communion of Protestant Christians in interconfessional marriages, or constructive reflections on this theme.

Dumitru Staniloae’s encounter with the West

08:30-10:30 - SALA SELSINA - AEMILIA HOTEL

Dumitru Staniloae (1903-1993) has been one of the most creative Orthodox theologians of the twentieth century, yet one of the least known. His theological vision is a majestic combination of Florovsky’s neopatristic epistemology, philocalic wisdom, and Romanian folkloric elements. Still, Staniloae never shone away from engaging with Western theology and philosophy whether critical or constructive. His theological edifice bears the marks of his encounters with Karl Rahner, Martin Buber, Karl Barth or Paul Tillich. This panel seeks to uncover the significance of these interactions for Staniloae’s thinking. Was Staniloae a faithful reader of Western theology and philosophy? To what extent was he influenced by theological debates in Roman Catholicism or Protestantism, especially Vatican II? How was Staniloae’s interpretation of the Fathers impacted by the trends of Western historical criticism? How did the ecumenical interactions shape his understanding of Orthodox theology?

The problem of interreligious communication is relevant for the modern Ukrainian state. There are many religions in Ukraine and Orthodoxy is the dominant religion. Another feature of the current religious life of Ukraine is the intensive development of neo-religions. It is important to conduct a deliberate policy aimed at harmonizing inter-confessional relationships by combining the efforts of the subjects of the church, state and civil society. In this context, the relevant European experience may be quite useful. Europe is a multicultural, polyreligious community, in which dialogue is the most effective step towards mutual respect, mutual understanding, tolerance.

The peculiarity of the Ukrainian situation is that the largest confessions of the countries are united under the All-Ukrainian Council of Churches and Religious Organizations.

Animals in the Anthropocene. Against and beyond theology’s blindness to the living creature

08:30-10:30 - Sala Marconi - Aemilia Hotel

“All transcendence is animal”, states the German novelist Thomas Mann. Christian Theology however seems to have forgotten about animals. Animals represent a different kind of liveliness and the competence to deal with otherness starts with them. Is such an anthropocentrism of our culture an immediate consequence of Christian Theology? Considering contemporary approaches in e.g. sociological, philosophical or ethical perspectives that come to rediscover animals, we need to ask why they are still overlooked and almost invisible in theological reasoning. What can theology therefore learn from different disciplines and areas of science, which approaches and methodologies could be adapted theologically? The quest to find elements of an „Animal Theology” is leading through the Bible, through hagiography and Christian art. Finally it leads right into the heart of Theology: What is lacking about God when we lack the animals?

Mysticism and Human Sciences

In this panel we will discuss contemporary approaches to mysticism and human sciences. We are convinced of the fact that both mysticism and science, begin from interior experience of certain persons. This subjective experience in order to be objective science, must conform to established rules and laws accepted by scientific community. In Italy, international migrations have experienced an extraordinary evolution both in the volume of flows and in their composition, with a growing incidence of family members and humanitarian migrants. Within this complex phenomenology, the factors connected with religious affiliations play a more significant role than is shown by official data. Moreover, religious affiliations/values are crucial factors in the integration process, especially through the mediation of the family and faith-based organizations. However, studies focusing on these aspects are very few and their results have not been subject to an interdisciplinary systematization, indispensable for the understanding of a very complex phenomenon. Starting from evidence collected during a multi-disciplinary study aimed at filling this knowledge gap, this panel will focus on the following topics:

- Religious belongings and tolerance as reported by ArabBarometer;
- Religion and religious beliefs in the trajectories of (forced) migrants and asylum seekers;
- Migrants' children between family religious traditions and everyday life in a secularized society;
- The religious dimension in multiethnic schools.

Religion and identity in Post-Soviet Russia: interconnections with ethnicity

08:30-10:30 - SottoRistorante - Aemilia Hotel

The collapse of the Soviet Union has marked not only the end of an empire, but also of the multi-ethnic character of the Soviet nation. The new religious situation that has emerged in the post Soviet Russia was nevertheless shaped by both the Soviet and the Pre-Soviet period. One of the main inheritance from the pre-Soviet period is the connection between religion and ethnicity, that in Russia has deep historical roots and was integral to the identity. Orthodoxy is considered the true religion of the Slavs – heirs of those nations that did accept the baptism under the Greek rite and did not lose their identity under the influence of Latinization. Religious affiliation was therefore often ascribed on the basis of the birth within a particular ethnic group, therefore religion is often considered as the expression of a cultural tradition. This panel aims to grasp the relation between ethnic identity and religion, its influence on Russian external policy and on the interfaith dialogue.

The Interreligious Potential of the Buddha Nature Doctrine

Panel organized on behalf of the European Network of Buddhist Christian Studies (ENBCS)

08:30-10:30 - Sala Arancio - FsCIRE

Mahāyāna Buddhism developed the idea that all sentient beings participate in the Buddha nature, that is, have the seed of full awakening in themselves. The panel presents four case studies which inquire into the inter-religious potential of this teaching. Fabian Völker looks at the Buddhist critique of the eternal Self (ātman) and the various debates about the similarities and/or dissimilarities of the Hindu ātman and the concept of Buddha nature. Perry Schmidt-Leukel discusses the striking parallels between Śāntideva’s concept of bodhicitta (“spirit of awkening”) and Paul’s concept of pneuma (“spirit of Christ”) and their relevance to the understanding of spiritual life. Matthias Schneider focuses on Thich Nhat Hanh’s attempt to interpret the Holy Spirit in terms of Buddha nature within the context of Nhat Hanh’s role as a “spiritual peace activist” who integrates Christianity in his global vision of mindful living. Andreas Nehring discusses the concept of Buddha nature (Bussho) in the teachings of the Japanese Risshō Kosei Kai and its relation to the school’s peace activities.

From Violence to Non-violence in a religious perspective: a long way through the centuries
08:30-10:30 - Sala Archivio - Fscire

The sociologist Mary Jackman formulated an expansive definition of violence: corporal, written or verbal actions that cause threat or injury. Numerous cases of supposed religious violence actions, such as the Thirty Years War and the French Wars of Religion, were primarily motivated by social, political, and economic issues rather than religion. The aim of this panel is to analyze some aspects concerning the U-turn from violence to non-violence: Old Testament and Church “without money and power”, papal bulls and freedom of speech and press, Luther’s invectives and tolerance, radical change of Anabaptists after Muenster rebellion, until anarchy and anarchism. The anarchism has different ideas about use of violence while the religious anarchism supports an absolute non-violence, this idea from Lev Tolstoy spread worldwide in Christian, Catholic, Hinduism, Protestant or no confessional points of view.

Interreligious education
Misunderstanding and Challenges
08:30-10:30 - Sala Bibliografia - Fscire

Europe’s society is a melting pot of various cultures and religions, not least because of the movement of workers within the European Union and the current migration from the East and the South, which leads to an increasing contact between Christians and other religious adherents, especially Muslims. In this sense, interreligious education might be an instrument of integration policy within the educational system. The learning from and with each other serves the understanding of each other’s religious beliefs and might create a proper peaceful and constructive coexistence in the long run. Therefore we want to discuss the following themes: 1. Conditions for interreligious education in different countries: national law, the role of religion in different constitutions; the status of religious education; different institutions forming teachers of religion: universities, religious congregations, academic schools, summer universities; content of religious education: curricula, handbooks, workbooks. 2. Empirical studies of religious education on behalf of interreligious aspects: quantitative research on private and state schools; qualitative research on religious lessons; (empirical) case studies on teachers’ education; best practice examples. 3. Concepts of interreligious education: dialogue of religions from a confessional point (Feldtkeller, Sundermeier); discussion of theological profiles (Woppowa); didactics of interreligious correlation (von Stosch) - didactics of interreligious respect (Jäggle); new concepts, coming out from empirical methods: Grounded Theory.

Grace and Virtue

08:30-11:30 - Refettorio - Fscire

This panel considers a broad range of figures from the Christian tradition who employ virtue-ethics in order to conceptualize the mechanics of God’s gracious activity to reconcile humanity to Godself. These papers will be inter-disciplinary, collectively drawing on conversations in analytical moral philosophy on the topics of human action, perfection, virtue, and value in concert with Christian theology. Importantly, at least half of the papers will consider Protestant figures who employ virtue-ethics in their accounts of God’s redemptive work or its effects in human creatures.

