

CHAGALL MUSEUM

NICE

«A culturally rich space»

The museum : The idea of a "house", a place of spirituality, wanted by Chagall, required a climate of serenity without the presence of a building. With the refusal of gravity that is everywhere present in the work of the artist, the architecture of Hermant responds by the sobriety of the walls and the rigor of the forms which make it possible to underline and to emphasize the art of Chagall.

The garden : In the beginning, God created the Garden of Eden It was therefore natural that a garden greets the visitor before entering the museum. The Mediterranean flora obviously has a prominent place : olive trees, cypresses, pines and holm oaks. The Chagall National Museum is the perfect place for a cultural break: exhibitions, music festivals, conferences and trade shows. But also for team cohesion: seminars, cocktails, lunch and business dinner.