#6/346 - Panel Islam and pluralism

08:30-10:30 - Teatro San Leonardo

When entering the never ending debate on Islam, tolerance and pluralism, one is faced with a conundrum. On one hand, scholars of Islam repeatedly point at the flexibility and resources of the Islamic tradition when it comes to recognition of intra and inter-religious diversity. In the other hand, modern implementations of Islamic prescriptions are mostly confined or geared to state administrations and policies and are marked by rejection of alternative voices or positions to the point that some scholars have concluded to the incompatibility of Islam and modern governance. This panel would like to overcome this conundrum by asking how and why this gap has emerged between Islamic studies and contemporary empirical expressions of Islamic principles and highlight conditions to overcome the dilemma of either apologetic or denial of the relations between Islam and pluralism. The panelists will examine the modes of transmission of the Islamic tradition today both in majority and minority context and analyze the different meanings of plurality throughout pre and modern history. They will also discuss the existing attempts to overcome fossilized modes of thinking on tolerance and the other.

#6/329 - Panel New Research Projects in Religion and Politics

08:30-10:30 - Sala degli Specchi - Palazzo Isolani

The objective of this panel is to give an opportunity to first-year PhD students, in the field of Religion and Politics, to discuss their research projects during such an international conference. The 2019 EuARe Annual Conference, in fact, could be a place for them to meet other PhD students at the beginning of their research experience as well as early-career and distinguished scholars working in the same fields. It does not happen very often that first-year PhD students are given a chance to address such a varied network of experts and receive their feedback. The aim is not really for them to explain the (expected) results of their research, it is rather to present their new projects and the methodologies they are planning to adopt throughout their postgraduate studies.

Who detached Jesus from the cross and buried him? A history of conflicting information in early Christianity

10:45-12:45 - Sala Rubicone - Aemilia Hotel

In the narratives of Jesus’ burial, various conflicting affirmations emerge. A first series of texts states that to bury Jesus was only Joseph of Arimathea (John’s Gospel adds Nicodemus): Mark 15.43; Lk 23.52; Mt 27.58; Jn 19.38; Ev.Pt 2.3. A second series instead says that many people had buried Jesus: Mk 16: 6; Acts 13.29; Gospel of Peter 2.3-5. This contradiction obliges to ask about the sources or information on which each series of texts was based. The data that emerge from this second series of texts induce to recognize that information has long existed (formulated in different ways) according to which the deposition from the cross and the burial of Jesus were attributed to a group of Jews authorized by the Jewish authorities of Jerusalem.

Writing about religion

10:45-12:45 - Sala Canossa 1 - Aemilia Hotel

Over the centuries since the beginning of the use of the scripture, people began to write and describe religion. This was done in various ways using various literary forms. The varied, complicated and complex record, depending on civilization and cultures, was just one of the elements. It was always inscribed in a wider context, the reconstruction of which is not simple and easy today. A strictly religious or religiously constituted text was one of the components of discourse or discourses of various character. One of the most important discourses was the identity one or another of a confrontational character. Religious texts served for many different purposes. Researching and defining this goal seems to be crucial in understanding not only the context but also the text itself. This diversity is reflected in the subject matter of the panel papers: testimonies about beliefs in predicting the future (oracles), magical properties of the writing itself allowing communication with deities, organization of a medieval monastery or descriptions of the tragedy and subsequent commemoration of the event that touched representatives of various religious confessions at the same time. Different message of religion and about religion transmitted through a written record are a specific cultural element in various civilizational contexts.

Law & Religion: conscience and conformity of behaviour

10:45-12:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This panel discusses legal reconciliations of conflicting interests with regards to services provided to same-sex couples, in particular with regard to recent cases on "wedding cakes" from Northern American and European jurisdictions. While religious individuals claim that the provision of such services renders them complicit in celebrating what they believe to be sinful or morally wrong, recipients of service-refusals argue that their dignity as equal members of the political, spiritual and economic community is being undermined. Courts have been struggling to reconcile such conflicts while seeking to avoid accusations of undermining both religious freedom and equality in the public space. This panel will reflect on the rationale offered by courts in resolving such conflicts: How can respect for the equal dignity of every member of the community be reconciled with the principle of both equality and religious freedom? This panel welcomes proposals that engage with legal argumentation.

Dumitru Staniloae’s encounter with the West

10:45-12:45 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

Dumitru Stăniloae (1903-1993) has been one of the most creative Orthodox theologians of the twentieth century, yet one of the least known. His theological vision is a majestic combination of Florovsky’s neopatristic epistemology, philocalic wisdom, and Romanian folkloric elements. Still, Stăniloae never shone away from engaging with Western theology and philosophy whether critical or constructive. His theological edifice bears the marks of his encounters with Karl Rahner, Martin Buber, Karl Barth or Paul Tillich. This panel seeks to uncover the significance of these interactions for Stăniloae’s thinking. Was Stăniloae a faithful reader of Western theology and philosophy? To what extent was he influenced by theological debates in Roman Catholicism or Protestantism, especially Vatican II? How was Stăniloae’s interpretation of the Fathers impacted by the trends of Western historical criticism? How did the ecumenical interactions shape his understanding of Orthodox theology?

Buddhism and Eastern Christianity: a new conversation

10:45-12:45 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

Interreligious dialogue and comparative theology have long been the purview of scholars and practitioners of Western Christianity, in its Catholic or Protestant variants. The purpose of this panel is to encourage conversation and exchange between the different branches of Eastern Christianity and the many schools of Buddhism, including the Mahāyāna and Vajrayāna tradition as well as the older Theravada lineages.

Public Theology in Non-Christian Culture

10:45-12:45 - Sala Marconi - Fscire

Public theology is first developed in the Western world featured with Christian culture. Its attempt is to connect Christian ideas with the messy human reality in order to challenge and deepen thinking and practice of everyday life. Although the Western world featured with Christian culture has no implication of that the Western world is a Christian world and it would welcome Christian discourse in public sphere, its Christian culture does provide some kind of legitimacy and commonalities for Christian theological engagement in public sphere. In fact, theology is seen as an academic discipline in western university education and Christian festivals are still celebrated in everyday life. The research question of this panel is that if the current public theology is emerged from the Western world featured with Christian culture, what public theology in non-Christian culture would be. It can be an atheist culture (China), religions other than Christian culture (Buddhism, Hinduism and Islam).

Interreligious Debates in the Jesuit Missions in Japan, China, India and Tibet (16.-18. Ces.)

10:45-12:45 - Salottino Carducci - Aemilia Hotel

Jesuit missionaries in Asia not only studied indigenous languages, but also religions, such as Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism or Daoism, and engaged in interreligious debates with their adherents. Equipped with medieval Thomistic theology, humanities and modern sciences as well as trained in European rhetoric these ‘elite missionaries’ met their Eastern counterparts, religious intellectuals, in discussions on high and equal level. This panel investigates the forms and contents of such interreligious debates. Prof. Claudia von Collani will treat Matteo Ricci (d. 1610) and Giulio Aleni (d. 1649) in China, Dr. Markus Luber Roberto de Nobili (d. 1650) in India, Dr. Martin Repp Francisco Xavier (d. 1552) and early missionaries in Japan, and Dr. Karsten Schmidt Ippolito Desideri (d. 1733) in Tibet. These debates left lasting impacts in Asia and Europe, and their research may contribute to interreligious dialogue today.

Advancing Academic Theology within Eastern Christianity: Prospects for Enhanced Academic Quality among Eastern Christian Institutions

10:45-12:45 - Salottino Pascoli - Fscire

The academic study of theology has been partly neglected within orthodoxy as such due to political oppression and closed institutions. In the twenty first century orthodoxy is beginning to experience enough freedom for once again developing their own academic institutions. The question that new institutions are facing is quality enhancement. How is it possible to increase quality among small and fragmented institutions or in post-totalitarian societies?

Memory, Emotion, Body: Variations and Transcriptions of Sacred Heart Devotion

10:45-12:45 - Junior Suite 1 - Aemilia Hotel

The trans-disciplinary panel (historical, theological-systematic and sociological) is based on the participants’ research project “Devotion and Memory in the Sacred Heart”. Against the background of a threefold understanding of the relation of religion and memory a first focus lies on the linguistic, iconographic and ritual variations of the Sacred Heart. A long-term perspective on continuities is linked to one on discontinuities and ruptures of codes. In a second step, the Sacred Heart is examined not only as a body in its materiality, but also as lieu de mémoire and embodiment. Different forms of transcription and inscription, in art or literally on bodies (for example tattoos) - are presented in a long-term perspective. A third focus lies in the sensual, spiritual and emotional dimension of Sacred Heart Devotion, intending not least to deconstruct the binary master narrative of ratio vs. emotion. The paper links this discussion to Pope Francis’ call for a “revolution of tenderness”.

Synodality in the 21st Century: Ecumenical Perspectives

10:45-12:45 - SottoRistorante - Aemilia Hotel

In recent times there have been renewed attempts to discern the nature and practice of synodality across different churches. From inter-Orthodox gatherings to the Roman Catholic synods of 2014 and 2015 to attempts to explore new synodal ways and means across many differing communions such as Lutheranism, Anglicanism and among the Reform churches. There are profound ecclesiological and practical implications to Pope Francis’ statement that synodality is ‘a constitutive element of the Church’, along with his reiteration of the words of St. John Chrysostom that ‘Church and Synod are synonymous’. What does synodality mean today? What new and renewed forms of ecclesial discernment and engagement can best help promote and widen synodality today? What ecclesial structures and interactions are necessary to promote such synodality for these times? How can synodality be expressed and exercised in ecumenical fashion today?

A number of states’ laws restrict access to public space, and on appearance in that space, for individuals with religious identities. Laws which have been challenged in the European Court of Human Rights include the French burqa ban, and restrictions on the crucifix wearing in corporate spaces in the UK. Other laws either mandate or prohibit the display of religious symbols in public space. One striking example is the 2009 Swiss ban on the building of minarets. Whilst the nature and justifiability of these laws and others like them have been discussed for some time, there are good reasons to continue this discussion now. First, some of the recent laws are novel in their scope and effects. Second, it is possible that new ways of conceptualizing these laws have emerged. Third, inside the religious groups themselves there has been a lively debate about them. The aim of this panel is to discuss the public place of religious symbols and identities in light of these developments.

One of the major challenges for Europe today is the multi-facet reality of migration. Not only do people come to Europe due to a variety of reasons (violence, conflict and persecution, poverty, starvation, pollution, environmental degradation) - but there is a new quality of mobility within and beyond the European continent that intensifies the experience of growing religious plurality. Moreover, migration intensifies the tension between globalism and nationalism, ethnic and European, or global identity. While there are loud voices that portray Christianity as a European identity marker, there is additionally disregard of the fact that the Christian faith was shaped also by experiences of exile and fleeing. How are then Christians to respond to these challenges? Where does Christian identity lie? How are Christians to relate to today's neighbour and stranger? What are the spiritual challenges? Daniele Santarelli and Domizia Weber, La Riforma protestante in 100 date, Della Porta Editori, 2017

11:00-12:00 - PIANO TERRA, 116 - FSCIRE

The aim of this proposal is presenting the book La Riforma protestante in 100 date (Della Porta, Pisa 2017) that deals with the most meaningful dates of the Protestant Reformation starting from 1517 and ending in the late '90s of the XVIIth century. In order to promote discussion and to give an exhaustive view of the main issues, of the historical background and of the consequences the Reformation led to, especially in the Mediterranean areas, we are also making some highlights on the volume I giudici della fede: l’Inquisizione romana e i suoi tribunali in età moderna (CLORI, Florence 2017) meant to be a reference point for scholars, students and enthusiasts of the Roman Inquisition as it provides a detailed list of the inquisitors of every local inquisitorial seat in early modern Italy. Both volumes integrate erudition, archival data and high divulgation; they dialogue with the online site www.ereticopedia.org whose consultation can provide an “expansion” of these volumes.

Francesca Bocca, Un Corano che cammina. Fondamenti di filosofia dell’educazione islamica, didattica e pedagogia, Studium, 2019.

11:45-12:45 - TEOLOGOS SAN LEONARDO

“How was the personality of the Prophet?” “He was like a walking Qur’an”. On this hadīth, well-known and often-cited throughout the Muslim world, draws its foundation the Islamic concept of education; an effort to lead the child towards Quranic principles, following the example of the Prophet himself. The first part of the book will gather and contextualize the primary sources on education from the Qur’an and ahadīth; a historical overview – of both the medieval treatises written on the topic and the institutions of learning – will follow, trying to pinpoint the influences on the religious sources on both. The second part of the book will show the development of Islamic educational thought in the modern period, contextualizing them in the wider currents of theological and philosophical reformation. Finally, a novel theoretical frame for child education, based on both Islamic sources and developmental psychology will be introduced.

The tensions and/or accommodations between religious freedom and secular public spheres

Individuality and community are two key aspects of human existence, two different loci for identity, responsibility, religious practices, and spiritual relations. Their relationship is an ancient and enduring religious concern and basic to modern discussions of freedom, solidarity, ethics, and social change. It is newly challenged by the reorganization of human existence on a global scale and by such new technologies as gene editing and artificial intelligence that challenge what it means to be an individual human and for humans to live in community.

Religion and Nationalism: Across Traditions and Political Cultures

Nationalism is not simply an ideology: it is also a set of practices by which territory, political power and the cultural identity of the people that inhabit this territory are constituted in a unique and singular fact. The religious dimension of nationalism has been infrequently analyzed by historians and even less so by social scientists who have operated under the influence of theories of modernization and hence perceived nationalism and religion as incompatible. In the last three decades however, with the growth of religious claims in diverse national and international contexts, new scholarship has emerged on the connections between religion and nationalism. The two panels will present this new scholarship. In the first panel, the historical evolution of religion and nationalism in Europe and the USA will be discussed. The second one will address the diffusion of the nation-state outside the West as well as atypical experiences like ISIS or the ASEAN region.

Over the centuries since the beginning of the use of the scripture, people began to write and describe religion. This was done in various ways using various literary forms. The varied, complicated and complex record, depending on civilization and cultures, was just one of the elements. It was always inscribed in a wider context, the reconstruction of which is not simple and easy today. A strictly religious or religiously constituted text was one of the components of discourse or discourses of various character. One of the most important discourses was the identity one or another of a confrontational character. Religious texts served for many different purposes. Researching and defining this goal seems to be crucial in understanding not only the context but also the text itself. This diversity is reflected in the subject matter of the panel papers: testimonies about beliefs in predicting the future (oracles), magical properties of the writing itself allowing communication with deities, organization of a medieval monastery or descriptions of the tragedy and subsequent commemoration of the event that touched representatives of various religious confessions at the same time. Different message of religion and about religion transmitted through a written record are a specific cultural element in various civilizational contexts.

Modern Philosophy of Religion: Topics - Methods - Concepts

Conference organised by The European Society for Philosophy of Religion (ESPR)

14:30-16:30 - Sala Felsina - Aemilia Hotel

Philosophy of Religion is one of the major European ways to reflect on the meaning of religion in general, but as well to discuss philosophically all the questions of life, which are part of religions. This panel is organised by the European Society for Philosophy of Religion (ESPR) and wants to bring together people from different backgrounds to give space for a joint reflection on topics, methods and concepts of today’s Philosophy of Religion.

Eastern Christianity in the intersection between theology and anthropology

14:30-16:30 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

Anthropological research on Orthodox Christianity, as on most of the dominant cultures of “the margins of Europe”, has been limited. Religion, however, cannot be understood outside its social and historic context. As we can see in fieldwork research, the formation of nation-states out of the gradual collapsing of the Ottoman Empire, in the 19th century, created new understandings of religion. The autocephalous Orthodox Church of Greece is such an example, being united with the official state and occasionally even clashing with its spiritual leader, the Patriarchate of Constantinople. Similar phenomena can be observed, for instance, in the re-emergence of the Russian Church after the collapse of the Soviet system, or in the communitarian organization of Orthodox Churches in Middle East.

Defining Scientology: the Courts, the Media, and Scientology TV

14:30-16:30 - Salottino Carducci - Aemilia Hotel

Scientology is perhaps the most controversial new religious movement today. Is it really a religion? Or is just a commercial enterprise, or a "cult" preying on the gullible? The panel explores how the battle for defining Scientology is not fought only in courts of law, as important as the latter may be. The media also play a crucial role. The panel discusses court decisions, as well as how the media portray Scientology, and Scientology's attempt at building its own media, including the ambitious Scientology TV, launched in 2018.

The Alternative as the Real: Canon, Translation, and “Alternative” Histories of Salvation

14:30-16:30 - Salottino Pascoli - Aemilia Hotel

Contemporary Western thought rigidly categorizes narratives as either ‘fiction’ or ‘non-fiction’. History is considered non-fiction, and scientific methodologies guarantee the accuracy and objectivity of ‘real history’ over-against mythical or fictive narratives. For Christian fundamental theology however, the concept of a ‘history of salvation’ must include a more nuanced interrelation between fiction and history. This interrelation includes the alternative histories that appear through mediation, translation, and the establishment of the scriptural canon. The in-breaking of the Kingdom of God occurs through our contact with ‘the real’ at the intersection of empirical and alternative histories. This panel will explore different aspects of the problem of alternative history from fundamental, scriptural, political, and sacramental perspectives. We will consider how such histories mediate ‘the real’ without becoming ideological or dualistic forms of meta-history.

Wars of Religion / The Religions of War

14:30-16:30 - JUNIOR SUITE 1 - AEMILIA HOTEL

The aim of the Panel is to continue the discussion begun with scholars as part of the previous edition of the European Academy of Religion concerning the nature of the Thirty Years War. The aim over the years has been to set up an observatory over the relative historiography of the phenomenon of religious wars. In contrast to the 2018 edition, the chronological arc this year will be extended to include the French Wars of Religion. In addition to a bibliographic overview, thematic convergences will be treated, such as dual loyalty (to the king and the state), the relations between princes and the elite, and the piety of the soldiers.

Jews and Christians under Imperial Rule: From Antiochus IV to Trajan

14:30-16:30 - JUNIOR SUITE 2 - AEMILIA HOTEL

We investigate the cross-fertilisation between Second Temple Judaism and early Christianity and the political, cultural and economic structures of the empires under which they flourished. The topics discussed focus on how Hellenistic and Roman imperial rules contributed to the shaping of Jewish and Christian identities from the Seleucids to the age of Trajan. We host papers on such themes as Jewish and Christian reactions to emperor and ruler worship, the reception of Hellenistic and Roman socio-economic structures, and the interaction between Judaism and early Christianity and philosophical, literary and legal schools of the time.

Post-secular Condition: Postmodernity, Postmetaphysics, Postsecularity

14:30-16:30 - SOTTORISTORANTE - AEMILIA HOTEL

In the last decades of 20th century some scholars (Habermas, Caputo, Taylor) had acknowledged that in spite of widespread belief according to which the secularization is inescapable effect of modernization, religion in contemporary Western culture is influential again. It seems however that the restitution of religion's cultural relevance doesn't mean the simple return to the pre-secular state. The situation can be signified (paraphrasing the title of J.-F. Lyotard's study "Postmodern Condition") as "Post-secular Condition". This panel proposes to discuss an interconnection between the post-secularity, postmodernism and post-metaphysics. The topic of discussion may include (but are not limited to): the linking of manifestations of post-secularity in different areas of culture with the post-metaphysical ontology, a modification of the relationship between Sacred and Secular, the motivations of rehabilitation of myth, ethical and esthetical implications of post-secularity.

Theological Approaches to Islam and Gender: Historical and Contemporary Assessments

14:30-16:30 - SALA ARANCIO - FSCIRE

This panel welcomes contributions related to the theme of Islam and Gender. Aiming to provide a wide purview to this exhaustive topic, contributions from theology (Islamic Theological Studies and/or Interreligious Theology) as well as Islamic or Religious Studies are most welcome. Contributions may refer to primary sources such as the Qur'an, Hadith, Sira and classical writings in kalam, tasawwuf or more recent and contemporary approaches. In all cases, attempting to understand the manner in which gender has been conceived, practiced or reproduced within the religion is the focus of this panel.

Living Together in Diversity: Law, Religion, and Tradition

14:30-16:30 - SALA ARCHIVIO - FSCIRE

This panel explores the concept of tradition both within religious, political and legal contexts. It considers the right to freedom of religion as a tool to facilitate the protection of tradition and through this the protection of individual and group identity - exploring ways in which constitutional theory can accommodate plural living together within society. It then identifies how tradition can be manipulated by the state to exclude forms of belief and destroy the identity of specific groups by interrogating the view that traditions can be manufactured. It will seek to analyse how conceptions of traditional religion are utilised by the State to regulate and control non-traditional religious groups.

Europe's society is a melting pot of various cultures and religions, not least because of the movement of workers within the European Union and the current migration from the East and the South, which leads to an increasing contact between Christians and other religious adherents, especially Muslims. In this sense, interreligious education might be an instrument of integration policy within the educational system. The learning from and with each other serves the understanding of each other's religious beliefs and might create a proper peaceful and constructive coexistence in the long run. Therefore we want to discuss the following themes: 1. Conditions for interreligious education in different countries: national law, the role of religion in different constitutions; the status of religious education; different institutions forming teachers of religion: universities, religious congregations, academic schools, summer universities; content of religious education: curricula, handbooks, workbooks. 2. Empirical studies of religious education on behalf of interreligious aspects: quantitative research on private and state schools; qualitative research on religious lessons; (empirical) case studies on teachers' education; best practice examples. 3. Concepts of interreligious education: dialogue of religions from a confessional point (Feldtkeller, Sundermeier); discussion of theological profiles (Woppowa); didactics of interreligious correlation (von Stosch) - didactics of interreligious respect (Jäggle); new concepts, coming out from empirical methods: Grounded Theory.

For centuries the parish has been the center of the religious, as well as of the social and cultural life of Catholic population. It was the privileged place where people expressed their faith participating in common rites and activities, shared the same religious beliefs and way of life. In the 1950s the rise of consumerism and of a pluralistic society deeply affected parish traditions and core values. The present book, focusing on the case study of a Swiss Canton (Ticino) and on the changes that occurred in the ever-day life of its churchgoers, aims to highlight the main factors that led to the “crisis” of the parish. We consider this crisis also an important indicator of the changing times and of the general process of modernization. A process that crossed the local boundaries of a single parish and country, globally affecting the Catholic Church.

Global Catholicism: A Pope of Disruption in an Age of Disruption?

14:30-16:30 - Teatro San Leonardo

What are the trajectories of global Catholicism in this present age of disruption? We see disruption as indicative of our time: political (crisis of representative democracy and the nation state), social (social inequality and collapse of intermediate bodies between state and individual), and economic (income disparities and a declining middle class). We envision papers exploring emerging ecclesial-theological-social developments around such disruptions in various contexts, including:

1. A country or region
2. Transnational ecclesial movements (for example, the Neo-Catechumenate, Focolare, or San’Egidio)
3. Ecclesial responses from the Holy See, bishops’ conferences, or bishops and dioceses
4. Catholic-related political parties or social movements
5. Emerging reflections of Catholic intellectuals and cultural networks.

Each paper should be comparative at some level, considering another case within world Catholicism, whether briefly or in-depth, thereby rounding out the argument.

Transcendentalism and Anthropomorphism: The Assimilation of Conflicting Discourses in Islamic Thought (10th - 14th centuries)

14:30-16:30 - Sala della Memoria - Ateliersì

The primary aim of this panel is to analyze the theological and political controversies that shaped the perception of God in Islamic thought from the 10th to the 14th centuries. This time-span represents the culmination of Islamic theology and philosophy. By spotlighting the debates that occurred in the major centers of Islamic studies, from Spain in the west to Afghanistan in the east, we will define the patterns of communication and images in two main theological discourses in Islam: the rationalistic discourse on transcendentalism (tanzih) and the traditionalistic discourse on anthropomorphism (tashbih) and immanence (hulul). The panel’s main research question is: How did Muslims describe the indescribable and imagine the unimaginable? The interplay of traditionalism and rationalism, the role that the verbal, gestural, and visual images of God played in the political history of Islam, and Islam’s tolerance of these images, all branch from this question.

The long run of religious freedom in multicultural Italy

14:30-16:30 - Sala degli Specchi - Palazzo Isolani

Current debate on religious freedom is emerging to the fore in multicultural and multireligious Italy, where xenophobic and racist movements are strengthening their discourse on the media and in public debate, thus making it difficult to discuss this important issue in its complexity. Religious freedom is assured by the Italian Constitution and by the European Union with antidiscrimination laws. The panel wants first to highlight the long run of religious freedom in multicultural Italy, critically focusing on 1848-49 when Waldensians and Hebrews gained civil and political rights, and on the Italian Constitution after World War II (art. 7 and 8, 19 and 20). In the last thirty years, Italian multicultural society has widely changed in religious diversity, thus including migrants (some already second and third generation) and different family models. The panel will address critical matters with questions on pluralism and on religious freedom for all.

#6/340.2 - Panel

Global history and the study of religion. New methodologies and historical trajectories

14:30-16:30 - Sala dell’Archivio - Palazzo Isolani

In the last decades, global history has been undergoing increasing favor within the academia. This historiographical approach highlights cultural processes of interaction, appropriation, exchange, and eventually conflict among peoples and local cultures. It offers therefore a unique point of departure for the study of religion in historical perspective. Whereas some religious traditions are transnational, others are more localized; some are outreaching, others are introverted. How is global history referring to the study of religions? How do we narrate a global history which comprises a sound treatment of religious practices and beliefs? In order to answer some of these questions we invite proposals focusing on themes related to religious symbols, norms, objects, and human agents and their circulations within the context of empires or national systems. Contributions shall combine historical material or case studies with reflections on the larger historiographical issue.

6/439 - Roundtable
Dialogue 4.0: The Role of Religious Communities in Fostering Inclusive Societies and Sustainable Development
Organised by ISPI, the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation & EuARe, with the support of Fscire

15:00-17:00 - Oratorio di San Giovanni Battista dei Fiorentini, Sala di rappresentanza Banca di Bologna

As the world is said to be on the cusp of a fourth industrial revolution, or Industry 4.0, do we need a dialogical revolution, or Dialogue 4.0, that is a new era of interreligious dialogue and collaboration to help humankind foster inclusive societies and sustainable development worldwide? In an ever more polarized world, should policymakers see religious actors as partners in building long-term strategies to foster pluralism, social cohesion and sustainable development?

Confirmed Speakers:
• Emanuela Claudia Del Re (Italian Deputy-Minister Of Foreign Affairs And International Cooperation)
• Kristina Arriaga (Us Commission For International Religious Freedom)
• Craig Calhoun (Arizona State University)
• Yahya Sergio Yahe Pallavicini (Coreis Islamic Religious Community Of Italy)

Teresa Bartolomei, Radix Matrix: Community Belonging and the Ecclesial Form of Universalistic Communitarism, Lisbon, Universidade Católica Editora, 2018

15:45-16:45 - Piano Terra, 116 - Fscire

Citizenship can be a central category for rebuilding and renewing democracy, since it best compounds a liberal recognition of the primacy of individual rights with a recognition of the Republican duties generated by belonging to a political community. How to combine, however, the universalizing dynamics of individual rights with the particularistic dynamics typical of the responsibility-bond of communitarian traditions? To get out of this divarication, it may be useful to resort to a notion of community belonging as a factor of inclusive and emancipatory universalization, not of exclusive and regressive particularism. This notion finds one of its strongest ideal and historical expressions in Christian ecclesiality. In this framework, the principle of inclusion proves to be a highly demanding normative criterion of scrutiny of the legitimacy of the foundational values of historical communities, on the basis of their consistency with this social function of community belonging.

Nationalism is not simply an ideology: it is also a set of practices by which territory, political power and the cultural identity of the people that inhabit this territory are constituted in a unique and singular fact. The religious dimension of nationalism has been infrequently analyzed by historians and even less so by social scientists who have operated under the influence of theories of modernization and hence perceived nationalism and religion as incompatible. In the last three decades however, with the growth of religious claims in diverse national and international contexts, new scholarship has emerged on the connections between religion and nationalism. The two panels will present this new scholarship. In the first panel, the historical evolution of religion and nationalism in Europe and the USA will be discussed. The second one will address the diffusion of the nation-state outside the West as well as atypical experiences like ISIS or the ASEAN region.

In quella che oggi appare sotto molte evidenze una crisi del carattere solida ed inclusivo delle democrazie, e un ritorno alle forme più autarchiche del potere, torna come un monito la famosa espressione bonhoefferiana di una nuova ma non inedita “grande mascherata del male che sta scompaginando tutti i concetti etici”.

Certo, non siamo probabilmente alla vigilia di giorni mostruosi come quelli in cui visse e scrisse il teologo luterano, ovvero nell’ontanato 1942 in Germania. Ma la storia non si ripete mai identica, ed è capace ancora oggi con fedeltà luciferina di reinventare narrazioni tanto potenti quanto violenti che esaltino l’animo inquieto dei popoli. Quale posto ha in tutto ciò la menzogna? In che modo essa attraversa tutte le forme del potere, da quello politico a quello religioso salvo mostrare il suo esito ferale solo al termine di un lungo sabotaggio collettivo dei destini del mondo…? E come disconoscere, pur non dimeno, la funzione maieutica e in certo modo virtuosa che la menzogna ha giocato in determinati frangenti?

Di questo discuteremo insieme ai nostri ospiti.

Negotiating the Soviet Past: Memory, Politics and Religion in Russia
16:45-18:45 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This working group addresses a variety of issues related to the ways the Soviet past is negotiated in post-Soviet Russia: it is still ambivalent whether the “post” in this name means break or continuity. Our group intends to understand what it means exactly, given the complex repulsion/nostalgia attitudes we can observe towards it. Religion is one of the major factors in this memory work. It has to do with a moral and theological assessment of the sovietness as clenched between the images of heroics, power and the catastrophe of GULAG. Religion conceived as a chain of memory, is central in negotiating the place of the Soviet past within the longue durée history of Russia, since it is involved in the debates around the content of tradition. We invite to this working group all those who study various aspects of how religion is engaged with the memory and legacy of the Soviet past: it includes groups or individual of any confession, secular state-sponsored, public or private associations.

Eastern Christianity in the intersection between theology and anthropology
16:45-18:45 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

Anthropological research on Orthodox Christianity, as on most of the dominant cultures of “the margins of Europe”, has been limited. Religion, however, cannot be understood outside its social and historic context. As we can see in fieldwork research, the formation of nation-states out of the gradual collapsing of the Ottoman Empire, in the 19th century, created new understandings of religion. The autocephalous Orthodox Church of Greece is such an example, being united with the official state and occasionally even clashing with its spiritual leader, the Patriarchate of Constantinople. Similar phenomena can be observed, for instance, in the re-emergence of the Russian Church after the collapse of the Soviet system, or in the communitarian organization of Orthodox Churches in Middle East.

The biblical figures outside the Bible in Judaism, Christian and Islam

16:45-18:45 - Sala Bibiena - Aemilia Hotel

Contemporary Western thought rigidly categorizes narratives as either ‘fiction’ or ‘non-fiction’. History is considered non-fiction, and scientific methodologies guarantee the accuracy and objectivity of ‘real history’ over-against mythical or fictive narratives. For Christian fundamental theology however, the concept of a ‘history of salvation’ must include a more nuanced interrelation between fiction and history. This interrelation includes the alternative histories that appear through mediation, translation, and the establishment of the scriptural canon. The in-breaking of the Kingdom of God occurs through our contact with ‘the real’ at the intersection of empirical and alternative histories. This panel will explore different aspects of the problem of alternative history from fundamental, scriptural, political, and sacramental perspectives. We will consider how such histories mediate ‘the real’ without becoming ideological or dualistic forms of meta-history.

Wars of Religion / The Religions of War
16:45-18:45 - JUNIOR SUITE 1 - AEMILIA HOTEL

The aim of the Panel is to continue the discussion begun with scholars as part of the previous edition of the European Academy of Religion concerning the nature of the Thirty Years War. The aim over the years has been to set up an observatory over the relative historiography of the phenomenon of religious wars. In contrast to the 2018 edition, the chronological arc this year will be extended to include the French Wars of Religion. In addition to a bibliographic overview, thematic convergences will be treated, such as dual loyalty (to the king and the state), the relations between princes and the elite, and the piety of the soldiers.

Jews and Christians under Imperial Rule: From Antiochus IV to Trajan
16:45-18:45 - JUNIOR SUITE 2 - AEMILIA HOTEL

We investigate the cross-fertilisation between Second Temple Judaism and early Christianity and the political, cultural and economic structures of the empires under which they flourished. The topics discussed focus on how Hellenistic and Roman imperial rules contributed to the shaping of Jewish and Christian identities from the Seleucids to the age of Trajan. We host papers on such themes as Jewish and Christian reactions to emperor and ruler worship, the reception of Hellenistic and Roman socio-economic structures, and the interaction between Judaism and early Christianity and philosophical, literary and legal schools of the time.

Post-secular Condition: Postmodernism, Postmetaphysics, Postsecularity

16:45-18:45 • SottoRistorante • Aemilia Hotel

In the last decades of 20th century some scholars (Habermas, Caputo, Taylor) had acknowledged that in spite of widespread belief according to which the secularization is inescapable effect of modernization, religion in contemporary Western culture is influential again. It seems however that the restitution of religion's cultural relevance doesn’t mean the simple return to the pre-secular state. The situation can be signified (paraphrasing the title of J.-F. Lyotard’s study “Postmodern Condition”) as “Post-secular Condition”. This panel proposes to discuss an interconnection between the post-secularity, postmodernism and post-metaphysics. The topic of discussion may include (but are not limited to): the linking of manifestations of post-secularity in different areas of culture with the post-metaphysical ontology, a modification of the relationship between Sacred and Secular, the motivations of rehabilitation of myth, ethical and esthetical implications of post-secularity.

Theological Approaches to Islam and Gender: Historical and Contemporary Assessments

16:45-18:45 • Sala Arancio • Fscire

This panel welcomes contributions related to the theme of Islam and Gender. Aiming to provide a wide purview to this exhaustive topic, contributions from theology (Islamic Theological Studies and/or Interreligious Theology) as well as Islamic or Religious Studies are most welcome. Contributions may refer to primary sources such as the Qur’an, Hadith, Sira and classical writings in kalam, tasawwuf or more recent and contemporary approaches. In all cases, attempting to understand the manner in which gender has been conceived, practiced or reproduced within the religion is the focus of this panel.

Europe's society is a melting pot of various cultures and religions, not least because of the movement of workers within the European Union and the current migration from the East and the South, which leads to an increasing contact between Christians and other religious adherents, especially Muslims. In this sense, interreligious education might be an instrument of integration policy within the educational system. The learning from and with each other serves the understanding of each other's religious beliefs and might create a proper peaceful and constructive coexistence in the long run. Therefore, we want to discuss the following themes:

1. Conditions for interreligious education in different countries: national law, the role of religion in different constitutions; the status of religious education; different institutions forming teachers of religion: universities, religious congregations, academic schools, summer universities; content of religious education: curricula, handbooks, workbooks.

2. Empirical studies of religious education on behalf of interreligious aspects: quantitative research on private and state schools; qualitative research on religious lessons; (empirical) case studies on teachers' education; best practice examples.

3. Concepts of interreligious education: dialogue of religions from a confessional point (Feldtkeller, Sundermeier); discussion of theological profiles (Woppowa); didactics of interreligious correlation (von Stosch); didactics of interreligious respect (Jäggle); new concepts, coming out from empirical methods: Grounded Theory.

In this panel, we will discuss the current state of affairs in one of the more recent branches of theology. Briefly put, liturgical theology studies the meaning of Christian ritual, prayer, and worship practices. As a consequence, a lot of factors have to be taken into account, e.g. denominational, historical, anthropological, and cultural ones. As such a diversity of approaches and perspectives, as well as a certain fluidity with regard to its scope, goal, and research results, are intrinsic to this reflective and outstandingly theological discipline. In this panel, three scholars from three different theological faculties will approach liturgical theology from three different perspectives: a fundamental (Prof. Dr. Joris Geldhof), an anthropological (Prof. Dr. Thomas Quartier OSB) and a pastoral one (Dr. S. Transcendentalism and Anthropomorphism: The Assimilation of Conflicting Discourses in Islamic Thought (10th - 14th centuries)

16:45-18:45 - Sala della Memoria - Ateliersì

The primary aim of this panel is to analyze the theological and political controversies that shaped the perception of God in Islamic thought from the 10th to the 14th centuries. This time-span represents the culmination of Islamic theology and philosophy. By spotlighting the debates that occurred in the major centers of Islamic studies, from Spain in the west to Afghanistan in the east, we will define the patterns of communication and images in two main theological discourses in Islam: the rationalistic discourse on transcendentalism (tanzih) and the traditionalistic discourse on anthropomorphism (tashbih) and immanence (hulul). The panel’s main research question is: How did Muslims describe the indescribable and imagine the unimaginable? The interplay of traditionalism and rationalism, the role that the verbal, gestural, and visual images of God played in the political history of Islam, and Islam’s tolerance of these images, all branch from this question.

Global Catholicism: Social Movement or Legal Establishment?

16:45-18:45 - Teatro San Leonardo

What are the trajectories of global Catholicism in this present age of disruption? We see disruption as indicative of our time: political (crisis of representative democracy and the nation state), social (social inequality and collapse of intermediate bodies between state and individual), and economic (income disparities and a declining middle class). We envision papers exploring emerging ecclesial-theological-social developments around such disruptions in various contexts, including:

1. A country or region
2. Transnational ecclesial movements (for example, the Neo-Catechumenate, Focolare, or Sant’Egidio)
3. Ecclesial responses from the Holy See, bishops’ conferences, or bishops and dioceses
4. Catholic-related political parties or social movements
5. Emerging reflections of Catholic intellectuals and cultural networks.

Each paper should be comparative at some level, considering another case within world Catholicism, whether briefly or in-depth, thereby rounding out the argument.

Transnational networks of contemporary Hispanic Catholicism

Hispanic Catholicism and the United States

Conference organised with the Spanish Association of Contemporary Religious History, Asociación Española de Historia Religiosa Contemporánea (AEHRC)

08:30-10:30 - Sala Rubicone - Aemilia Hotel

This panel wishes to pay a tribute to the memory of the late founding member of the AEHRC, Professor Feliciano Montero García (1948-2018), a great inspiration to so many of us.

The history of networks created by Hispanic Catholics is crucial to the understanding of contemporary World Catholicism. Hispanic Catholics have played an important role in the creation of transnational networks, including the secular clergy, religious congregations or/and secular organizations. One of the key tropes that defined this transnational catholic imaginary is the ideology of “Hispanidad”. Meaning slightly different things to different groups at different times, the concept presupposes the existence of a transnational (often Transatlantic and/or Pan-American) spiritual brotherhood. This ideology was strongly marked by the legacy of the colonial past, that is, by the persistence of the relationship that linked the old metropolis to its former possessions in America, Asia and Africa. Although this transnational identity was rather vague, it decisively conditioned the intricate relations (diplomatic, spiritual) established with other non-Hispanic Catholics from Western Europe and the United States. This panel wishes to explore this noteworthy historical experience. Besides, by exposing the relevance and complexity of these networks we also wish to open a historiographical debate over the limits of the pervading national framework that has traditionally been used by historians to approach the study of Contemporary Hispanic Catholicism.

Theology and Literature in an open dialogue

08:30-10:45 - Sala Bononia - Aemilia Hotel

The relationship of the academic fields of Theology and Literature returns to the forefront of Cultural Studies; a recent sample of this recurrence is the publication of The Cambridge Companion to Literature and Religion (2016). New researchers exploit the findings of older ones (e.g. N. Frye etc) - while there are academic journals specialized to this issue (Literature and Theology, Oxford). We propose a panel which will focus on the following questions: on what terms can Theology and Literature come to a dialogue? Can we discuss about religion and religiousness in the context of (post)modernity? We propose a specialization in Literature of the 20th c. Writers from all the countries of the world have investigated their relation with what we call "religiousness". From Goethe to Rilke, Eliot etc. Catholics or Protestants, Jews or Christian Orthodox, these writers have used the Bible and other religious texts as the base of their works and they came to an open dialogue with these “sacred”.

The conscientious objection is traditionally linked to some contexts, as mandatory military service and abortion. Nevertheless, even if in some Countries those issues are yet discussed, there are also other emerging questions: as assisted reproduction techniques, same-sex marriages, mandatory health treatments, adoption of children by non-traditional families. In all these cases there are different rights in competition, as religious freedom, non-discrimination, health protection, best interest of the child, and others.

The panel will examine the topic of the conscientious objection from different points of view:
1. Theoretical basis of the conscientious objection and its protection;
2. The conscientious rights in religious laws;
3. The jurisprudence concerning the conscientious objection;
4. Old and new shapes of the conscientious objection.

Speaking, Discussing, Doing Ecumenism. Life and History of the Ecumenical Journals

09:00-11:30 - SALA LETTURA - Fscire

Ecumenism has always been animated by a large number of different souls. Every one of these incarnated – and still incarnate – a different aspect of the ecumenical movement, differing from one another by a large number of characteristics. Nevertheless, all have the same need: to be interconnected, and to have a platform to discuss and contribute to the common cause. In this aspect, journals have had a crucial role in the history of ecumenism: most of the institutions and the movements that compose the base of the ecumenical movement found their voice in the publication, and theologians often found a public space to discuss their thesis. The panel aims to gather papers that illustrate the life and history of journals published by ecumenical institutions or movements. Each paper must touch upon both the topics of the journals’ publication history and the major arguments debated on its pages.

Vatican and liberal-democracies during the age of totalitarianism

08:30-10:30 - SALA ARCHIVIO - Fscire

The research about international relations of the Holy See during the papacy of Pius XI gave priority to the historical reenactment of the relations between the Vatican and totalitarian regimes. Actually, during the age of totalitarianism, instead of Pius XI’s strong criticism towards liberal-democracy, Vatican diplomacy succeeded in building and maintaining important relationships also with the western liberal-democratic regimes. Aiming to promote an organic and evolutionary research about the International relations between the Holy See and the liberal-democratic regimes during the papacy of Achille Ratti, this panel will shows an historical reenactment of Vatican International relations with USA, United Kingdom, France, Ireland and Weimar between the two world wars.

Mediating Religious Experience: Channelling, Transmitting, and Publishing the Encounters with the Divine throughout the Centuries and Now

08:30-11:00 - SALA RIVISTE - Fscire

Religious experience has always been a source of influence for art of every kind. People have been trying to mediate their encounters with the divine through artwork. These ‘artistic’ engagements are formally different from the scholarly ones. However, Hans-Georg Gadamer argues that the artistic interpretations of religious experience are channelling significant aspects which might be left unnoticed in standard scientific approaches. In order to explore the deepest structures of religious experience, we need to take into account both scholarly and artistic interpretations. We invite papers analysing particular films, songs, pieces of literature, fine art, and other means of artistic mediation of the religious experience. We will reflect on the following questions: What is the original input of artistic mediations of religious experience? How does the artistic mediation enrich the theological and philosophical debates?

Nineteenth Century Radical Holiness Movements in Europe: Disputed Arrivals, Perspectives and Legacies

08:30-10:30 - Refettorio - Aemilia Hotel

Immediately after the Franco-Prussian War, the Radical Holiness Movements spread quickly throughout the Europe, crossing ecclesial boundaries. Little research has been dedicated to understanding their larger European networks. This panel is the beginning of a multi-lingual, multi-disciplinary analysis. These movements have their historic and theological and praxis roots in Pietism, Methodism, elements of Orthodox patristic theology, and Catholic mysticism. They are best known by elements that became the Heiligungsbewegung, Gemeinschaftsbewegung, the Salvation Army, some Methodist churches, Pentecostalism, and the ‘Mouvement de Sanctification’ in France. These groups supported temperance movements, moral purity crusades, the sanctification of the Sabbath movement, workers’ rights and the movements known as ‘Social Christianity’ or ‘Christianisme social.’ There were significant impacts upon the older churches.

Il libro ripercorre gli atteggiamenti che le varie correnti del cristianesimo elaborarono nell’antichità riguardo agli altri culti, indaga la genesi delle prime teorizzazioni sulla libertà religiosa e di quelle sulla coercizione religiosa, nonché le giustificazioni teologiche addotte a sostegno delle une e delle altre. Cosciente della distanza che separa il moderno concetto di “tolleranza religiosa” e il pensiero teologico-politico degli antichi, l’autrice indaga le elaborazioni riguardanti, in senso lato, la libertà religiosa, nelle diverse sfumature e nei vari contesti in cui queste furono proposte, dalle origini del cristianesimo all’età teodericiana. L’approccio diaconico, in forza del recupero di correnti minoritarie e quasi carsiche, inoltre, si spinge anche con domande e possibili soluzioni al nostro difficile momento storico, esercitando l’insegnamento, che fu di Marc Bloch, di appassionarsi al presente per comprendere, nella giusta distanza, il passato.

Overpopulation, Religious Laws, and Human Rights. Exploring the Future

08:30-18:45 - SALONE DEI SENATORI - PALAZZO ISOLANI

Overpopulation is one of the most serious issues impacting both the present day and the future. It is closely connected to ecological perspectives on human life on Earth. However, the "reproductive mission" of humankind has constituted a biological and moral imperative in all cultures and especially in the Abrahamic monotheisms and their laws. Combining these two divergent 'lines of force' inevitably also produces different ways of interpreting and living human rights. The panel is designed to explore the future interplay among religious laws, human rights and the challenges of overpopulation.

The Category of Modernity: A Critical Workshop
09:30-11:30 - Sala Canossa 1 - Aemilia Hotel

This panel proposes the category of modernity as a starting point for interdisciplinary and critical discussion on how various scholars and theories define and use the categories of religion and state. While there exists a broad range of discourses and studies on the topic of modernity, the term is often segregated into disciplines and subfields, and not always critically applied. Used as an opaque measure, the category of modernity runs the risk of obscuring rather than clarifying the subject it is meant to address. What can interdisciplinary discourse contribute to this issue? This panel is an interdisciplinary workshop: individual papers should be limited to 10-15 minutes and critically address at least one theory or theorist on modernity (or a work that engages the category of modernity). In addition to this, each speaker will be asked to respond to another presenter’s paper, with the aim of building an active discussion.

Islamic Religious Education (IRE) in Italian Public Schools - What to gain from European experiences

10:45-12:45 - Sala Bibliografia - Fscire

The increasing religious diversity in Italy raises new questions about how to organize religious education. Since Muslims rank as the second largest religious community in Italy, one needs to ask how Islam could be taught in Italian public schools. Due to the lack of an agreement between the Muslim community and the Italian State, it is not possible to opt for IRE in public schools until today. Whereas Austria does offer publicly funded IRE for more than 30 years, some German States only recently started to do so and other States such as Italy still lack any recognition of Islam as such. Therefore, this panel seeks to examine different ways of organizing IRE and elaborates on successful initiatives but also on shortcomings, gaps and failures. Particularly, it focuses on the important contribution of IRE in terms of identity formation and the prevention of radicalization.

Modern-Jewish and Christian Perspectives on the Talmud

This proposed panel seeks to examine images of the Talmud, the central document of rabbinic culture, among critical viewers: It opens with a lecture on the highly hostile Nicholas of Lyra, moves to a panoramic overview of the evolving Christian (and other non-Jewish) images of the Talmud from late antiquity to the present, and ends with the renaissance of the Talmud among French and German 20th century Jewish thinkers. These thinkers sought to free themselves from the “Enlightened” prejudice toward the Talmud.

#7/428 - Keynote Lecture
In Search of a Modern Sharia Discourse of Pluralism

Because politicians and social administrators are learning the need to engage with Muslims in their self-definition as a religious community, purely secular definitions of human fulfillment and liberty must find ways of conversing with theological narratives which ground human dignity and rights in metaphysics rather than primarily in social utility. This paper will survey foundational Islamic assumptions about human diversity and measure their intelligibility to modern positivism.

Transnational networks of contemporary Hispanic Catholicism
Latin American and Transatlantic Hispanic Catholic Networks
Conference organised with the Spanish Association of Contemporary Religious History, Asociación Española de Historia Religiosa Contemporánea (AEHRC)

14:30-16:30 - Sala Rubicone - Aemilia Hotel

This panel wishes to pay a tribute to the memory of the late founding member of the AEHRC, Professor Feliciano Montero García (1948-2018), a great inspiration to so many of us.

The history of networks created by Hispanic Catholics is crucial to the understanding of contemporary World Catholicism. Hispanic Catholics have played an important role in the creation of transnational networks, including the secular clergy, religious congregations or/and secular organizations. One of the key tropes that defined this transnational catholic imaginary is the ideology of “Hispanidad”. Meaning slightly different things to different groups at different times, the concept presupposes the existence of a transnational (often Transatlantic and/or Pan-American) spiritual brotherhood. This ideology was strongly marked by the legacy of the colonial past, that is, by the persistence of the relationship that linked the old metropolis to its former possessions in America, Asia and Africa. Although this transnational identity was rather vague, it decisively conditioned the intricate relations (diplomatic, spiritual) established with other non-Hispanic Catholics from Western Europe and the United States. This panel wishes to explore this noteworthy historical experience. Besides, by exposing the relevance and complexity of these networks we also wish to open a historiographical debate over the limits of the pervading national framework that has traditionally been used by historians to approach the study of Contemporary Hispanic Catholicism.

Negotiating the Soviet Past: Memory, Politics and Religion in Russia

14:30-16:30 - Sala Canossa 2 - Aemilia Hotel

This working group addresses a variety of issues related to the ways the Soviet past is negotiated in post-Soviet Russia: it is still ambivalent whether the “post” in this name means break or continuity. Our group intends to understand what it means exactly, given the complex repulsion/nostalgia attitudes we can observe towards it. Religion is one of the major factors in this memory work. It has to do with a moral and theological assessment of the sovietness as clenched between the images of heroics, power and the catastrophe of GULAG. Religion conceived as a chain of memory, is central in negotiating the place of the Soviet past within the longue durée history of Russia, since it is involved in the debates around the content of tradition. We invite to this working group all those who study various aspects of how religion is engaged with the memory and legacy of the Soviet past: it includes groups or individual of any confession, secular state-sponsored, public or private associations.

Human Violence in Religious Contexts
14:30-16:30 - LA PIAZZA - AEMILIA HOTEL

This panel's aim is to discuss human violence in a interdisciplinary context, involving scientists, philosophers and different religions' members or scholars. It moves from the idea that, from a scientific point of view, violence is decreasing and that, from a philosophical point of view, in modern times violence involves especially ethics and politics. So the panel welcomes different religious perspectives on human violence and wants to analyse the relationship between religion and violence and the possibility of an overcoming.

Looking at a complex world through the prism of vulnerability: Ethical and theological challenges
14:30-16:30 - SALA FELSINA - AEMILIA HOTEL

The notion of “vulnerability” has emerged in recent years as a key concept to be mobilized to understand our complex world. By bringing the resources of theology into dialogue with those of other fields of research, this panel seeks to build an interdisciplinary discussion on the notion of vulnerability.

In order to make our presentations resonate together, we rely on a common definition of vulnerability, taken from Marie-Jo Thiel’s research: vulnerability is “existential porosity”. This first level of fundamental vulnerability, common to all humans, is linked to a second level of vulnerability that we call “external” or “problematic”. These two levels do not require the same approach: if the negative consequences of vulnerability are to be addressed, it is not a question of wanting to “eradicate” the intrinsic vulnerability that precedes autonomy. External vulnerability, which is problematic, leads to action reducing its threats and their exposure. And global bioethics urges us to not remain confined to the model of autonomy alone in order to open up and take into account the broader collective level, which then discovers a global vulnerability (access to water, food, medicines; ecosystem vulnerability, etc.). The various interventions within this panel will seek to bring out both how a theological approach can join this understanding of vulnerability at its two levels and reciprocally how taking into account the reality of vulnerability questions theology, in its understanding of itself and in its practices. Each speaker will explain how he or she is joined by the question of vulnerability, which theological discourse challenges him or her and how his or her practice/questioning questions theology in relation to its problematic. How does this shift its relationship to vulnerability?

The Conscientious Objection in Contemporary Multicultural Societies
Panel organized by the research group DiReSom (Diritto e Religioni nelle società multiculturali) under the patronage of ADEC (Associazione Docenti Universitari della Disciplina Giuridica del fenomeno religioso)

14:30-16:30 - Sala Marconi - Aemilia Hotel

The conscientious objection is traditionally linked to some contexts, as mandatory military service and abortion. Nevertheless, even if in some Countries those issues are yet discussed, there are also other emerging questions: as assisted reproduction techniques, same-sex marriages, mandatory health treatments, adoption of children by non-traditional families. In all these cases there are different rights in competition, as religious freedom, non-discrimination, health protection, best interest of the child, and others.

The panel will examine the topic of the conscientious objection from different points of view:
1. Theoretical basis of the conscientious objection and its protection;
2. The conscientious rights in religious laws;
3. The Jurisprudence concerning the conscientious objection;
4. Old and new shapes of the conscientious objection.

Animals in the Anthropocene. Against and beyond theology's blindness to the living creature
14:30-16:30 - Sala Canossa 1 - Aemilia Hotel

“All transcendence is animal”, states the German novelist Thomas Mann. Christian Theology however seems to have forgotten about animals. Animals represent a different kind of liveliness and the competence to deal with otherness starts with them. Is such an anthropocentrism of our culture an immediate consequence of Christian Theology? Considering contemporary approaches in e.g. sociological, philosophical or ethical perspectives that come to rediscover animals, we need to ask why they are still overlooked and almost invisible in theological reasoning. What can theology therefore learn from different disciplines and areas of science, which approaches and methodologies could be adapted theologically? The quest to find elements of an „Animal Theology“ is leading through the Bible, through hagiography and Christian art. Finally it leads right into the heart of Theology: What is lacking about God when we lack the animals?

Freedom of Religion in Context. A social-scientific approach
14:30-16:30 - Sala Arancio - Fscire

The objective of this panel is to discuss Freedom of Religion from a multi-disciplinary perspective, engaging sociologists, anthropologists and political scientists in analyzing this topic starting from the variety of socio-cultural contexts. The panel welcomes case-studies focusing on religious freedom within different socio-religious milieus and political regimes, considering new and challenging socio-cultural landscapes. We are interested in encountering how different models of secularism, the dynamics related to majority/minority status of religions and growing cultural diversity shape new perspectives and practices of religious freedom governance. The panel, organized by PhD fellows of the Joint International PhD Program in “Human Rights, Society and Multi-level Governance” at the University of Padova, seeks to encourage a growing attention to the social-scientific study of the relationship between Religion and Human Rights.

In the frame of the regulation of sanctity, the Church defined with an increasing precision the norms for the official recognition of martyrdom (Dalla Torre 1999, Giovannucci 2008). However, the figure of the martyr such as it lives in the collective imagery derives from a broader discourse involving a plurality of interlocutors. This panel tackles this discursive evolution of the idea of martyrdom within early modern and contemporary Catholicism through the prisms of legal and religious history, and semiotics. It starts from the analysis of Canon Law, with particular attention to the seminal systematisation by Prospero Lambertini (1734-38); then, it explores the complex relationship between institutional and non-institutional perspectives by making a semiotic recognition of the codification of martyrdom in the Martyrologium Romanum, in modern narratives and in contemporary theatre.

Islamic Religious Education (IRE) in Italian Public Schools - What to gain from European experiences

14:30-16:30 - Sala Bibliografia - Fscire

The increasing religious diversity in Italy raises new questions about how to organize religious education. Since Muslims rank as the second largest religious community in Italy, one needs to ask how Islam could be taught in Italian public schools. Due to the lack of an agreement between the Muslim community and the Italian State, it is not possible to opt for IRE in public schools until today. Whereas Austria does offer publicly funded IRE for more than 30 years, some German States only recently started to do so and other States such as Italy still lack any recognition of Islam as such. Therefore, this panel seeks to examine different ways of organizing IRE and elaborates on successful initiatives but also on shortcomings, gaps and failures. Particularly, it focuses on the important contribution of IRE in terms of identity formation and the prevention of radicalization.

The discussion offered in this volume sees the 'community' as central to a sustainable and ethical approach to earth and space sciences. The essays examine the role of theology in this communal approach, but recognize theology itself as part of a community of humanities disciplines. The volume acknowledges the plurality of views on the contemporary interaction between science, ethics and theology, aesthetics, philosophy of science and shows how a constructive and sustainable dialogue is needed within the current scientific climate. How the disciplines of theology and earth and space sciences can constructively communicate regarding the rapidly changing ethical challenges? How can we describe the interaction of science and ethics and theology with the view of our future as living beings on a small planet in a vast universe?

Christianity is a religion of a book. However, how does Christian faith of the 21st century connect with this book, the Bible? In the 2019-panel, our study group hopes to shed some light on the question of how different Christian denominations construct their theology from the biblical canon: Who are the participants and the pillars, and what are the patterns and processes in the development of doctrine “according to the Scriptures”? How do we transition from the canon of historical texts to the theology that guides our faith? The panel welcomes contributions from all denominations in order to investigate these particular questions from various angles.

Freedom of Religion in Context. A social-scientific approach

Ecumenism has always been animated by a large number of different souls. Every one of these incarnated – and still incarnate – a different aspect of the ecumenical movement, differing from one another by a large number of characteristics. Nevertheless, all have the same need: to be interconnected, and to have a platform to discuss and contribute to the common cause. In this aspect, journals have had a crucial role in the history of ecumenism: most of the institutions and the movements that compose the base of the ecumenical movement found their voice in the publication, and theologians often found a public space to discuss their thesis. The panel aims to gather papers that illustrate the life and history of journals published by ecumenical institutions or movements. Each paper must touch upon both the topics of the journals’ publication history and the major arguments debated on its pages.

Chair:
  • Silvia Scatena (Unimore / Fscire)

Panelists:
  • Viorel Coman (KU Leuven) - The Ecumenical Profile of the “Dieu Vivant Journal”
  • Ephrem Ishac (Fscire) - From Jerusalem and Beirut: Continuing the Ecumenical Mission of Revue Proche-Orient Chrétien (POC)
  • Giulia Casadei (Fscire) - The bulletin “Foyers mixtes” and the problem of mixed marriages

17:00-18:00 - Piano Terra, 116 - Fscire

This book explores the concept of diffused religion as it is found in contemporary society, resulting from a vast process of religious socialization that continues to pervade our cultural reality. It provides a critical engagement with a framework of non-institutional religion that is based on values largely shared in society by being diffused through primary and secondary socialization. Cipriani also contends that these very values which give form to diffused religion can also be seen in themselves as their own kind of religion. As a result, they go beyond secularization and favor the religious continuum extending around the world of diffused religions.

Please note that the identifying numbers of the panels are composed as follows:

- date of the panel (4, 5, 6, 7) - / - Number of the panel . Number of the session
(Panels can be distributed on more than one session)

e.g.  #4/009.1  ->  #4 (4th March) / 009 (Number of the panel) . 1 (Number of the session)
       #5/061  ->  #5 (5th March) / 061 (Number of the panel)
       #6/073.2 ->  #6 (6th March) / 073 (Number of the panel) . 3 (Number of the session)

Here is the index with the panels and their corresponding page on the program.
